INTRODUCTION

The first wave of interest in genealogy in the United States appeared late in the 19th Century, when it became fashionable for old American families that had overcome the hardscrabble existence of the early settlers to look back from the peaks they had achieved and enjoy the view. Names and dates were attached in this way to considerable accomplishments, and much useful information was recorded for later generations of historians. But in the distances commanded by those lofty peaks, romantic mists often swirled about and obscured a clan's humbler origins.

There was nothing new in this. Selective or embroidered recollections and family pride have always gone hand in hand. As long ago as 1621, the English clergyman Robert Burton had written, "Almost in every kingdom the most ancient families have been at first princes' bastards." A taste for legitimacy, therefore, led almost inevitably to fading memories and the skipping of an ancestor or two.

No such debasement mars the diligence of the Rev. Edward Felix Jenkins, O.S.A., whose prodigious genealogical work makes its appearance at a time of renewed if more discerning national interest in ethnic and family roots. As the principal compiler of this study of eleven generations of a prolific, talented, hugely successful and philanthropic family of Maryland, Father Jenkins has devoted the spare hours of more than half a century to his task. In recent years he has been ably assisted by other family members caught up in its fascinations. No-nonsense probity and good-humored candor, as well as painstaking scholarship, are qualities suggested by their results. Not for lack of trying did they fail to trace every thread in the bulky, colorful Jenkins tapestry.

Here are 943 family units descended from Thomas Jenkins, who in 1670 proved his right to 100 acres in Charles County for having transported his wife Ann and himself to the province of Maryland. Sorting out their descendants was not made easier by the confusion of intermarriages and the repetitions of identical or similar names -- Courtney and Courtenay, Carrell and Carroll, Spalding and Spaulding among the latter. Nevertheless, the compilers of this volume have persevered, managing to present a well-organized, easy-to-follow record not only of succeeding generations named Jenkins, but of daughters' alliances as well. As the index attests, many hundreds of additional family names -- prominent clergy, industrialists, scholars and professional people included -- have sprouted from this tree as it flourished and spread through the decades.

A significant contribution of this genealogical work is the light it throws on Catholic Maryland. The 17th Century Jenkins progenitors (whether Welsh or English is still not certain) were Roman Catholics, and generations of their descendants have maintained to a remarkable degree their loyalty to the church of their forebears. It would seem indisputable that the strength of this inherited faith undergirded the self-discipline of sons who left the crowded farm to prosper in urban commerce.

Christ's admonition to the rich man in Matthew's Gospel, likening the gate of heaven to the eye of the needle, seems to have motivated many of them. Major beneficiaries of Jenkins family philanthropies included Bon Secours Hospital, Jenkins Memorial Hospital, Johns Hopkins University, Loyola College, Catholic University of America, The Maryland Institute and St. Charles Seminary. Historic parishes in Charles County that benefited from the family's support were St. Ignatius's at St. Thomas Manor near Port Tobacco (where Thomas and Ann Jenkins, the settlers, lie buried); St. Joseph's in Pomfret and St. Charles in Glymont. Other historic churches with strong family ties include Baltimore's old cathedral -- the Basilica of the Assumption -- and St. John the Evangelist at Long Green in Baltimore County.

Two of the handsomest ecclesiastical structures ever erected within the archdiocese at Baltimore are Jenkins memorials: Corpus Christi Church at Lafayette and Mount Royal Avenues, and the present St. Charles Chapel at Catonsville. (The earlier seminary chapel at Ellicott City, also built by a Jenkins, was destroyed by fire.)

James Cardinal Gibbons preached at the laying of the cornerstone of the Corpus Christi - Jenkins Memorial Church in 1886. Among his remarks were these: "To erect a church to Almighty God, my dear friends, is not only an honor to those who do so, but this act confers inestimable blessings upon posterity as well as upon the founders of this temple. It has been said with truth that the man who causes a blade of grass to grow is of benefit to posterity; and if that be so, what shall we say of those who plant the vine of the Lord so that the weary souls may come and take shelter beneath its shade and be nourished by its fruit?"

Of the Thomas Courtney Jenkins (1802-1881) whose life inspired his children to build the church, Cardinal Gibbons said: "It is erected in memory of an honored and distinguished citizen of Baltimore, whose clear mind and solid judgment, whose sterling integrity made him honored and dear to the people of Baltimore, and who went down to his grave without a stain upon his commercial character."

Such accolades are among the high points in a widely varied family landscape, but there are many other kinds. The descendants of Thomas Jenkins will find, for example, that one of their number, George Clarke Jenkins, won an Oscar for the scenic design of the motion picture about the Watergate scandal, "All The President's Men." Although men and women in the service of the Catholic Church abound, there is at least one Protestant clergyman among them: the Rev. Jack Jenkins, Jr., who ministered to Baptist congregations in Arkansas and Missouri in the latter part of the last century.

The dispassionate, seemingly indefatigable author does not turn away from any path that presents itself. While cousin marrying cousin is a commonplace in the unusually close-knit Catholic society chiefly delineated by the genealogy, seldom is Father Jenkins non-plussed, even in the tortuous byways. He finds in the 18th Century the marriage of a Spalding to his niece -- cause for a papal dispensation won by John Carroll, who became the first American-born bishop -- as well as the second marriage of a Miss Jenkins to the brother of her son-in-law. This made her the aunt of her own grandchildren, and elicited from the author a rare exclamation point.

His commentaries are a fund of engaging anecdotes and reminiscences, providing valuable as well as entertaining insights. Merely one such footnote to history is the author's recollection of his father's conversations about the apprenticeships to two Jenkins ancestors of young Henry McComas and Daniel Wells. They were the teen-agers who lost their lives after they shot and killed the English commander, General Ross, in the War of 1812.

Father Jenkins believes, quite sensibly, that lack of documentation for a family tradition is not by itself sufficient reason to discard the tradition as untrue. At the same time, when assertions do not quite add up, he does not shrink from the disappointment. At one point in his exploration of Ambrosia Jenkins Faxon's somewhat fanciful genealogical conclusions, published in 1906, he says simply: "Something is wrong here." His is a refreshing style.

John Walton, professor emeritus of education at the Johns Hopkins University and former chairman of the Committee on Genealogy and Heraldry of the Maryland Historical Society, reviewed the manuscript and determined that Father Jenkins not only had clearly distinguished tradition from documented evidence but had been alert to inconsistencies and contradictions in both. "The information with which I am familiar through other sources and the random references I have checked," Professor Walton wrote, "have convinced me that this is a reliable genealogical work."

The publication of a family history as ambitious as this one is the completion of an enormously time-consuming task, with its share of delight but with memories aplenty of frustrations and irritations along the way. It is the end of a long, twisting road that brings a sigh of relief to the voyagers and well-earned satisfaction.

But the book also is a beginning, and in this lies much of the worth of such an undertaking. Doubtless future research will uncover errors and correct them. Answers will be found to some of the intriguing questions that remain, such as why Thomas Jenkins cut off his daughter Mary with five shillings in 1726, or whether the wedding of Henry Jenkins in 1809, presided over by Bishop Carroll, was to Ann Harrion or Ann Harrison. Perhaps the missing family bible of Capt. Thomas Jenkins (1751-1821) will be discovered. Possibly Charles Welsh, the grandson of Elizabeth Jenkins and John Welsh, who were married in Baltimore in 1804. will not remain "untraced" forever.

There is plenty left for future family chroniclers to do. Surely Father Jenkins and those who helped him with the present volume have provided all the inspiration necessary.

GUIDE FOR USE

This genealogy consists of known family units numbered 1 through 943. Ten complete generations and the beginning of an eleventh are represented.

The name -- following the number -- of each family member who had children appears twice, first as a child and secondly in capital letters as a parent in the next generation.

A person's own number always precedes his or her name. In parentheses following the name is the number of the person's parent.

When the family member's name appears in the vital information and anecdotal material about that person, his or her number is not repeated. However, others who are mentioned in each text are identified by the number preceding the name. (Once again, a number following a name is that of the person's parent.)

Family members who intermarried are cross-referenced.

ABBREVIATIONS

"Born" is B. or b. "Died" is D. or d. "Married" is M. or m. "Divorced" is Div. or div. "Circa" (approximate date) is Ca or ca. Months are Jan, Feb, Mar, etc. First, second, third marriages are M. (1), M. (2), M. (3) or m. (1), m. (2), m. (3), etc. Children of a first and second marriage are identified by a number thus: Children (1), Children (2). The surname of the father is in parentheses as, for example, Children (Jenkins).

Postal Service abbreviations of states in capital letters are used throughout. When the state is not identified, the place is in Maryland.

The Author and Publisher of this work cannot be responsible for errors or omissions occurring in the work.

FIRST

THE JENKINS FAMILY HISTORY

It is a family tradition that our progenitor, Thomas Jenkins, was the son of William Jason Jenkins of Anglesey, Wales, who was the younger brother of Sir Lionel (Leoline or Llewllyn) Jenkins, who was First Lord of the Admiralty under Charles II and a friend of William Penn. As far as I know there are no documents to prove this. See Jenkins family origin for discussion.

All of the branches of our Jenkins family are descended from a young man named Thomas Jenkins, who came to Maryland with his wife Ann, in 1669 or 1670. This is well established by the following Land Grant on record at Annapolis:

> November 15, 1670, came Thomas Jenkins, of Charles County, Maryland, and proved his rights to 100 acres of land for transporting himself and wife Ann into the Province, to inhabit, A.D. 1670.

On Dec 20, 1670, his wife Ann joined him in a deed, and at the time a warrant was issued in the name of Thomas Jenkins for 100 acres of land "for transporting himself and his wife, Ann, into the Province to inhabit", he obtained by purchase 400 acres of plantation called St. Thomas' Manor. After this we have numerous real estate transactions in which Thomas Jenkins bought or sold land.

On Nov 20, 1674, he obtained by deed from George Shens (Shentone?) of Charles County, 200 acres called Pinnar. In 1677 he witnessed a purchase of land by John Hanson. (Charles County Gentry, page 221, by Harry Wright Newman). In 1680 he was in possession of a 100 acre tract - Poplar Point. In 1682 he bought three tracts of land, 625 acres, from Charles Pye:

Lynis	150 acres
St. Thomas	150 acres
Pye's Hardship	325 acres

In Nov, 1682 he was assessed 180 pounds of tobacco (taxes).

On Feb 15, 1719, Thomas and Ann Jenkins assigned to Edward Edelen, "Pinnar," in Prince George's County "for the love which they held for their daughter, Elizabeth Edelen, wife of said Edward". (Charles County Gentry, page 173, by Harry Wright Newman).

Frequently he and his wife, Ann, witnessed wills; and he administered estates. Twice he was a witness in law suits, on which occasions he made age depositions: in Feb, 1686, he swore that he was 44, and in 1721 that he was 79 years old. Finally, we have his will of Nov 1, 1726, probated in Charles County, Oct 31, 1727, in which he refers to all the land he bought and mentions his wife, Ann, and all his children by name; and we have Ann's will of Jun 25, 1729, probated in Charles County Dec 3, 1729, followed by the distribution of their estate in 1731, when all the heirs appeared and signed for their shares. (Testamentary proceedings, Liber 21, folio 2).

Thomas and Ann Jenkins lived in Charles County for nearly sixty years. Their children married into the leading Catholic families of the province and had many children of their own, who also married Catholics and reared Catholic Families.

Thomas Jenkins' will mentions 575 acres. According to tradition he had a brother, Michael, b. ca. 1644, and also other brothers and sisters in Maryland. The court records in the settlement of his estate refer to "representatives of the widow and several brothers and sisters of the deceased", whose names were unknown to the office. (Michael O. Jenkins Manuscript. Maryland Hist. Society).

Ambrosia Faxon (see APPENDIX - Jenkins family origin by Reverend Edward F. Jenkins) says that "records in the possession of some of the family" prove that he was m. in 1669 or 1670, shortly after his arrival in MD, to Ann Spalding of VA. She says the records show that the marriage was performed in St. Mary's City by Father Altham, S.J. Something is wrong here. They may well have been married in St. Mary's City in 1669 but not by Father Altham S.J. because the famous Father Altham had then been long in his grave.

That Ann's maiden name was Spalding is a family tradition at least 150 years old, as it was written by Henry Jenkins (1781-1869) into his family Bible record about 1810. I have read the family record in this still existing Bible. It was, in 1959, in possession of Henry's great-granddaughter, Mrs. Beverly (Ruth Jenkins) Bristor of Towson, Maryland. I have not tried to prove this marriage, but such an effort was made about 60 years ago by the late Mrs. Samuel T. (Lydia B.) Brown of Baltimore. Mrs. Brown, a genealogist of some note and the wife of one of Henry Jenkins' grandsons, said she found proof "in old court records" that this m. was performed in St. Mary's City in 1669 or 1670. It is very unfortunate she gave no citation but if she found the record it should be possible to find it again. Henry Jenkins (1781-1869) was the son of Captain Thomas Jenkins (1751-1821), the son of William Jenkins (1714-1782), the son of George Jenkins (1675-1727), the son of Thomas Jenkins (1642-1727). Captain Thomas Jenkins, Henry's father, had ample opportunity to learn the family history from his own father, aunts and uncles, many of whom must have known both Thomas and Ann Jenkins, the pioneers.

St. Ignatius, Chapel Point, St. Thomas Manor, 1662.

The land-grant giving Thomas Jenkins 100 acres of land "for transporting himself and wife Ann into the province to inhabit" does not contradict the tradition that Ann was from VA, since the grant does not say where either she or Thomas came from. He could have come from Wales directly to VA, where he could have met her, and then have brought her to St. Mary's City so they could be m. by a priest.

Edward Spalding and his wife, Margaret, and two children, and Edmund Spalding, who may have been his brother, were living in Elizabethtown, VA, in Feb, 1623 (reportedly taken from a Census record). They are believed to have come from England in 1619. About 1642 Edward and Margaret Spalding and two children, then grown, went up to MA where they became the ancestors of the very numerous Protestant Spalding family of New England. According to our family tradition, Thomas' wife, Ann Spalding, was a granddaughter of this Edward, by a son left behind in VA. This may not be true, but there is nothing improbable about it. My experience with family traditions is that they always contain some truth and are generally more right than wrong.

Thomas Jenkins d. in 1727 at the age of 85. His will dated Nov 1, 1727, was probated in Charles County. Ann d. two years later at the age of about 80. Her will of Jun 25, 1729, was probated in Charles County, Dec 3, 1729. They were both buried in St. Ignatius' Churchyard, Charles County. It is now impossible to find their graves.

SECOND

2. ELIZABETH JENKINS (1)
B. ca. 1672. She m. twice. First, about 1690, Moses Jones of Prince George's County, who d. in 1704 or 1705, leaving, besides his widow, six minor children. Moses Jones' will of Jul, 1704 it is said was probated in Mar, 1705.

About 1707 Mrs. Elizabeth (Jenkins) Jones m. as her second husband, Edward Edelen (1676-1756), son of Richard and Elizabeth Edelen, who was her son-in-law's brother! She, thus, became the aunt of her own grandchildren. Elizabeth (Jenkins)(Jones) Edelen d. between 1727, when her father d., and Apr 28, 1731, when, it is assumed, his estate was settled. Edward Edelen d. in 1756. They had two children. Edward Edelen's will of Feb 22, 1745, was probated in Prince George's County, Mar 30, 1756.

Children (1) (Jones):

i. John X., m. Ann Wheeler, daughter of Francis and Winifred Green Wheeler of Prince George's County.
ii. Thomas, b. Mar 2, 1692; d. without issue, intestate.
iii. Notley, d. without issue, intestate.
iv. Jane, m. 1707 Christopher Edelen (1682-1771) son of Richard and Elizabeth Edelen.[1]
v. Ann, untraced.
vi. Elizabeth, m. Dr. Robert Innes.

Children (2) (Edelen):

8. vii. Sarah.
9. viii. James.

3. ANN JENKINS (1)
M. William Spalding, b. 1678; d. 1740; a son of Thomas and Katherine Spalding, also of Charles County. In his will of Nov 1, 1726, probated in Charles County, Oct 31, 1727, Thomas Jenkins left 100 acres called St. Thomas to his daughter Ann Spalding. At the final distribution of the estate of Thomas Jenkins, late of Charles County, filed Apr 28, 1731, William Spalding, husband of Ann, appeared and was paid his filial portion.[2] His will of Dec 6, 1740, was probated in St. Mary's County, Jan 9, 1740-41. Mrs. Ann (Jenkins) Spalding's will of Nov 10, 1760, was proved in St. Mary's County, Jul 7, 1761.

Children (Spalding):

10. i. Thomas.
11. ii. William.
12. iii. John Baptist.
    iv. Jane, m. Edmund Plowden; d. young and without issue, ca. 1751.
13. v. Benedict.
14. vi. Henry.
15. vii. Mary.
    viii. Ann, m. Clement Joseph.

4. MARY JENKINS (1)

Probably m. Daniel Cuthbert Norris of Robert, of Charles County. In his will of Nov 1, 1726, probated in Charles County Oct 31, 1727, Thomas Jenkins refers to her as "My daughter, Mary Norris." In the final settlement of her father's estate neither Mary nor her husband appeared, although all the other heirs did.[3] This, no doubt, was because nothing of any great value was left to her. Her father cut her off with five shillings, and her mother left her some clothes.

Children (Norris):

i. Mary, b. ca. 1710; m. a Mr. Smith, living in 1756.
ii. William, b. ca. 1713; moved to Prince George's County and m. Mrs. Elizabeth Sierra, ca. 1740; widow of William Sierra, who had two children at the time. William and Elizabeth Norris had no children.
iii. Winifred, m. a Mr. Stiles, living in 1756.
iv. Catherine, also m. a Mr. Stiles - maybe the same living in 1756.
v. John, b. ca. 1720.
vi. Rose, b. ca. 1722; m. a Mr. Edgerton (or Egerton?), living in 1756.

5. GEORGE JENKINS (1)

B. 1675.[4] About 1710, he m. Susannah Cole, daughter of Edward Cole of St. Mary's County and his first wife, whose name was probably Honora. Susannah Cole was b. in 1692 (in a deposition made in 1744 she gave her age as 52). George d. intestate in Aug, 1727. His administration bond, dated Aug 17, 1727, mentions that he had five children. The administrator of the estate was Susannah Jenkins, with Edward Edelen and Edward Jenkins as sureties.

George Jenkins and his mother had been joint executors of the will of his father, who devised to him his estate called "Linseys". George, however, d. in the same year as his father and a few months earlier. Mrs. Susannah (Cole) Jenkins d. in 1763. Her will of Aug 8, 1760, was proved in Charles County Jan 29, 1763. Her sister, Honora Cole, m. Thomas Spalding whose brother William Spalding m. Ann Jenkins, sister of George and Edward. (See Allied Families-Cole).

Children (Jenkins):

16. i. Henrietta.

17. ii. William.

iii. Thomas Jenkins, m. Ann Middleton, daughter of James and Sarah (Smith) Middleton of Charles County. He d. without issue. His administration bond is dated Sep 15, 1742. At the September Court for Charles County in 1744 his widow, Ann Jenkins, sued her mother-in-law, Susannah Jenkins, to compel said Susannah to deliver to her certain property of her deceased husband she was "with-holding". Susannah Jenkins, who gave her age as 52, denied the charges and said that two months before her son Thomas m. a daughter of James Middleton, she promised to give said son a negro girl called "Poll" if James Middleton would give his daughter a negro. He did not, so she did not. The case was dismissed. This lawsuit had the happy result of getting a lot of valuable family data on record, including the following age depositions:

Susannah Jenkins, 52 years, therefore b. ca. 1692.
Henrietta Semmes, 32 years, therefore b. ca. 1712.
John Jenkins, 24 years, therefore b. ca. 1720.
Edward Jenkins, 63 years, therefore b. ca. 1681.
Marmaduke Semmes, 43 years, therefore b. ca. 1701.

Thomas' widow later m. Charles Beavin of Charles County and d. Dec 31, 1795, survived by eight Beavin children. Thomas is omitted by both Browne and Mackenzie. Browne, however, makes Mrs. Ann (Middleton) Jenkins the daughter of (20) Edward, of (6) Edward Jenkins and then proceeds to list all the children of (20) Edward, of (6) Edward, as the children of Ann Jenkins and Charles Beavin, thus changing (20) Edward's children into grandchildren named Beavin!

Mrs. Ann (Middleton)(Jenkins) Beavin was a sister of Sarah Middleton who m. (20) Edward Jenkins.

iv. George Jenkins, m. Mrs. Ann (Luckett) Adderton, daughter of Thomas Hussy and Elizabeth (Price) Luckett of Port tobacco, Charles County. George Jenkins was Ann (Luckett) Adderton's second husband. Ann Luckett's first husband was Jeremiah Adderton of Charles County, whon she m. in or before 1738. In 1738 Thomas Hussy Luckett conveyed to his daughter Ann and her husband Jeremiah Adderton, for love and natural affection, land, et al., at Chinquamuxon. Thomas Hussy Luckett d. intestate in Charles County in 1767, when letters of administration were issued to his son, William Rhody Luckett. On Jul 11, 1767, an inventory of his effects was filed. George Jenkins and John Jenkins signed as next-of-kin. On Dec 1, 1769, the proceeds were distributed to the three heirs: William Rhody Luckett, Elizabeth Jenkins and Ann Jenkins; Henry Hagan and Thomas Semmes, bondsmen.

Mrs. Ann (Luckett)(Adderton) Jenkins predeceased her husband. If she and George Jenkins had any children they must have died in childhood, because in his will of Jun 21, 1775, probated in Charles County, Aug 17, 1775, George Jenkins leaves his estate to:

Sister Harriet Simms' three sons: Thomas, Edward, and Marmaduke.

Brother John's three sons: Thomas, John, and Edward.

Brother William's three sons: Thomas, George, and John.

Nieces: Monica Simpson and Susannah Smith.

Also: Mary Doing, Miss Elizabeth Simpson, and the daughter of a certain Margaret Gardiner, if alive.

Executors: Brother William and Thomas Simms.

Witnesses: Thomas Simpson and Thomas Sanders.

George's wife, Ann Luckett, was the sister of Elizabeth Luckett who m. George's brother (18) John Jenkins.

18. v. John.

6. EDWARD JENKINS (1)

B. 1681. (In a deposition in 1744 he said he was 63 years old.) From his father he inherited part of a tract of land called "Pye's Hard Shift", which he left to his son Edward who, in 1789, transferred it to his father-in-law, James Middleton. Edward Jenkins of (1) Thomas, m., before 1717, Mary Cole, daughter of Edward Cole of St. Mary's County, and sister of Susannah Cole who m. his brother George. Edward d. in 1760, and was survived by his widow, Mary, and three children. His will of Sep 7, 1760, was probated in Charles County Nov 19, 1760. It appears to have been made in a hurry and may not list all of his children. (See Allied Families-Cole)

Children (Jenkins):

19. i. Thomas.
20. ii. Edward.
iii. Mary Ann, so-called in the will of (6) Edward; untraced. Browne says she m. a Simpson and had a daughter Sarah, but I have found no proof of it.

7. WILLIAM JENKINS (1)

B. in Charles County, probably in 1683, m. Mary Courtney ca. 1718. The four other dates given for his birth (1663, 1670, 1671, and 1673), would make him from 68 to 78 years old when his last son, Ignatius, was b. in 1741.

In the account of the settlement of William's estate it is stated that the youngest son, Ignatius, was b. in 1741. It is certain that William was a son of (1) Thomas and Ann Jenkins. Thomas left one half of a farm called "Pye's Hard Shift" to his son William. William Jenkins, of St. Mary's County, left the same tract to his son, (25) Ignatius, at the same time enumerating all his other sons. This agrees with the list of brothers enumerated by Thomas Courtney Jenkins of Baltimore County in his will of Sep 30, 1757, probated Nov 1, 1757.

Henry Jenkins was a witness in the court case of Henry Spalding in 1761 and 1762 in St. Mary's County. On Jul 22, 1762, Henry Jenkins swore that he was 26 years old, and that he was "the son of William Jenkins who was brother to Mrs. Ann Spalding, who was Henry Spalding's mother." Mrs. Ann (Jenkins) Spalding had d. in 1760, testate, and the case had something to do with the settlement of her estate.

William Jenkins m. ca. 1718 Mary Courtney, who was probably b. in 1696. These dates make her 22 and William 35 at the time of their marriage, and that would make her 45 and him 58 in 1741 when their last child was born. She was the daughter of Lt. Thomas Courtney of St. Mary's County and his second wife, Mary, possibly the widow Strong. Lt. Thomas Courtney was b. in St. Mary's County, the son of James Courtney who came to Maryland in 1637, and d. in St. Mary's County in 1642; and who on May 23, 1639, there m. Mary Lawne.

William Jenkins, of (1) Thomas, owned land in Charles, St. Mary's, and Baltimore Counties. The Baltimore County land was at Long Green, about one hundred miles north of St. Mary's County. William never lived there, but his three sons were members of that Catholic emigration from Southern Maryland to Baltimore County, which began about 1747 when the Reverend Bennett Neale, S.J., established a mission on Deer Creek, which is now in Harford County.

Raphael T. Semmes thought that William named the land in Baltimore County "Lyn Green", after "the old Jenkins estate" in Wales, and that Long Green was a corruption of Lyn Green. This theory cannot be held, as the land in Baltimore County is in the Long Green Valley, so called before William Jenkins ever bought it.

William and Mary (Courtney) Jenkins had six sons and two daughters, all mentioned in the wills of their father and of their brother, Thomas Courtney Jenkins, who in his will made Sep 30, 1757,[5] "in the 34th year of my age", calls them all his brothers and sisters. Thomas Courtney Jenkins was the first member of our family to live in Baltimore County. He bequeathed Long Green, which had been given to him by his father, to his brother (24) Michael, who was then about 21 years old. The property is still in the possession of Michael's descendants (1957), who live there. (See Allied Families-Courtney).

Children (Jenkins):

21. i. Joseph.
22. ii. William.
iii. Thomas Courtney, b. ca. 1723; d. unmarried in 1757; his will of Sep 30, 1757, probated in Baltimore County, Nov

1, 1757, is important in that it mentions all his brothers and sisters.

iv. Mary, b. ca. 1727; d. before Sep 3, 1757; m. before Jul 1750; Robert Hagar, Sr.; they had two children. Robert Hagar, Sr., later m. again and had four more children.

v. Jane, b. ca. 1731; m. circa 1756; George Fenwick, who d. in St. Mary's County in 1772. In his will dated Jul 15, 1769, and probated Apr. 27, 1772, he names his wife Jane and three children.

23. vi. Henry.

24. vii. Michael.

25. viii. Ignatius.

10. THOMAS SPALDING (3)

B. ca. 1706; d. ca. 1769; m. 1722; Catherine Cooper, d. 1775; the only child of Thomas and Theresa Cooper of St. Mary's County. That Thomas Spalding was only 16 years old when he m. is proven by the Leases of His Lordship's lands in Beaver Dam Manor that Thomas Spalding, of William, was b. 1706, (Maryland Records, Volume II, p. 66, G. M. Brumbaugh). Thomas Cooper the First and his wife were the founders of Leonardtown. (Judgments, L 106, F 220). Thomas Spalding called himself Court House or Leonard Town Spalding, to distinguish himself from his uncle, son, and several cousins and nephews of the same name. In his will of Jan 2, 1768, probated in St. Mary's County, Mar 14, 1769 (L 37, F 245), he mentions his wife Catherine, daughters Jane Power, Mary Ann Spalding, Ann Mahoney, Susannah Abell and Mary Ann McGill, sons Thomas, Elexius and Henry, daughters Mary, Catherine and Ann Panny, who were single; grandsons Richard Enoch and Elias Spalding, sons of Elexius; Bernard and Augustus Spalding, sons of Henry; grandson Thomas McGill and granddaughter Alusia Mahoney. Mrs. Catherine (Cooper) Spalding in her will of Jul 14, 1775, probated in St. Mary's County, Aug 21, 1775, (L 40, F 603) mentions daughters: Catherine Mattingly, Mary Ann McGill, Mary Spalding, Jean Power, Mary Ann Spalding, Ann Mahoney and "Susannah Abell's children", also sons Elexius and Thomas and daughter Ann Panny Ford. These wills while unusually complete are somewhat confusing. For one thing, Thomas and Catherine (Cooper) Spalding had no son Henry. Thomas in his will calls his brother Henry his son. Actually, he was his son-in-law, since Henry m. his niece, Mary Ann Spalding, Thomas' daughter. It also appears that they lacked imagination in naming their daughters, since besides having a Mary and an Ann they actually had two Mary Ann's. Mary Ann Spalding, mentioned in the will of both her parents, was neither single, nor a daughter-in-law, but m. to her uncle.

Children (Spalding):

26. i. Thomas.
27. ii. Jane.
28. iii. Ann.
29. iv. Susannah.
30. v. Elexius.
    vi. Mary Ann, b. ca. 1740; m. Abell McGill; d. ca. 1767. They had a son, Thomas; untraced. A Thomas McGill was one of the Catholic pioneers of KY (Webb).
    vii. Mary, b. ca. 1742; unmarried in 1775.
    viii. Catherine, b. ca. 1744; m. William Mattingly; b. ca. 1730. William remarried Nancy Elizabeth Clarke and went to KY. (Father Mattingly) 31. ix. Mary Ann II.
    x. Ann Panny, b. ca. 1746; m. (1) Jan 20, 1771, Raphael Ford; m. (2) Joshua Millard, who d. 1797; m. (3) Jan 20, 1798, Zachariah Mattingly.

11. WILLIAM SPALDING (3)

B. before Dec 6, 1719, as he was of age when his father made his will; d. ca. 1779; m. 1757; Mary Herbert, d. 1789, daughter of Francis and Elizabeth Herbert of St. Mary's County.[1] Mr. Charles Fenwick of Leonardtown, St. Mary's County, provided most of the information on William Spalding. Mr. Fenwick says that this is the William Spalding who m. Mary Herbert. Mary Herbert's mother, Elizabeth, was the daughter of Ann Fenwick and John Sewall. William Spalding of William d. intestate in 1779.[2] This record book was saved from the fire when St. Mary's County Court House burned Mar 8, 1831. Although the book is in private hands, a copy is on film and can be seen at the St. Mary's County Historical Society, Leonardtown. William's widow, Mary Spalding, d. testate in 1789. In her will, she names the following children.[3]

Children (Spalding):

i. Henry.
ii. Philip.
iii. Mary; a widow (so named in her mother's will of 1789).
32. iv. Jane.
v. Mary Ann.
vi. Dorothy; m. Samuel Benfield and they had a daughter, Mary Ann Benfield, baptized Jul 10, 1770.
vii. Rebecca; m. William King.

The above children were all mentioned in the will of their mother. It is possible that there were more. William Spalding and his wife Mary (Herbert) Spalding probably lived in the lower part of St. Mary's County, and, therefore, were not involved in the court case of 1762.[4] They were m. during or before 1757, probably long before.

12. JOHN BAPTIST SPALDING (3)

B. before Dec 6, 1719 and d. 1787. In his will he mentions his wife Ann and six of his children.[5] The only known child he does not name in his will is his eldest son, John Baptist Spalding, Jr., who may have been dead then, or maybe, as the heir-at-law, did not need to be left anything. On Jul 23, 1767, at the age of about 50 or 55, John Baptist Spalding, Sr., m. a widow, Mrs. Ann Jackson, aged 28. She and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Jackson, had been witnesses at the trial of 1762. They were m. by Father James Walton, S.J., at St. Joseph's Church, in what is now called Morganza, but in what was then called St. Joseph's Forest. At that time the law of Maryland did not recognize Catholic marriages and required everyone to be m. by a minister of the Church of England. This John Baptist Spalding and Mrs. Ann Jackson refused to do. As a consequence they were repeatedly served with summonses and called into court to answer to the charge of living in adultery. But they persisted in their refusal and in time the American Revolution broke out and the offensive laws were repealed.

John Baptist Spalding, Sr., was m. long before 1767. In the first account of the estate of Benedict Spalding, filed Feb 20, 1768, by Benedict and Elizabeth Spalding, administrators, John Baptist Spalding, Sr., and Henry Spalding are named as kinsmen.[6] In his will of Oct 1, 1773, probated in St. Mary's County, Nov 9, 1773, Thomas Reeder, Sr., mentions a tract of land bought from Thomas and Catherine Spalding, John B. Spalding, Sr., and John B. Spalding, Jr. On Jul 19, 1775 John B. Spalding, Sr., witnessed the will of Catherine Spalding.

The first wife of John Baptist Spalding, Sr., was probably Ann Jameson, who is called Ann Spalding by her mother, Mary Jameson of Charles County, in her will of 1755.[7]

In his will, already referred to, John Baptist Spalding, Sr., mentions his wife Ann, his two m. daughters, and "my four youngest children." His wife, Ann, was named administratrix of the will but never lived to settle the estate. In 1805, Stephen Spalding of Washington County, KY, was made administrator, with the will annexed. Clements suggests that the John Spalding referred to by Webb[8] who went to KY in the early days and then returned to MD where he d. in 1802 was John Baptist Spalding, Jr. Clements also says that Stephen Spalding was a prominent man in Washington County, KY.

Children (1) (Spalding):

i. John Baptist, Jr.
ii. Ann Billander Daily.
iii. Susannah; m. Gabriel Howard.[9]

Children (2) (Spalding):

iv. Ann.
v. Stephen, of Washington County, KY.
vi. Barbary (Barbara).
vii. Trease (Theresa).[10]

Mrs. Mary Jameson was the daughter of Captain Joshua Doyne of St. Mary's County by his first wife, Barbara, who was the widow of Ignatius Matthews, who d. in Charles County in 1698, and by whom she had two children. Shortly afterwards she m. Thomas Jameson and had issue. In her will of May 28, 1755, probated in Charles County, Sep 22, 1755, she mentions, among others, her daughter, Ann Spalding and her grandchildren, Henry and Mary Spalding.[11]

13. BENEDICT SPALDING (3)

B. ca. 1723, d. ca. 1767, m. ca. 1745, Elizabeth Mattingly. He was a minor when his father wrote his will Dec 6, 1740, and of age when his father's property was distributed in 1744, so he must have been b. about 1723.[12] Elizabeth Mattingly was the daughter of Thomas and Ruth (Cole) Mattingly. He d. intestate in Calvert County. His administration bond is dated Aug 9, 1767. Since he made no will it is hard to say how many children he had. The final account of his estate has not been found, but the preliminary accounts show that he was survived by his widow, Elizabeth, and one son, Benedict Joseph, who settled the estate.

Clements of KY, in his book on the origin of the Clements and Spalding Families in America, published 1928, says there were four sons: Richard and George (surely) and Francis and Henry (probably). Clements gives no reasons for what he says, but it appears that he is correct about Richard and George at least. Mr. Charles Fenwick of St. Mary's County has recently found proof of the existence of two other children: Ann, mentioned in the will of her uncle, Edward Mattingly, and John, listed in the Debt Books as John Spalding of Benedict.

In the biography of Robert Abell Spalding, eldest son of Ignatius Aloysius Spalding, of Benedict Joseph Spalding in the History of Union County, Kentucky, it is stated that his grandfather, Benedict Joseph Spalding, had these two brothers:

1. Richard; a Revolutionary soldier who was wounded and d. after the battle of Yorktown.
2. George, who came to Union County, KY, after having fought in the Revolutionary War.[13]

Clements says (without explaining why) that a son Henry of Benedict settled in Frederick County ca. 1790, where he m. a Miss Elder.

Clements also says that Richard Spalding of Benedict d. intestate in Prince George's County in 1808, leaving issue, which contradicts the above-quoted biography of Benedict Joseph's grandson. He says that the Francis and George Spalding living in St. Mary's County in 1790 were probably sons of Benedict. Clements made a lot of interesting statements but gave no references for many of them.

The first account of the estate of Benedict Spalding of William was proved Feb 20, 1768, by Benedict Spalding and Elizabeth Spalding, administrators. In it they mention John Baptist Spalding, Sr., and Henry Spalding as kinsmen. The second account was proved Mar 23, 1769, by Benedict Spalding and Elizabeth Spalding, John Ford, and Elizabeth, his wife. In 1791, Mrs. Elizabeth (Mattingly)(Spalding) Ford, with her husband John Ford, and her son, Benedict Joseph Spalding, emigrated to KY. There are many descendants of this family. Benedict Joseph Spalding had twelve children and probably between fifty and one hundred grandchildren.

Children (Spalding):

33. i. Benedict Jeseph.
ii. Ann; untraced.
iii. Richard; d. ca. 1783.
iv. George, b. ca. 1758; d. May 22, 1843.
v. John; untraced.
vi. Francis; untraced.
vii. Henry; untraced.

14. HENRY SPALDING (3)

B. after Dec 6, 1719, as he was a minor when his father made his will. It is certain that he m. his niece, (31) Mary Ann Spalding, daughter of his brother Thomas, because the Provincial Government threatened to declare his marriage null and void on that account. In 1785 at the request of Father, later Archbishop, John Carroll, who was then Prefect Apostolic of the Catholic Church in America, Pope Pius VI granted him power to dispense in the case of Henry Spalding and Mary A. Spalding. The letter from Cardinal Antonelli to Father Carroll granting the faculty to dispense in this case is quoted in full in Latin and English in The Life and Times of John Carroll, Archbishop of Baltimore, by Peter Guilday, Encyclopedia Press, 1922, p. 271. Charles Fenwick of Leonardtown, St. Mary's County, president for many years of the St. Mary's County Historical Society, found the actual dispensation in the archives of the Archdiocese of Baltimore.

Henry was b. ca. 1725; d. ca. 1799; m. ca. 1761; Mary Ann Spalding was b. ca. 1748; d. ca. 1806.

It has been suggested that Henry Spalding may have moved to KY when he sold his farm, "Rich Neck," in 1790. Mr. Charles Fenwick has pointed out that this is not necessarily so, in the following note:

> "True, Henry Spalding sold part of "Rich Neck" to Zachariah Forrest: 97 acres on Jun 8, 1790 and 92-1/4 acres on Aug 9, 1791, but this was only a small part of his land holdings. His sons, Bernard and Augustine, still owned part of "Rich Neck" in the 1800's. I am of the opinion that Henry Spalding lived and d. on William Spalding's home plantation, "The Farm." "The Farm" was the patent name and this land is still called in the deed, "The Farm." Parts of "The Farm" were called by various names down through the years, such as "Spalding's Comfort," etc. (See plat of "The Farm" done by Jesse Lock and showing William Spalding's new dwelling house at the Hall of Records, Annapolis)."

Henry's will was probated in St. Mary's County, Sep 21, 1799. He had the following children, mentioned in his will and in the will of his brother (father-in-law) Thomas.[14]

Children (Spalding):

i. Bernard.

ii. Augustine, (Henry Augustine or Augustus Henry), all forms are used; m. Barbara Abell.

iii. Alusia, (Aloysia); m. Bennett Mattingly, Nov 9, 1801.[15]

iv. Ann; m. Richard Smith. Her father calls her Ann Smith in his will. In the final account of the estate of Henry Spalding we find: Received Jan 24, 1800 of Mary A. Spalding and Augustine Spalding, executors of Henry Spalding, late of St. Mary's county, deceased, the following property, it being part of my wife's distributable share of her father's estate, (many articles are listed), (signed) Richard Smith.[16]

15. MARY SPALDING (3)

B. ca. 1763; m. Johnathan (John) Seale. William Spalding in his will (1740) refers to his daughter Mary Seale. Ann Jenkins Spalding in her will (1760) refers to her daughter Mary Seal. Clements said these are nothing but misspellings or phonetic spellings of Sewall. Charles Fenwick of Leonardtown says (letter of Apr 4, 1956): "(Mrs. Fenwick and I) have studied the Sewall family rather thoroughly and we find nothing to indicate that Mary Spalding of William and Ann Jenkins m. a Sewall -- we have found no indication of a Spalding marriage." Mr. Fenwick then goes on to point out that Mary is very clearly called Seale in her father's will and Seal in her mother's. Furthermore, John Seale is paid 3000 pounds of tobacco, "a legacy left to his wife by her father." (See account of William Spalding, 1744, L 20, F 160, Hall of Records, Annapolis). In the court case against Henry Spalding for concealing the effects of Ann Spalding (Jul, 1762), Mary Seal is mentioned as having wheat on the plantation.

A Jonathan Seale leased a portion of Beaverdam Manor in 1741, leased on the life of Ann Seale, aged 6 years, probably a daughter. In 1743 he leased a portion of Mill Manor for the lives of Monica Seale, aged 5 years, and Lydia Seale, aged 3 years. (Maryland Records, Volume II, pp. 63 and 66).

Children (Seale):

i. Ann, b. ca. 1735.
ii. Monica, b. ca. 1738.
iii. Lydia, b. ca. 1740.

16. HENRIETTA JENKINS (5)

B. ca. 1712. In a deposition made in 1744 she declared she was aged 32. (See (5iii) Thomas Jenkins, her brother). She m. Marmaduke Semmes (1701-1772) of Charles County, son of James and Mary (Goodrich) Semmes. She was bequeathed personality by Susannah Jenkins, her mother, by her will of 1760, proved in Charles County 1763, and was left a legacy by her brother George Jenkins who d. 1775. George Jenkins also left legacies to her three sons -- "the three sons of my sister Harriet Simms" -- Thomas, Edward, and Marmaduke, and made Thomas Simms (Semmes) the executor of his estate. The will of Marmaduke Semmes, Sr., of Mar 31, 1772, was probated in Charles County, Sep 23, 1772. In it he names all his sons and daughters. An abstract of the will is given in Newman's The Maryland Semmes and Kindred Families, page 46, (1955). An abstract of the will of Mrs. Henrietta (Jenkins) Semmes is also given on the same page. In it she mentions her surviving children and several grandchildren. Detailed information can also be found in the Lucketts of Port Tobacco, by the same author (1938).

Mrs. Henrietta (Jenkins) Semmes' will of Oct 10, 1774, was probated there Dec 31, 1774.

Children (Semmes):

i. Edward, m. Sarah Middleton, daughter of Smith and Mary (Hawkins) Middleton; they had four children.

ii. Marmaduke, m. Martha Middleton, daughter of James and Sarah (Smith) Middleton; they had three children.

iii. Violetta Laetitia, untraced.

iv. Martha, m. Henry Hagan.

v. Mary Ann, m. William Rhody Luckett, son of Thomas and Elizabeth (Price) Luckett, whose sisters Ann and Elizabeth m. her uncles George and John Jenkins, respectively. William Rhody Luckett and Mary Ann Semmes had five children.

vi. Susannah, m. Thomas Boarman, son of Thomas James Boarman of Charles County; they had seven children.

vii. Thomas, d. 1832; m. Ann, daughter of Marsham Queen; they had eleven children.

17. WILLIAM JENKINS (5)

B. ca. 1713, according to Mrs. Samuel (Lydia B.) Brown of Baltimore. Mrs. Brown's husband was a grandson of Henry Jenkins, who was a grandson of (17) William Jenkins, of (5) George, and she had access to many records, including Raphael T. Semmes' notes.[17] William Jenkins m. Elizabeth Mitchell Jul 29, 1749. He d. Aug 26, 1782. She d. Apr 3, 1777. (See Allied Families-Mitchell)

All the other very exact data in this chapter is taken from two old family Bibles, still extant: the Bible of William's son, (36) George, and the Bible of William's grandson, (63) Henry Jenkins, son of (34) Thomas. Henry had a note in his Bible saying that the data about his parents, grandparents, aunts and uncles were all copied out of his father's Bible. The George Jenkins Bible was (1977) in the possession of the late Honorable Dudley Digges of La Plata, Charles County. The Henry Jenkins Bible is (1977) in the possession of Mrs. William Beverly (Ruth Jenkins) Bristor, Towson.

The will of William Jenkins of (5) George of Charles County, written Apr 13, 1782, was probated Aug 16, 1782. He leaves to each of his five daughters, Henrietta, Ann, Susannah, Dorothy, and Mary, and to his son John, a negro, a horse, and a saddle, and permission to live in his house until they marry. The rest of the estate is divided between sons George and John. Son Thomas is executor. The witnesses were Luke and Joseph Wheeler and George Mills, of Charles County. The estate at final account was valued at £ 937-3-4.[18]

Children (Jenkins):

34. i. Thomas.

ii. Henrietta, b. Mar 7, 1753; d. in Charles County 1828. She was still unmarried when her father wrote his will on Apr 13, 1782, but sometime after that she m. Edward Wheeler of Charles County who d. in 1821. It is a family tradition that Henrietta married a Wheeler and had no children (Browne-Jenkins Family Tree). Both Henrietta and her husband died testate and without issue. Edward Wheeler, in his will of Mar 25, 1817, probated in Charles County, Aug 4, 1821 (L. HB No. 14, F 150) leaves "one feather bed and furniture" to my niece Elizabeth Wheeler, daughter to Josias and Barbary Wheeler, and everything else to "my beloved wife, Henrietta," to dispose of as she should choose. Madam Henrietta Wheeler, who was somewhat of a capitalist, wrote a really splendid will in which she leaves her bank stock to two nephews, six nieces, her sister Mary and the Catholic Church. She calls her married nieces and her sister by their married names, viz.: nieces: Mary Heard Jenkins (unmarried); Grace Davis, Henrietta Jameson, Eleanor Edelen, Harriet Clarke, Henrietta Kirk, and her sister Mary Pye. The two nephews she mentions are Henry Jenkins and John J. Jenkins.

Henrietta's will was written Jul 29, 1822, and was probated in Charles County Jun 11, 1823 (L. HB No. 14 F 265). These names all harmonize in a very interesting way with tradition and are found in one form or another on the Browne-Jenkins Family Tree. Mary Heard Jenkins is an unmarried daughter of (36) George, Henrietta's brother, whose first wife was Mary Heard.

35. iii. Ann.
36. iv. George.
37. v. Susannah.
vi. Dorothy, b. Jul 7, 1768; untraced; she may have m. a Mr. Ward.
38. vii. Mary.
viii. John, b. Sep 29, 1773; untraced; had two children who d. young.
ix. Chloe, b. Dec 10, 1756; d. Oct 9, 1762; age 5 years, 10 months.
x. Ignatius, b. Aug 29, 1766; d. Dec 16, 1766; age 3 1/2 months.

(34) Thomas, executor of his father's will, was left nothing by it, which indicates that William probably provided for him when he was m. (34) Thomas, was the only child married in 1782 when his father wrote his will. In the court records of the settlement of the estate, (34) Thomas, is always called Captain Thomas Jenkins.

18. JOHN JENKINS (5)

B. in 1720 (in a deposition in 1744 he said he was 24); d. in 1769. He m. Elizabeth Luckett, daughter of Thomas Hussy Luckett and his first wife, Elizabeth Price. Luckett d. in 1767. Mrs. Elizabeth (Luckett) Jenkins m. secondly, 1770-72, Samuel Green.

The will of John Jenkins, son of (5) George, dated Jun 2, 1769, was probated in Charles County on Aug 10, 1769. The final account of the settlement of his estate was filed Dec 18, 1772. The will mentions eight children and also another daughter, Sarah; and names the unborn child as Elizabeth. The final account also says that the widow has m. Samuel Green, and that the daughters Monica and Sarah are of age, and all the other children are minors. John's sons, Thomas, John, and (39) Edward, are also mentioned in the will of their uncle (5) George Jenkins, (Jun 21, 1775) and were then still minors.

John Jenkins owned the estate "Linseys" (165 acres) and "Stone's Rest" (123.5 acres) on the Avon River.

I think that Samuel Green, the second husband of Mrs. Elizabeth (Luckett) Jenkins, must have been a resident of Frederick County, or at least must have taken her and her younger children up there to live after their marriage. This would explain the marriage of the two daughters, Mary Ann and Elizabeth, to Frederick County men, and make it probable that the John Jenkins who m. Eleanor Compton of Frederick County on Jul 26, 1794, was John of (18) John, of (5) George.

Children (Jenkins):

i. Monica, b. ca. 1750, m. Thomas Simpson and went with him to KY. She was of age Dec 18, 1772, and called Monica Simpson in her Uncle George Jenkins' will of Jun 21, 1775. Her husband was probably Thomas Simpson, b. ca. 1752, of Thomas S., of Andrew and Elizabeth (Green) Simpson of Charles County.[19]

ii. Sarah, b. ca. 1752, of age Dec 18, 1772.

iii. Susannah, b. ca. 1756, m. Clement Smith. Called Susannah Smith in will of her uncle, George Jenkins, Jun 21, 1775.

iv. Eleanor, b. ca. 1759; m. Thomas Spalding.

v. Thomas, b. ca. 1762, a minor Aug 17, 1775, went to sea as a young man and disappeared.

vi. John Baptist, b. ca. 1764, a minor Aug 17, 1775.

39. vii. Edward.

viii. Mary Ann, b. ca. 1768; m. Feb 19, 1785, Abiner (or Abner) Ritchie, of Frederick County.[20]

40. ix. Elizabeth.

19. THOMAS JENKINS (6)

M. Henrietta Boarman, daughter of John Baptist and Elizabeth (Edelen) Boarman. They had one son, Raphael, who d. young and without issue. Thomas d. before 1760, survived by his widow Henrietta and son Raphael. The widow m., secondly, Richard Thompson, son of Thomas Thompson, of Charles County. Richard Thompson d. intestate. His administration bond is dated Sep 14, 1763. Mrs. Henrietta (Boarman)(Jenkins) Thompson d. testate. Her will of Mar 20, 1772, was proved in Charles County, May 1, 1772. She and Richard Thompson had nine children.[21]

Children (Jenkins):

i. Raphael, d. young and without issue.

20. EDWARD JENKINS (6)

B. ca. 1738; d. Oct 28, 1803; was known as Edward Jenkins, Senior, of Charles County. He m. Sarah Middleton, b. ca. 1732; d. Oct 16, 1797; daughter of James and Sarah (Smith) Middleton; he was the son of Robert and Mary (Wheeler) Middleton of Charles County, and she was the daughter of John Smith. Sarah Middleton's sister, Ann, m. (5iii) Thomas Jenkins.

Children (Jenkins):

i. Ann, b. ca. May 22, 1763.
ii. Thomas, b. Feb 5, 1765; m. Rachel Wilson Dec 21, 1802, in Baltimore County.
iii. Elizabeth, b. Dec 12, 1766; d. Mar 26, 1824.
iv. Edward, b. Apr 15, 1768; d. Feb 5, 1823; of Charles County.
v. Mary, b. Mar 10, 1770; d. Jul 15, 1796.

vii. Charity, b. Apr 22, 1776; d. Jun 20, 1853; m. Feb 2, 1795, Edward Boone of Charles County, b. Apr 4, 1768; d. May 18, 1813.

21. JOSEPH JENKINS (7)

B. in St. Mary's County, ca. 1719. He was the eldest son. On Jan 23, 1742-3; he m. Mary (last name unknown), widow of William Combs of St. Mary's County, who had d. in 1742. Mrs. Mary (Combs) Jenkins d. in 1788. Both Joseph and his wife d. testate, but they did not mention all their children in their wills. Joseph in his will mentions three sons: John, Edmond Courtney, and Augustine. Edmond Courtney in his will mentions a brother Ignatius. The records of St. Andrew's Church, St. Mary's County, also record the birth of a son, Thomas. No daughters are mentioned by Joseph Jenkins but his wife mentions a daughter, Susannah Copper (Cooper?), who is probably a Jenkins since she does not seem to bequeath anything to her Combs children, who were probably provided for by their father.

Children (Jenkins):

i. John, b. May 5, 1744; d. in St. Mary's County 1789. He m. Mary Fenwick, who d. in St. Mary's County in 1807. They both d. testate. They had one child, Joseph, who d. in St. Mary's County, unmarried, in 1796. By his will of Jan 18, 1796, probated in St. Mary's County, Feb 9, 1797, Joseph leaves all to his mother, Mary Jenkins. Witnesses: Joseph Sanner, William Hammet, and Henry Taylor.
ii. Joseph, named in his mother's will of 1788, untraced.

iii. Ignatius, mentioned in his brother Edmond's will of 1798, untraced.

iv. Augustine, b. Jan 12, 1746-7; d. in St. Mary's County, Feb 2, 1800; a priest. (See biography below.)

Reverend Augustine Jenkins, S.J. (1746/7 - 1800)

It would have been difficult for the English Jesuit Province to supply its American mission with priests during the Penal Days if God had not called many young Americans, chiefly Marylanders, to work in His Vineyard on this side of the Atlantic. No name is more familiar to the student who examines the books of the Newtown library than that of Augustine Jenkins. He was a native of Maryland and was b. Jan the 12th, 1746-7. His ancestors, who were natives of Wales, fled from persecution to Maryland, and as early as 1670 established themselves at the head of the St. Mary's River. The members of the Jenkins family always proved themselves devoted children of the Church. They flourished under the paternal government of the Calverts, and suffered persecution under the Protestant Ascendancy, but neither prosperity, the hope of reward, nor pains and penalties, ever caused them to swerve from that which they cherished above all things, the faith for which they had forsaken their parent land.

White Plains, which originally belonged to the Jenkins family, was described to me by one who saw it many years ago as a charming place. Rows of tall poplars guarded the avenue leading to the venerable residence. A rich green lawn lay spread before it. Pebbled walks, fringed with snow-white shells, over which dropped fragrant and delicate flowers, wound around it in graceful curves. Everthing within the mansion, as well as in its surroundings, bespoke the elegant and refined taste of its inmates. The influence of early associates will generally last through life. It is almost impossible for one whose childhood and early boyhood were passed in the midst of elegance and refinement to grow rude or unpolished in manners and behavior. This is the reason why the missionaries of Maryland, whether in the hovels of the poor white settlers, or in the wigwams of the Indians, could always be distinguished as gentlemen by birth and education.

The effect of his first education at White Plains was always seen in the conduct and bearing of Augustine Jenkins. He was sweet, affable, and gentlemanly in all his ways. He felt perfectly at ease as well in the cottage as in the manor. The charm of his manners was universally felt. He had a winning grace about him that won the affection of all who came in contact with him. His generous heart, which was a well of goodness, overflowed with kindly feeling. It is, indeed, no wonder that, when we also take into account his zeal and solid virtue, that he proved most successful as a missionary.

Young Jenkins, while still a gay-hearted boy, had to endure the pangs of a wide separation from his home and friends. It was resolved that the gentle, pious youth should proceed to the Old Catholic Continent to prosecute his studies. We can fancy that we see him bidding farewell to his little playmates and brothers; we can imagine that we behold him kneeling humbly to receive his cherished parents' blessing. He arises, embraces all, and drives down to meet the boat that awaits him; but before he is out of sight of his loved home, he looks back upon the scene of his childhood with a fond and lingering gaze.

After having spent some time in Europe, young Jenkins resolved to enter the Society of Jesus, which he did on the 7th of Sep, 1766. After his noviceship he continued his studies at Liege.

Liege was the theologate of the English provinces of the Society of Jesus up to the time of the suppression of the Society in 1773. His professor of Sacred Scripture was Father Thomas Barrow, a prodigy of learning, a man of almost universal genius. Our young missionary studied the controverted parts of religion under the learned and holy Father Anthony Bruning, a distinguished theologian of his time. Of Jenkins' Theological Professor, Reverend Thomas Ellerker, Oliver says: He was a worthy scholar of such a master as Father John Thorpe. . . Among those who served in the Maryland Mission who had the good fortune to be students with Father Jenkins under the such able professors were: Fathers Charles Sewall, John Boarman, John Boone, and Leonard Neale.

After his studies and ordination, Father Jenkins returned to Maryland. He arrived on the 24th day of May, 1774. A few years later we find him engaged at Newtown. His apostolic work had the special blessing of Heaven on it. He made many converts, reclaimed hardened sinners, and led pious souls to a higher degree of sanctity. His confessional was always surrounded by penitents, and the people flocked around him to receive Holy Communion from his hands. He was, as Archbishop Carroll truly said, a man without guile, the loved and tender father of his flock.

The Reverend Father Jenkins, after many labors and pains, died a happy death at Newtown on the 2nd of Feb, 1800.

Archbishop Carroll writes in Apr, 1780: With Father Walton, at Newtown, lives among others -- that man without guile, Father Jenkins. I am told he is almost adored by his acquaintances and, we dare say, very deservedly.

41. v. Thomas Courtney, Sr.

vi. Edmond Courtney, b. Oct 1, 1752, m. Elizabeth Simpson; d. without issue in 1798. His will of Apr 30, 1796, was probated in St. Mary's County, Jul 24, 1798. On Sep 22, 1800, an Elizabeth Jenkins got a marriage license in St. Mary's County to marry Cornelius Manning. This could be the widowed Mrs. Elizabeth (Simpson) Jenkins, or it might be Elizabeth Jenkins of (22) William who was unmarried in 1793 when her father's estate was settled.

vii. Susannah, m. a Mr. Cooper; this information was taken from the Horace Arrell Browne's "Jenkins Family Tree."

viii. Daughter (name unknown), m. P. Coombs; this information was also taken from the "Jenkins Family Tree."

22. WILLIAM JENKINS (7)

B. ca. 1721. It has been said that both he and his brother (23) Henry went to KY to live about 1740. This is very unlikely, as in 1740 KY was an unexplored wilderness swarming with hostile indians. The great Catholic migration from Maryland began about 1785. I think William Jenkins lived in St. Mary's County all his life with his wife, whose name was probably Elizabeth. In 1761 Henry Jenkins and William and Elizabeth Jenkins witnessed the will of John Rhodes in St. Mary's County. (23) Henry Jenkins, was William's brother, aged 19 or 20, and probably not m. yet. The will of William Jenkins dated Jul 9, 1789, and probated in St. Mary's County, Nov 17, 1789, mentions six sons and three daughters. The abstract of the will that I have does not refer to the widow at all. The account of his estate filed in St. Mary's County by William Jenkins, the surviving executor, on Dec 10, 1793, mentions four of the sons and the three daughters, and while it does not name the widow, it does refer to her. (See proceedings of Orphan's Court (1771-1801) p. 222.)[22]

Children (Jenkins):

i. Jeremiah, m. and had one child, Lewis Jenkins. The account of Jeremiah Jenkins, late of St. Mary's County, deceased, was filed by Thomas Ford and Ann, his wife, Apr 15, 1794. It mentions the widow and son, Lewis. The estate, after debts were paid, amounted to 184/17/10, one-third of which went to the widow, the rest to Lewis. Jeremiah was dead when the account of his father's estate was filed. This may be the Lewis Jenkins who m. Elizabeth, and who d. at Conewago, PA, Apr 18, 1823, survived by a widowed daughter-in-law, Mrs. William Jenkins, of Abbotstown, PA, and several grandchildren. The widowed daughter-in-law was nee Clemence de Beelen, daughter of the Baron and Baroness de Beelen, of what is now Belgium.

ii. Ignatius, not mentioned in the account, presumably dead.

iii. Joseph, untraced, a Joseph Jenkins m. Jul 30, 1801, in Baltimore, Elizabeth Howell.

iv. Benedict, (Bennett), untraced.

v. John, untraced.

vi. Ann, m. a Mr. Atwood.

vii. Elizabeth, unmarried, Dec 10, 1793.

viii. Mary E., unmarried, Dec 10, 1793.

ix. William, he may be the William Jenkins who d. in St. Mary's County, in 1794.

23. HENRY JENKINS (7)

B. 1736. All the various family trees and articles about members of the Jenkins family[23] say that Henry and (22) William, sons of (7) William and Mary (Courtney) Jenkins, emigrated to KY about 1740. Possibly they merely acquired land in KY for their children because both seem to have passed their lives in St. Mary's County, where they both d. - Henry intestate. In a deposition of Jul 22, 1762; Henry gave his age as 26 and stated at the same time he was the son of (7) William Jenkins. Letters of administration upon Henry's estate were issued to his widow, Ann Jenkins, who was appointed administrator. On Oct 27, 1789, she gave an account of the administration of his estate.[24] The estate was valued at 405/9/4, of which the widow Ann received her third, and each of the seven children 38/12/3.

Henry Jenkins m. ca 1756, Ann Greenwell, who was b. 1735 in MD; d. 1820 in Scott County, KY. Henry Jenkins d. 1788, intestate, with distribution of property recorded in St. Mary's County, MD.[25] The will was made to include a son, (42) Henry, who received one-seventh of three-fourths of said estate. After the settlement Ann (Greenwell) Jenkins moved to Scott County, KY with (42) Henry until her death in 1820.

Children (Jenkins):

i. George, untraced. A George Jenkins m. Margaret Wise, Mar 31, 1782, at St. Andrew's Church, St. Mary's County, and another, or perhaps the same, George Jenkins m. Eleanor Wilson Sep 1, 1792, in Baltimore.

ii. Susannah, untraced

42. iii. Henry, b. ca. 1768, was living in Scott County, KY, in 1850, age 82.[26]

iv. Elinor, untraced. An Elinor Jenkins m. William H. Clements in Frederick County Jun 20, 1801. This, however, is probably another Elinor.[27]

v. Henrietta, untraced.

vi. Thomas, untraced.

vii. Sarah, untraced.

24. MICHAEL C. JENKINS (7)

B. in St. Mary's County, Dec 12, 1736. In 1757 he settled at Long Green, Baltimore County, on a 900 acre plantation bequeathed to him by his brother, (7iii) Thomas Courtney Jenkins, who had d. that year. On Dec 21, 1761, Michael m. Charity Ann Wheeler, b. ca. 1743, daughter of Thomas and Sarah (Scott) Wheeler of Baltimore County. Michael and Charity Jenkins lived and d. in their home at Long Green, Michael d. Jan, 1802 and Charity d. Nov 10, 1820.[28] They are buried in the Jenkins lot in the churchyard at St. John the Evangelist at Long Green together with at least 29 of their descendants, many more of whom are buried in the cemetery outside the lot. The cemetery is still used by the family and is very interesting. Michael's will of Mar 10, 1797, proved in Baltimore County on Jan 27, 1802, mentions his widow, Charity and ten children. The widow and his son, (43) Thomas Courtney Jenkins, are named as executors. The will was witnessed by Clement Green, Cornelius Donnally, and Isaac Ford. (See Allied Families-Wheeler).

Michael and Charity Jenkins have many descendants; they had forty-one known grandchildren and one hundred fifty-one known great-grandchildren. The dates of Michael's birth, marriage, and the birthdates of his children are taken from an article on Michael Jenkins of Baltimore.[29] The source is an existing Long Green Record Book, now in possession of Mr. Thomas Courtney Jenkins.

The book is very interesting. On the first page, in a fine large hand, is written "Michael C. Jenkins, his book." It contains mostly farm records, but also "Michael's Family Record," all in his own handwriting, and the "Family Record" of his son, (48) Josias down to about 1840.

Mass at Long Green was originally said in the parlor of Michael's home by a priest who probably came from a farm the Jesuits had on Deer Creek in Harford County (erected from Baltimore County in 1773). This farm was bought by the Jesuits in 1743 as a center for their missionary work in Baltimore County. The farm house, called

St. Ignatius, Hickory, 1792.

St. John the Evangelist, Long Green, 1822, 1855

The Cottage, Long Green, ca 1757-1904.
Also known as Homestead Farm.

Priest Neale's Mass House, is still standing. After 1792, the priest probably came from St. Ignatius' Church at Hickory, Harford County, which is also still in use. St. Ignatius' Church was built by the Wheeler family, to which Michael's wife belonged. The first Catholic Church at Long Green was dedicated to St. John the Evangelist and was consecrated May 19, 1822. It was known as St. John's on the Ridge and was located about one and one-half miles northwest of the present church. It burned down Feb 25, 1855, along with all the parish records. The cornerstone of the second church of St. John the Evangelist was laid Jul 22, 1855, and the first mass was celebrated in it Dec 30th of the same year. Baltimore County land records state that (99) Edward F. Jenkins and wife (105) Sarah (of (48) Josias) sold Archbishop Kendrick two acres for $5.00 on Nov 20, 1855. The church is still in use, although its position as parish church was taken by a much larger modern church also dedicated to St. John the Evangelist Nov 2, 1969. The second church was built right next to the first.

Children (Jenkins):

i. Sarah, b. Apr 3, 1763; d. Apr 17, 1843; m. Nov 19, 1794, by Bishop Carroll; Anthony Hearne. She was living in Baltimore in 1832.

43. ii. Thomas Courtney.

44. iii. William.

45. iv. Mary.

v. Ann, b. Jan 9, 1772; m. Charles Hopkins; they had one son, Francis, who d. a scholastic of the Society of Jesus. (Widow) Ann d. Sep 24, 1836; and is buried at Long Green; but her husband is not.

46. vi. Edward.

vii. Ignatius, b. Mar 2, 1776; d. ca. 1819 an invalid; unmarried.

47. viii. Michael.

48. ix. Josias.

49. x. Elizabeth.

25. IGNATIUS JENKINS (7)

B. in 1741, was the youngest child of (7) William, and Mary (Courtney) Jenkins (so stated in the account of the settlement of his father's estate). He moved from St. Mary's County to Baltimore County where he d. in 1793, testate. He m. a widow, Mrs. Henrietta Hammersley, nee Queen. She was the daughter of Samuel or Edward Queen, sons of Samuel and Sarah (Edelen) Queen of Charles County. Sarah (Edelen) Queen was the daughter of Edward Edelen and Elizabeth (Jenkins) Jones, who was the sister of (7) William Jenkins, Ignatius' father. So Ignatius married his first cousin twice removed, since he was first cousin to his wife's grandmother. After the death of Ignatius his widow remarried, in 1793, Thomas Stone.[30]

Children (Jenkins):

50. i. Ignatius Walter.
51. ii. Oswald.
52. iii. Henry.
iv. Samuel, unmarried in 1833.
v. Francis Jesse, b. ca. 1787; d. ca. 1833; probably unmarried. Buried at Long Green.
vi. Ellen (Eleanor), m. Joseph Herbert Aug. 25, 1801; by Bishop Carroll and had one son, Joseph, who d. after 1888.
vii. Theresa, b. ca. 1789; d. Mar, 1817; at the age of 28; unmarried. Her beautifully worded will requests that she be buried in the cemetery of the Roman Catholic Church of St. Peter, which was done. She also mentions all her brothers and sisters in the above order, which since it is the same order used in the will of their father, is probably the order of age.
viii. Mary, untraced.
ix. Edward, untraced.
x. William, untraced.

FOURTH

26. THOMAS SPALDING (10)
B. 1750; d. ca. 1819; on "Spaldings Comfort"; m. twice and had fourteen children, two by his first wife, and twelve by his second. His first wife was Elizabeth Mattingly, daughter of Luke and Priscilla Mattingly of St. Mary's County and sister of Anastasia Mattingly who m. Joseph Spalding.[1] Thomas' second wife was Rebecca Yates. I am indebted for this information to Mrs. Spalding Lalley of Baltimore, a descendant of Thomas and Elizabeth (Mattingly) Spalding, and to Mr. Charles Fenwick of Leonardtown, a descendant of Thomas and Rebecca (Yates) Spalding. In his will of Jun 10, 1814, Thomas mentions his widow, Rebecca, and fourteen children. To his son, William, he deeded $500.00, provided he left the United States Army at once and came home. The War of 1812 was then going on and the British were soon to invade MD.

Children (1)(Spalding):

i. William, b. ca. 1770; m. (wife's name unknown).

53. ii. Zachariah.

Children (2)(Spalding):

54. iii. Thomas.

iv. George Henry, d. 1835.

v. Robert; m. ?

55. vi. Samuel S.

vii. Augustine (Gustavus), never m. (Charles Fenwick believes that he m.)

56. viii. Sylvester.

ix. Mary, d. 1849; unmarried.

x. Mary Ann; m. a Mr. Walker (possibly Wathen).

57. xi. Benedict.

xii. Alexander Joseph; m. ?

xiii. Lucretia; m. Feb 20, 1827, Charles Thompson.

xiv. Martha Rebecca, b. ca. 1813; d. Feb 23, 1843; m. May 5, 1835, Benedict I. Howard, b. ca. 1811; d. Feb 17, 1858. She is called Rebecca Elizabeth in her aunt's will. They had two children.

27. JANE SPALDING (10)
B. ca. 1730; d. ca. 1796; m. ca. 1748; John Sanders Power, d. ca. 1775. Both d. testate.

Children (Power):

i. Clement; m. Sarah Spalding, of Thomas and Mary (Turner) Spalding, of Thomas and Honora (Cole) Spalding. Sara (Spalding) Power m. (2) Basil Smith.
ii. Catherine; m. John Johnson.
iii. Dorothy; m. Richard Wathen.
iv. John Evangelist.
v. Philip and James (this is one son only).
vi. Thomas.
vii. Mary.

28. ANN SPALDING (10)
B. ca. 1734; m. Basil Mahoney, Sr., who came from Ireland. He was a distant relative of the Mudds, both families claiming descent from Donoch, the 141st King of Ireland (Mudd 419). They lived in Charles County. Basil Mahoney, Sr., d. there, testate, between 1786 and 1810. Mrs. Ann (Spalding) Mahoney d. after 1810.

Children (Mahoney):
58. i. Mary Aloysia (Ally, Alusia).

29. SUSANNAH SPALDING (10)
B. ca. 1736; d. ca. 1776; m. ca. 1760; Edward Abell of St. Mary's County, d. ca. 1807. Clements says she m. Samuel Abell the Fourth, but this is not true. The Abells were originally a Protestant family from St. Mary's County and most of their births are recorded in the register of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church there. Through intermarriage with Catholic families many branches of the Abell family have become Catholic. Edward and Susannah (Spalding) Abell had six children whose births were all registered at St. Andrew's Church. This does not mean or indicate that they were Protestants, but only that they conformed to the law requiring registration of all births in the local Anglican parish church. Many Catholics did this to avoid trouble. Many other Catholics refused to do it, and their records are consequently very incomplete.

Mrs. Susannah (Spalding) Abell d. young. On Nov 7, 1778, Edward Abell m. Statia (Anastasia) Taylor and had three more children. Two of them m. back into the Spalding family.

Children (1)(Abell):

i. Jane, b. Nov 5, 1760; m. Apr 27, 1781, Thomas Thomas, and had two sons; Edward and James Thomas.
ii. Benjamin, b. Apr 7, 1764.
iii. Catherine, b. Apr 22, 1766; m. Mr. Bean, and had a son: Samuel Bean.
iv. Samuel, b. Jan 23, 1768; m. (wife's name unknown), and had three children: Susannah, Elizabeth and John Alexander.
v. John, b. Dec 23, 1769.
vi. Mary, b. Nov 7, 1771; m. James A Crane.

Children (2)(Abell):

i. Barbara, b. Jul 10, 1777; m. Henry Augustine Spalding.
ii. Phannel, (a girl), b. Jun 8, 1780.
iii. Eleanor, b. Mar 10, 1782; m. Dec 28, 1799; Zachariah Spalding. She d. before her father, who d. testate in St. Mary's County in 1807.

30. ELEXIUS SPALDING (10)
B. ca. 1738; d. ca. 1783. Very little is known about Elexius Spalding. He m. (wife's name unknown), who predeceased him. His will was probated Sep 16, 1783, in St. Mary's County. He mentions the following children: Richard, Enoch, Verlinda, Elias, Barbary, Catherine.

Children (Spalding):

i. Richard, b. ca. 1758; d. ca. 1833; untraced.
59. ii. Enoch.
iii. Catherine; christened Apr 30, 1761; m. Jan 14, 1789, Andrew Hilton.
60. iv. Elias.
v. Verlinda, b. ca. 1763; d. ca. 1832; m. Feb 16, 1782, Edward Wathen, b. ca. 1765; d. ca. 1840.
vi. Barbara, b. ca. 1765; d. after 1830; m. Enoch King.

31. MARY ANN II SPALDING (10)
M. (14) Henry Spalding, q.v.

32. JANE SPALDING (11)
M. ca. 1770; a Mr. Lowe.

Children (Lowe):

61. i. Daughter.

33. BENEDICT JOSEPH SPALDING (13)
B. in Calvert County, ca. 1745. His father d. in 1767 and two years later his mother m. John Ford of St. Mary's County. In 1770, Benedict Joseph m. Alethea Abell, who was b. ca. 1753. These two dates are from the genealogy of one of their many descendants published in Virkus', Compendium of American Genealogy, Volume V, page 557. Alethea Abell was the daughter of Samuel and Eleanor (Bryant) Abell of St. Mary's County. Mrs. Eleanor (Bryant) Abell was a devout Catholic, while her husband was a zealous Protestant, and High Sheriff of St. Mary's County. It is said that he was content that she should rear the girls in her religion but wanted the boys reared in his, and was very much annoyed when, inspired by their mother's piety, they all became Catholics too. Tradition also tells us that he was received into the Catholic Church before he d.

Benedict Joseph and Alethea (Abell) Spalding had six sons and six daughters, all but the last two of whom were b. in MD. In the spring of 1791 he emigrated to KY with his mother, stepfather, wife and children, and settled on the Rolling Fork, Washington County, where his brother-in-law, Robert Abell, with his wife and ten children, had settled two years before. Benedict Joseph Spalding became a prominent man in KY, was Justice of the Peace and represented Washington County in the State Legislature. He d. Aug 1, 1815, survived by his wife, Alethea, his twelve children, and between 50 and 100 grandchildren. His eldest son, Richard, became quite a wealthy man, m. three times, and had twenty-one children, one of whom was Martin John Spalding, Archbishop of Baltimore 1864-1872.

Children (Spalding):

i. Ann, b. Feb 8, 1771; m. Clement Hamilton.
ii. Eleanor, b. May 3, 1775; m. Basil Riney.
iii. Mary, b. Feb 1, 1773; m. Henry Hudson Wathen ca. 1798, as his second wife.
62. iv. Richard.
v. Thomas, b. Dec 21, 1778; m. Susannah Abell.
vi. Elizabeth, b. Jul 28, 1781; m. (1) John Wathen; (2) Edward Spalding.
vii. Benedict Joseph, b. Jun 10, 1783; m. (1) Mary Hamilton; (2) Elizabeth Elder; (3) Elizabeth McElroy.
viii. Joseph, b. May 7, 1786; d. Sep 7, 1837; m. (1) Elizabeth Moore; (2) Ann Abell; (3) Mary Moore, Elizabeth's sister.
ix. Catherine, b. Feb 25, 1788; m. Richard Forrest.
x. Ignatius, b. May 5, 1790; d. ca. 1850; m. (1) Mary Pottinger; (2) Ann Johnson.
xi. Alethea, b. Feb 1, 1793; m. Francis Sims.
xii. William, b. May 5, 1795; m. Elizabeth Thompson.

34. THOMAS JENKINS (17)

The following account of the life of Thomas Jenkins, of Charles County is taken from a monograph. The Genealogy of the Jenkins Family of Maryland from 1664 to 1895. It was published anonymously, but authorship is clearly claimed by Mrs. Michael (Isabella Plowden Jenkins) Jenkins, who dedicates the book to her cousin Ambrosia (Jenkins) Faxon whose help, she says, was invaluable. Actually, cousins who had copies of the book and who remembered when it was written told me that Ambrosia Faxon did the whole thing herself. She is now recognized as the author. It was privately published by Michael Jenkins of Baltimore in 1906. A copy is in the DAR Library, Washington, D.C. The following account on the life of Captain Thomas Jenkins is probably all based on tradition but is may be correct, since the author was his granddaughter and had ample time and opportunity to learn all about it from her father, her uncles, and her Aunt Matilda (Jenkins) Semmes. The author, however, goes astray in tracing the ancestry of Mrs. Mary (Neale)(Corry) Jenkins, the wife of Captain Thomas Jenkins. I shall not waste time on this as it has already been done very well by Mr. Harry Wright Newman in The Maryland Semmes and Kindred Families, beginning on page 305, a work published by the Maryland Historical Society in 1956 and based on the monumental researches of Raphael T. Semmes of Savannah, GA. Mr. Semmes, a grandson of Captain Thomas Jenkins' daughter Mary Matilda, retired from his hardware business about 1904 and devoted the last ten or twelve years of his life to genealogical research into the Catholic families of Maryland from which he was descended, such as Semmes, Green, Neale, Boarman, Jenkins, and others. The Maryland Historical Society in Baltimore has his notes. I have made extensive use of them. There is, however, very little in Semmes' Jenkins material on the descendants of (17) William Jenkins, of (5) George, of (1) Thomas. I think he was just getting ready to work in this field when he had a heart attack that forced him to stop all his activities. I have some letters he wrote to my father in 1914 about Captain Thomas Jenkins and (17) William, his father. Thomas Jenkins, of (17) William, was always called Captain Thomas Jenkins in his own lifetime, officially, and since then by his descendants. It is a convenient way of referring to him, since of all the Thomas Jenkinses in our family, he alone is called Captain.

Thomas Jenkins, son of (17) William and Elizabeth (Mitchell) Jenkins of Charles County, was b. Jan 18, 1751. In early life he followed the sea in the employment of the firm of Dangerfield, largely engaged in commerce, of Alexandria, VA. When of proper age he engaged in business for himself and established a large tobacco business at Port Tobacco, Charles County, and became the owner of many sea-going vessels.

When the Revolutionary War broke out, he ardently espoused the cause of the colonies and employed all his ships in bringing supplies to the Province. In 1778 he commanded in person the large ship "Potomac" on a voyage from the West Indies, loaded with arms and provisions for the use of the MD patriots. When almost home he had the misfortune to be captured by the British fleet, then off Cape Henry at the mouth of the Chesapeake Bay. Inasmuch as he was personally commanding his own armed ship, which he was operating without the protection of a Commission from the Government, the British considered him an independent privateer; that is, pretty much of a pirate, and were inclined to hang him. His life was probably saved at this point by the intervention of his friend and neighbor, General Smallwood, who threatened to hang an English captain that he had captured if the British hanged Thomas Jenkins. Because of this, and also because they could not prove any actual piratical acts against him, the British agreed to treat him as a prisoner of war and he was taken to New York Harbor and imprisoned in the notorious prison ship, "Old Jersey." After nine months of close confinement in this pestilential prison he was paroled and put ashore to die of a malignant fever contracted on board. However, his strong constitution helped him to overcome the fever and he succeeded in escaping to his friends in MD. Soon after his return he was exchanged for the British captain still held by General Smallwood. The Continental Government then offered him the command of a large ship of war then being fitted out at Alexandria, but on account of the impaired state of his health, he was forced to decline.

A few months after his return, on Aug 12, 1780, he m. Mrs. Mary (Neale) Corry, the widow of Benjamin Leslie Corry of Charles County. Mrs. Mary (Neale) Corry was b. Jan 6, 1759. Her father was Richard Neale of Charles County. Her mother's name is unknown; she predeceased her husband and is not named in his will. Richard Neale d. in 1772 and Mary and her brother, Henry, were raised by her father's sister Theresa (Mrs. Raphael Lancaster). Mary's brother Henry Neale d. young, so she inherited the whole of her father's estate in Charles County. Her father, Richard Neale, was the son of Henry Neale (1691-1743), the son of James and Elizabeth (Lord) Neale of Charles County who m. Mary Gardiner, daughter of John Gardiner and his wife, Mary Boarman, who later m. Robert Slye. Full details about these and all the rest of Richard Neale's ancestors, back to the original pioneers, can be found in the above-mentioned The Maryland Semmes and Kindred Families, by Harry Wright Newman. (Maryland Historical Society, 1956), beginning on page 305.

After their marriage Captain Thomas Jenkins and Mary (Neale)(Corry) Jenkins settled down on the plantation, "Cobb Neck," near Port Tobacco in Charles County, where they spent the rest of their lives. "Cobb Neck" appears to have been a Neale property. They had ten children, two of whom d. in childhood. They had at least fifty-two grandchildren. The Societies of the "Sons" and of the "Daughters of the American Revolution" recognize the outstanding service of Captain Thomas Jenkins to the Revolutionary cause; his descendants are eligible for membership.

Mrs. Mary (Neale)(Corry) Jenkins d. Dec 8, 1812. Captain Thomas Jenkins d. Nov 14, 1821, survived by his six sons, and two daughters. The date of his death is given by Ambrosia Faxon, who probably got it from her father, (68) Lewis A. Jenkins, Captain Thomas' son. It is also given in the extant family Bibles of Captain Thomas' sons (63) Henry and (65) Felix. It is also given in two obituaries. Henry Jenkins' Bible (copied from his father's) also gives the names of all of Captain Thomas Jenkins' children, and their birthdays, death days, marriage days, and names of husbands and wives. The names of the children given in Henry Jenkins' Bible agree with those named by Captain Thomas Jenkins in his will. His will can be found in the Hall of Records at Annapolis but the dates are wrong. Somebody made a mistake copying it into the "Will Book" a hundred or more years ago. I tried to find the original copy, but was unsuccessful. The dates given on the will say that it was written Mar 20, 1822, and probated May 21, 1822. (It is found in Liber HB No. 14, Folio 196.) In it Thomas Jenkins mentions his sons: (63) Henry, (64) William, (65) Felix, (66) Benedict, (67) Frederick, and (68) Lewis A. Jenkins, and daughters (69) Elizabeth Jenkins and (70) Mary Matilda Semmes. He directs that the home plantation should be sold and the money divided among his children, the girls getting two parts each, the boys one. He names his son Lewis A. Jenkins as executor and directs that he consult with Thomas A. Davis and John J. Jenkins, Esquires, in settling it. John H. Lancaster, Michael Boarman, and Charles I. Lancaster are witnesses. The will was probated at the Feb term of the court in 1822, (i.e., before it was written, according to the dates). He also leaves fifty dollars to the Cobb Neck Church. He left an estate valued at about five thousand dollars, besides the plantation. This was big for those days. The estate included many slaves who, according to his granddaughter, Ambrosia, were either set free then or distributed among his children to be set free when of age. All the slaves are listed by name, with their value, in the inventory of the estate. (A few of them are marked worthless.) He and his wife are buried at St. Thomas' Church, Charles County.

Children (Jenkins):

63. i. Henry.
64. ii. William Valentine.
iii. Mary Matilda, b. Sep 13, 1784; d. Nov 10, 1800; unmarried.
65. iv. Felix.
66. v. Benedict Joseph.
67. vi. Frederick.
68. vii. Lewis A.
69. viii. Elizabeth.
70. ix. Mary Matilda.

35. ANN JENKINS (17)

B. Mar 29, 1759; m. a Mr. Ward of Charles County. Tradition says one of the girls m. a Ward. I have seen a letter to Henry Jenkins written from Charles County about 1810 signed "your cousin, Elizabeth G. Ward". Mrs. Faxon and the Browne-Jenkins Family Tree both say one of the girls m. a Ward. and it can only be Ann or Dorothy. It must be Ann, because some of the granddaughters have Ann as either a first or second name, and none of them is named Dorothy. I have not succeeded in settling this. The Family Tree says two unnamed Ward girls m. a Mr. Davis and a Mr. Jamison, both also unnamed. For the time being also I am attributing Eleanor Edelen to Ann. There was an Ann Ward in Charles county in 1790. On Jun 7th of that year Ann Ward refused to act as executor of the estate of Ann Jackson, (L A1, No. 10, F. 390). (1790 Census)

Children (Ward):

i. Eleanor, m. John Edelen. This is frankly an effort to account for Eleanor Edelen mentioned in Henrietta Wheeler's will as her niece. John Edelen of Charles County did m. an Eleanor (last name unknown). In his will of Feb 14, 1832, probated May 24, 1837, he mentions his wife Eleanor and a daughter Elizabeth Jane (CCG, 214.) This also explains the Ellen Edelen who is on the "Brown-Jenkins Family Tree" as a daughter of (17) William and Elizabeth (Mitchell) Jenkins. She was a granddaughter, not a daughter.

ii. Elizabeth Grace, m. Thomas Andrew Davis of Charles County. Her Aunt Henrietta Wheeler calls her "my niece Grace Davis". In his will of Oct 1, 1822, probated Dec 7, 1822 (L. HB No. 14, F 231) Thomas Andrew Davis names his wife, Elizabeth Grace and six children, five of whom are mentioned on the Browne-Jenkins Family Tree.

iii. Henrietta, m. (Walter?) Jameson. She certainly m. a Jameson and Walter Jameson witnessed the will of her uncle-by-marriage, Edward J. Pye. The witnesses are usually close collateral relatives. Walter and Henrietta Jameson probably had at least three children.

36. GEORGE JENKINS (17)

B. Mar 28, 1761. George lived in Charles County all his life and d. there Apr 5, 1831. He m. three times and had six children, three of whom d. in childhood. I do not know much about the descendants of his two daughters. They may be numerous. His only son, (47) John Joseph Jenkins, became a prominent man in Charles County, a judge and member of the State Legislature, and has hundreds of known descendants.

George Jenkins enlisted for three years as a private of the First Maryland Regiment, as stated "Regiment of Foot under Colonel John H. Stone. He answered to the muster roll during May and June 1778 at Valley Forge. In August 1778 he was at White Plains, New York, and reported for muster September 2, 1778. The same month of September 1778, he was at Fish Kills; February 1779 and March 1779 he mustered at Middle Brook. An undated muster roll reported him "sick".[2]

George was a large land owner. By his will of Feb 21, 1831, with a codicil of Mar 12, 1831, probated in Charles County Apr 12, 1831 (L.

WDM 15, F 393) he left 1324 acres "more or less" in Charles County and more land of unspecified acreage in Alexandria, D.C., to his children, grandchildren and to the Archbishop of Baltimore. (Alexandria, VA was in the District of Columbia in 1831.)[3]

"Jun 19, 1824. Set off for Cornwallis Neck. Jun 20. Said Mass at Mrs. Mitchell's ("Myrtle Grove"). Rode to Corwallis Church. Small congr. church neat and well dressed. Confirmed 31 persons. Dined at Mr. (George) Jinkins ("Retirement"). Jun 21. Confirmed at Mr. Jinkins 15 persons." (From diary of Archbishop Ambrose Marechal on a visitation to Cornwallis Neck in 1824.)

Most of the following data are from George's Bible, still extant and in the possession of his great-great-great-grandson Judge Dudley Digges, of La Plata, Charles County (1980). This Bible is an invaluable source of genealogical information as George not only wrote into it data regarding his own family but also more on his parents, brothers and sisters. There is a copy in the archives of the Maryland Historical Society, sent to Raphael T. Semmes about 70 years ago. It is the same as the original, except that the latter contains data on the death of "faithful servants". George Jenkins married three times:

M. (1) Feb 2, 1785; Mary Heard, daughter of John Heard of Charles County (Wills L. AH, No. 9, F 229). Mrs. Mary Heard Jenkins d. Oct 30, 1787. She had two children, John Joseph and Mary (Heard) Jenkins. (71) John Joseph is named in the wills of his father, of his uncle (34) Thomas Jenkins, and of his Aunt Henrietta (Jenkins) Wheeler. Mary (Heard) Jenkins is named in the wills of her father and of her Aunt Henrietta Wheeler. Her father left two plantations in Charles County: Jenkins' Retreat, 168 acres; and Argyle, 157 acres, to her and her husband, Robert Morris (Morrow?). Their two daughters, Mary Laura and Eleanor, are each left a slave.

M. (2) Feb 27, 1789; Mary Arrell, who d. Jun 8, 1796. They had four daughters: Eleanor, Elizabeth, Christiana and Juliana. The last three d. in childhood, all within a period of three months, two within the same week and one, Juliana, at the age of eight months on the same day as her mother d. What could have caused so many deaths in such a short time? An epidemic? A fire? They had terrible epidemics in those days. Even as far north as Philadelphia Yellow Fever, Malaria, Cholera and Small Pox were very bad.

M. (3) Apr 10, 1798, Mary Lawson, daughter of James Lawson of Charles County (Chancery Papers 3037) and sister of Robert Lawson (Deeds L. IB, No. 2, F. 408). They were m. when George was 37 years old and she was about 52. They had no children.

In George's Family Bible we read: Jan 26, 1826, "This day my dear wife departed this uncertain life, aged about 80 years." (Signed) George Jenkins.

Children (1)(Jenkins):

71. i. John Joseph.
72. ii. Mary Heard.

Children (2)(Jenkins):

73. iii. Eleanor Arrell.
iv. Elizabeth, b. Jan 29, 1792; d. Jun 3, 1796.
v Christiana, b. Dec 2, 1793; d. Mar 5, 1796.
vi. Juliana, b. Oct 7, 1795; d. June 8, 1796.

37. SUSANNAH JENKINS (17)
B. Jan 15, 1764; d. ca. 1810; m. ca. 1785; John Baptist Edelen, b. ca. 1763; son of Philip and Penelope (Howard) Edelen of Prince Geroge's County. On May 14, 1790; John Baptist Edelen deeded some property to Hezekiah Johnson, and his wife, Susannah, waived dower (Deeds L JJ No. 2, F. 259). He m. (2), Ann Helen (Helena), the only daughter of Jacob and Elizabeth (Neale) Clements. In his will of Mar 22, 1819; probated in Charles County, Oct 3, 1822, (L HB No. 14, F 214) he names his widow, Helena, and all his six children, viz: Harriet Clarke, Stanislaus Edelen, Mary Henrietta Kirk, Dennis Edelen, Sarah Ann Edelen and John Henry Edelen. He leaves one-third to his widow Helena; one-third to the first four named children; and one-third to be divided evenly among all six of his children. His widow died one month later, testate, leaving her third to her two children (Oct 29, 1822 - Nov 26, 1822), (L HB No. 14, F. 288.). See Newman, Charles County Gentry, 169, (1940).

Children (Edelen):

i. Elizabeth Harriet; m. William Clarke; (License, Oct 9, 1810, Montgomery County). William Clarke probably d. young, because on Dec 26, 1822, a Harriet Clarke of Baltimore m. William R. Spalding of Georgetown, D.C. He d. at Washington, Jun 29, 1839; (Baltimore American -- Dec 30, 1822 and Jun 29, 1839).
ii. Stanislaus.
iii. Mary Henrietta; m. Andrew Kirk; (License D.C., Dec 17, 1818).
iv. Dennis.
v. Sarah Ann.
vi. John Henry; m. Susan (last name unknown).

38. MARY JENKINS (17)
B. May 1, 1771. About 1790 she m., as his second wife, Edward Joseph Pye of Charles County who as his first wife m. a Miss Mitchell. In his will of Dec 30, 1800, probated in Charles County, May 19, 1801, (L. AL No. 12, F. 15) Edward Pye names his wife, Mary, a son who is of age: William Bennett Pye, and three children who are minors: Henrietta, William and John. He leaves one dollar to William Bennett Pye, whom he has evidently already provided for, and divides the rest of his estate among his wife and three minor children. William Bennett Pye d. in 1819, leaving a rich estate to his aunt and uncle, Ann Maria and James W. Mitchell, and to his grandmother, Elizabeth Mitchell Jenkins of Charles County. He also left four hundred dollars for masses, and a large estate to his niece, Sarah Mary Elizabeth Coursey, who must be the daughter of his sister, Henrietta. He does not mention his father's widow or her children although they were still living. (L. HB No. 14, F. 118).

Edward Joseph Pye's will was witnessed by Walter Jameson, John Baptist Edelen and Nehemiah Crawford. His daughter, Henrietta, who was a minor until 1805, was reared by her grandmother, Elizabeth Mitchell (Charles County, Guardian Accounts, 1790-1806, F. 263-264). The two other children, William and John, were reared by their mother, Mary Pye, (Charles County Guardian Accounts, 1806-1812, F. 148, 211, 212, 289, 290, 367, 368; and 1812-23, F. 1, 2, 49, 50, 109, 110, 184, 220, 221, 263, 264, 323, 324, 416). There is no mention of "Joseph Pye", who is on the Browne-Jenkins Family Tree as having m. a DeCoursey. They had two children. The sons John and William Pye, however, are on the Tree.

Children (1)(Pye):

i. William Bennett, b. ca. 1780; d. in Charles County, 1819; unmarried.

ii. Henrietta, b. ca. 1785; m. a Mr. Coursey. They had at least one child, Sarah Mary Elizabeth.

Children (2)(Pye):

i. John, m. a Miss Pye, according to the Browne-Jenkins Family Tree.

ii. William.

39. EDWARD JENKINS (18)

B. in Charles County ca. 1765. He emigrated to KY where on Jul 16, 1798 he m. in Bardstown, KY, by Father Badin, Ann (Nancy) Gardiner, who was baptized in Charles County, Aug 2, 1776. Ann was the daughter of Clement (1748-1820) and Henrietta (Boone) (1750-1830) Gardiner. Clement was the son of Ignatius Gardiner and his wife, Ann Boarman.[4] Edward Jenkins d. in 1821, in Nelson County, KY. Mrs. Ann (Gardiner) Jenkins d. in Louisville, KY, Sep 2, 1870, aged 94, and was buried in St. Louis' Cemetery.[5]

Children (Jenkins):

i. John Abner, b. Jul 7, 1799, Nelson County, KY; d. Jun 25, 1812, aged 12 years 11 months.

ii. Clement Silvester, b. Sep 19, 1800, Nelson County, KY; m. Elizabeth Payne.

iii. Henry, b. Jan 29, 1802, Nelson County, KY.

iv. Elizabeth Henrietta (Harriet), b. Oct 28, 1803, Nelson County, KY; m. Hilary Payne, brother of Elizabeth and Theresa.

v. Mary Ann, b. Dec 5, 1805, Nelson County, KY.

vi. Thomas, b. Mar 17, 1808, Nelson County, KY; d. May 28, 1817.

vii. Catherine, b. Mar 5, 1810, Nelson County, KY; m. Louis Horrell.
viii. Ignatius John Abner, b. Aug 11, 1812, Nelson County, KY.
74. ix. John R.
x. Richard Edward, b. Apr 9, 1816.
75. xi. Felix Carroll.

40. ELIZABETH JENKINS (18)
B. 1769 or 1770. She was the "unborn child" in John's will, John having died in 1769. She m. ca. 1790 in Frederick County, Thomas Lilly, son of Richard Lilly and Mary Elder. According to one of their descendants, Reverend Warren Lilly, S.J. who compiled the Lilly history, Thomas and Elizabeth (Jenkins) Lilly moved to KY in 1795 shortly after the birth of their second son, Thomas. In KY, according to Webb, Thomas Lilly was regarded as one of the solid men of Nelson County and one of the leading members of St. Michael's congregation in Fairfield. Their seven children have hundreds of descendants and constitute one of the largest Catholic families of KY. (See Allied Families-Lilly)

Children (Lilly):
76. i. John.
77. ii. Thomas.
78. iii. Richard.
79. iv. Harriet.
80. v. Matilda.
81. vi. Elizabeth.
82. vii. Mary.

41. THOMAS COURTNEY JENKINS, SR. (21)
B. Jun 20, 1749; m. (wife unknown). I think he must be the father of the Thomas Courtney Jenkins, Jr., of KY (1775-1832). If this is so, Thomas, must have gone to Baltimore to live, where he m. and had a son (83) Thomas Courtney Jenkins, Jr., born in 1775. This son emigrated to KY, where he became a very prominent man and had many children. This should be investigated. Thomas Courtney Jenkins, Sr., d. in 1825. His estate was administered by his son, (83) Thomas C., Jr.[6]

Children (Jenkins):
83. i. Thomas Courtney, Jr.

42. HENRY JENKINS (23)
B. in St. Mary's County, Feb 21, 1768, and m. Martha Stapp in KY Feb 10, 1791. He d. in Scott County, KY Nov 8, 1854. According to old family letters we have been able to establish that he left St. Mary's County for KY about three years before his father's death. His removal from MD was the result of a young man's quarrel with his father, at which time he was disinherited by his father. Young Henry was at that time, we estimate, seventeen years old in 1785. The circumstances of disinheritance, however, were changed by law when (23) Henry Jenkins, the father d. in 1788 without a will as evidenced by records in St. Mary's County,[7] which accords one-fourth of the estate of (23) Henry Jenkins to his wife, Ann (Greenwell) Jenkins, and a distribution of the remaining three-fourths to be divided equally among his seven children named heretofore.

Old letters state that Henry Jenkins, a resident of Scott County, KY, in 1788, did not know of his father's death when it occurred, but following the settlement of the MD estate, Ann (Greenwell) Jenkins came to make her home with her son in Scott County, KY, where she remained until her death. The authenticity of this is established by a letter from Mrs. Lula Poindexter Scruggs, Frankfort, KY, written to Mrs. Foster Adams, Mayfield, KY, on Oct 15, 1925, stating, "I gave you the date of great grandmother Ann (Greenwell) Jenkins' death which was in my grandfather Henry Jenkins' handwriting." He says, "My mother, Ann Jenkins, d. in 1820."

Children (Jenkins):

84. i. John Greenwell.
ii. Ann, b. Dec, 1794; m. (1) a Mr. Ficklin, (2) a Mr. Craig.
iii. Sarah, b. Mar 17, 1797; m. William Bradley.
iv. Mariah, b. Jul 11, 1799; m. Henry Bradley.
v. Lucinda, b. Sep 25, 1801; d. Aug 19, 1827; m. Samuel Poindexter.
vi. Dr. George, b. Feb 15, 1804; m. Hannah Yandell. He was a physician in Graves County, KY.
vii. William, b. Feb 14, 1807.
viii. Matilda, b. May 10, 1810; d. Aug 5, 1890; m. Samuel Poindexter. She was his second wife.

43. THOMAS COURTNEY JENKINS (24)

He was named after his father's brother, Thomas Courtney, who d. at Long Green at the age of 33, in 1757, unmarried, leaving his fine estate to his brother Michael. Among the many descendants of (24) Michael Jenkins, the name Thomas Courtney Jenkins has always been considered a name of distinction, and it still is so considered today, two centuries after the death of its original bearer.

Thomas Courtney Jenkins was born at Long Green, Baltimore County, Feb 18, 1765. He and his brothers were all educated at a neighboring country school, and he used to tell how, during the Revolutionary War, the schoolmaster armed all his boys with corn stalks and drilled them every day after school. Since his father's farm was not big enough to support his five sons, the four older sons, Thomas Courtney, William, Edward and Michael, all went to Baltimore City when they reaced the age of 18 or 20. God certainly blessed their efforts because they all became rich and prominent businessmen and the founders of families noted for their loyalty to the Catholic Church. Thomas Courtney Jenkins was in Baltimore in 1785, and by 1795 the four brothers were there. They all fought in the Battle of North Point. Thomas Courtney retired from his business early, devoting himself to the tranquil pursuits of private life.

On Jan 23, 1806, he m. in Baltimore by Bishop Carroll; Elizabeth Gould,[8] the daughter of Oliver and Mary de Bion Gould, of Arcadian descent. Tradition has it that the name Gould was originally de Bion.

Children (Jenkins):

i. Louis William, m. Apr 4, 1836, by Father de Barth, Robina Hillen of Baltimore, daughter of Thomas and Robina (McHaffey) Hillen. Thomas Hillen was the son of Solomon Hillen of Charles County and his first wife, Martha Wheeler, who was also his stepsister. They had one son, Louis William, who d. without issue. His widow m. Louis Roper, M.D., a prominent dentist of Philadelphia. Robina Roper d. Apr 23, 1857. (See Allied Families-Hillen-Wheeler).

85. ii. Michael Courtney.

86. iii. Theodore.

iv. Oliver Lawrence, a priest of the Society of St. Sulpice, the last president of old St. Mary's College, in Baltimore, and the first president of St. Charles' Seminary at Ellicott City. B. in 1813, he was graduated with distinction from St. Mary's College, Baltimore, in 1831, and he entered upon a business career. From 1831 to 1841 he was a successful banker. He spent the year 1837-38 in European travel. In 1841 he entered St. Mary's Seminary and was ordained in 1844. He joined the Society of St. Sulpice in 1846 and in 1848 was chosen by the Archbishop, with the consent of his superior, to build the new junior seminary at Ellicott City. He must have been a very busy man for in 1852 he was appointed th last president of St. Mary's College, in order to dissolve this flourishing and excellent educational institution. It was abolished at the order of the Superior General because, he said, the Sulpicians were founded to conduct seminaries and not secular colleges. Through an understanding with the Jesuits, its place was immediatley taken by Loyola College.

St. Charles' Seminary at Ellicott City was a fine, large seminary with an exceptionally beautiful chapel, modeled after the Saints Chapelle in Paris. Father Jenkins built the chapel himself, with his own inheritance. He directed the seminary until his death Aug 11, 1869. In 1911 everything was completely destroyed by fire, and rebuilt at Catonsville. As he considered that the current histories of English literature did not do justice to Catholic writers, Father

Jenkins found time, among all his other duties, to write The Student's Handbook of British and American Literature, an excellent book which had run through eleven editions by 1916.

v. Martha Ann de Valcourt, d. Apr 1864; m. Jun 14, 1837; by Archbishop Eccleston, Zaccheus Collins Lee, son of Richard Henry and Sarah (Collins) Lee, and great-grandson of Light-Horse Harry Lee of Revolutionary War fame. They had two children, Richard Henry and Elizabeth.

87. vi. Thomas Robert.

44. WILLIAM JENKINS (24)

B. Feb 5, 1767, at Long Green, Baltimore County, and d. in Baltimore, Feb 21, 1843; the third child and second son of (24) Michael and Charity Ann (Wheeler) Jenkins. William Jenkins m. (1) Apr 21, 1793; in Baltimore, by Father Sewell, Ann Hillen, daughter of Solomon and Martha (Clements) Hillen of Charles County. Martha Clements was Solomon Hillen's second wife. His first wife was Martha Wheeler, who was also his stepsister. Mrs. Ann (Hillen) Jenkins, b. ca. 1773; d. Aug 9, 1799,[9] soon after the birth of her only child, a daughter, Mary Ann, b. Jun 4, 1799. (See Allied Families-Hillen)

William Jenkins, m. (2) Jun 2, 1801[10] Eleanor Willcox, daughter of Mark and Mary (Flahavan) Willcox. He was the son of Thomas and Elizabeth (Cole) Willcox, of Ivy Mills, Delaware County, PA. Thomas Willcox, immigrant, learned paper making in England and, in 1729, built on the west branch of Chester Creek, Delaware County, PA, one of the early paper mills in British America.[11] Mrs. Eleanor (Willcox) Jenkins was b. May 5, 1780, and d. Jun 19, 1816. William Jenkins was a prominent merchant of Baltimore and one of the charter members of the Northern Central RR, then the Baltimore and Susquehanna RR. He was also one of the original trustees of the Cathedral. (See Allied Families-Willcox).

William Jenkns, came to Baltimore in 1780 as an apprentice to a tanner, William Hayward.

(The next two paragraphs are from Balimore, Past and Present, Mayer, Richardson and Bennet Publishing Company, Baltimore.)

Though but a child at the commencement of the revolutionary struggle he felt the enthusiasm and military ardour which pervaded all classes. He used to relate, as an illustration of the spirit of the time, how the country schoolmaster who had scarcely a boy over ten years of age, would, after lesson hours, draw up his little school in military array, arm them with corn stalks, and put them through their drill. At the close of the war, young Jenkins, being thirteen yeas old, and perceiving that his father could with difficulty provide for the wants of his large family, determined to go to Baltimore and carve out his own fortune.

At the commencement of the last war with Great Britain, Mr. Jenkins, though over military age, became a member of a volunteer troop of cavalry and took an active part in the defense of Baltimore, having also four brothers in the field.
A few days before the battle of North Point, while on a visit home, having laid aside his uniform to enjoy a few minutes repose, he found, when he was about to resume it, that it had been hidden by his wife to prevent him from going. Since she refused to restore it, he reported for duty in civilian clothes.

The article also says that he was a large handsome man and was frequently mistaken for George Washington, whom he strongly resembled. His picture is a reproduction of a mezzotint etching by Sartaine, of which I have a copy, i.e., one of the originals. It shows him wearing a queue, which he continued to do long after the fashion had geen generally abandoned. My copy of the etching originally belonged to my grandmother, who was his great-niece.

46. EDWARD JENKINS (24)
B. Mar 27, 1774, at Long Green, in Baltimore County. Edward and his brothers were educated at a nearby country school. About 1789 his father apprenticed him to a Baltimore saddler, and in 1796 he went into business there for himself. His business, importing, making and selling saddlery, harness and hardware, grew to be a very big one. In 1814 Edward was one of the defenders of Baltimore. On Feb 15, 1803,[14] he m. by Father Beeston; Ann Spalding, eldest of the six children of William and Mary (Lilly) Spalding, of Baltimore. Ann (Spalding) Jenkins was b. in Shepherdstown, VA (WV) May 28, 1786; and

d. in Baltimore, Feb 3, 1841. Her father, William Spalding, who d. in Baltimore, Aug 3, 1803, at the age of 48, was the son of Basil and Catherine (Green) Spalding of Charles County. Mrs. Mary (Lilly) Spalding was the daughter of Richard and Mary (Elder) Lilly of Frederick County. William Spalding in his will of Apr 25, 1803, probated in Baltimore Aug 17, 1803,[15] names his children, says Ann is the only m. daughter, and names Edward Jenkins, as his son-in-law. He makes Edward Jenkins, and Basil Spalding Elder, whom he calls his partner, but who was also his nephew, the executors of his estate. He makes Basil Spalding Elder the sole guardian of his minor children (they were all minors).

In 1831 Edward Jenkins was succeeded in business by his son, Austin. He d. in Baltimore Apr 14, 1833, and was buried in a vault in the Old Cathedral Cemetery. This vault, called the Edward Jenkins vault, was moved to the New Cathedral Cemetery about fifty years later. Many of his descendants and their families are, or were, buried in it. (See Allied Families-Spalding).

Children (Jenkins):

He could have left, but stayed there to take care of the sick. His body was brought back on the U.S. Frigate Congress in 1853 and was reinterred in the cemetery at Georgetown College.
ix. Harriet Ann, b. Oct 6, 1820; d. Feb 10, 1841. She entered the Visitation Convent, Georgetown, D.C., in 1836 and was professed in 1837. She is buried in the vaults of the convent.
x. Samuel Lilly, b. Oct 1, 1822; d. Dec 6, 1831, aged nine years.
100. xi. Ellen Maria.

47. MICHAEL JENKINS (24)

B. Feb 25, 1778. He was probably apprenticed to a cabinet maker as a boy, for in 1799 at the age of 21 he established his own furniture and cabinet business on Light Street in Baltimore. He and his sons became famous for their fine furniture. He joined the First Company of the Fifth Regiment under the command of Col. Heath and fought in the battles of Bladensburg and North Point.[16] After his death, Sep 8, 1832, his son Anthony succeeded to his business.

It was inevitable that a cabinet maker would make, among other things, coffins, which certainly are cabinets of a sort. From this developed the famous undertaking firm of Henry W. Jenkins, Funeral Directors, established by Michael's son Henry. This is probably the oldest undertaking establishment in the United States.

Michael Jenkins m. Jan 8, 1806, Ann Worthington, of Baltimore.[17] Henry W. Jenkins, the 4th generation of his family to direct the undertaking firm, d. Nov, 1958. The firm is no longer owned by the family (1982).

Michael Jenkins was a private in Captain Stuart's Company, Washington Blues.[18]

The following history of the descendants of Michael Jenkins is based on the Browne-Jenkins Family Tree, old records of the Wheeler family, and (principally) on data compiled by David Wheeler Jenkins (ca. 1870-1958) of Baltimore. He sent it to his cousin, Mrs. Rachel (Mifflin) Ullmann, of Bethlehem, PA, who lent it to me.

Michael Jenkins, son of (24) Michael, (1736-1802) and Charity Ann (Wheeler) Jenkins of Long Green, Baltimore County, b. Feb 25, 1778, and d. in Baltimore Sep 8, 1832. On Jan 8, 1806, he m. Ann Worthington, daughter of Henry Worthington. They had five children, of whom only the first three are listed on the Browne-Jenkins Tree. The last two names I found on an old Wheeler chart. The may be children who d. young.[19]

Children (Jenkins):

101. i. Anthony Hearn.
ii. Elizabeth, unmarried.
102. iii. Henry Worthington.
iv. Mary.
v. Sarah.

48. JOSIAS JENKINS (24)

B. Mar 17, 1781, d. Apr 20, 1823, the ninth child and youngest son. He was the only son who did not leave home and go to Baltimore to live. His five older brothers left home because the farm at Long Green was not big enough to support the whole family. Josias stayed at Long Green, operated the farm there where all his seven children were born. He m. Oct 8, 1805,[20] by Bishop Carroll; Elizabeth Ann Hillen, b. Nov 18, 1787; d. Jun 7, 1859, daughter of John Hillen and his wife, Mrs. Catherine Rusk, nee Hasselbach, of Baltimore. John Hillen was the son of Solomon Hillen of Charles County and his wife, Martha Wheeler, who was also his stepsister. (See Allied Families-Hillen)

Josias Jenkins took an active part in the defense of Baltimore in 1814, holding the rank of Captain.

63. HENRY JENKINS (34)
B. at Cobb Neck, Charles County, Oct 28, 1781, and d. in Baltimore, Dec 31, 1869, at the age of 88. On Apr 25, 1798, his father took him to Baltimore and apprenticed him to Arnold Livers, hatter, to learn the trade. Henry Jenkins was in business as a hatter and furrier on the corner of Baltimore and Calvert Streets for many years. Ambrosia Faxon says that in 1823 he entered into partnership with William Spalding Jenkins at that location. This partnership cannot have lasted more than a few years. On Sep 17, 1809,[3] he m. by Bishop Carroll, Ann Harrion, b. Dec 22, 1791; d. Sep 14, 1817. She was the daughter of Joseph (d. Dec 1, 1817) and Margaret Victory (d. Dec 5, 1830) Harrion of Baltimore. In Henry's Family Bible the name is spelled Harrion, which is also the way it is spelled in Colonial Families of the United States of America,[4] in an article that was taken from the Bible. The Baltimore marriage records, however, have Harrison, as did also Ambrosia Faxon, who was her niece. Since this is the sole case of Harrion, a family name on record at Annapolis, while the Harrisons were a well known Maryland family, I think it is quite possible that the name should be Harrison. It should not be too hard to settle this question.

Mrs. Ruth Jenkins Bristor of Baltimore, however, says that her father, Robert Edgar Jenkins, always said Harrion, and he undoubtedly got the pronunciation from his father who was a son of Ann Harrion. Furthermore, Henry Jenkins wrote Harrion three times in his Bible and the Cathedral records also have the name spelled Harrion.[5]

Children (Jenkins):

i. Margaret Victory, b. Jul 4, 1810; d. Mar 24, 1892. She entered the Visitation Convent, Baltimore, where she was professed in 1848 as Sister M. Perpetua. She d. at the age of 81, superior of the convent, Brooklyn, NY.

120 ii. Elizabeth Jane.

iii. Anastasia, b. Aug 6, 1814; d. Apr 25, 1900; m. Jan 23, 1833 at St. Peter's Church, Baltimore; Charles Wood of Richmond, VA. Untraced.

121 iv. Thomas Peter.

64. WILLIAM VALENTINE JENKINS (34)

B. Feb 14, 1783, at Cobb Neck, Charles County, and d. in Baltimore, May 15, 1854. He m. in Baltimore Nov 9, 1807,[6] by Father Beeston, Ann Maria Wells who d. Feb 25, 1826, age 37. In 1809 he established a business for himself on York Road, later at Huntington. In 1814 he helped defend Baltimore against the British. Marine's British Invasion of MD lists four William Jenkinses: Lieutenant, Private, Surgeon, and Gunner. I do not know which he was. In 1829 he erected a tannery on Jenkins' Lane, Cold Stream. He retired from business after the depression of 1837. He was then appointed by President Jackson to a position in the Customs House, which he held until his death in 1854. He had thirteen children whose descendants are spread all over the United States, viz:

Children (Jenkins):

i. Mary Josephine, m. May 3, 1827, by Father Pise, Richard Wright of Georgetown, D.C. They were m. in Baltimore, untraced.

ii. Catherine, m. Dr. Joseph Heuisler, untraced.

iii. Thomas, m. Feb 17, 1836, Susan Anderson of Baltimore, untraced.

iv. Frederick O., went to Woodville, MS, where he d. in 1839, untraced.

v. Octavius Mark, went to KY, m. and d. there, untraced.

122 vi. Charles Francis, emigrated to Caldwell, KY in 1835; m. a Miss Arthur Williams in 1838 (Ambrosia Faxon), and was in the state legislature and sheriff of the county for twenty years. They had six children.

vii. Lionel Wells, entered the Society of Jesus and d. a scholastic at Georgetown, D.C.

viii. Ambrose Marechal, went to KY; m. and d. there, at the age of 33 or 38.[7]

123 ix. Cyprian.

x. Enoch Fenwick, d. in infancy.

124 xi. William Henry.

xii. Augustus Ludlow, b. ca. 1814; d. in Baltimore, Aug 10, 1839, age 25.

xiii. Constantine D., of Baltimore, still living there in 1895, untraced.

65. FELIX JENKINS (34)

B. at Cobb Neck, Charles County, Oct 18, 1786, and d. in Baltimore, Aug 27, 1838. He was the fourth child and third son of (34) Captain Thomas and Mary (Neale) (Corry) Jenkins. When he was 14, probably in the spring of 1801, his father took him to Baltimore and apprenticed him to (46) Edward Jenkins, saddler, (1774-1833) to learn the trade. (46) Edward, a son of (24) Michael and Charity Ann (Wheeler) Jenkins of Long Green, had been established in the saddlery and hardware business since 1796.

Felix Jenkins m. twice, (1) Martha Coskery who was then about 17 years old, m. by Archbishop Carroll May 10, 1814.[8] Felix and Martha were related through the Mitchells, according to Raphael Semmes, who unfortunately gave no details. They lived at No. 6 South Street and had four children, three girls and a boy. The boy, Felix the first, d. young, as did also one of his sisters. The two girls who grew up became Visitation Nuns. Mrs. Martha (Coskery) Jenkins d. Dec 16, 1821.

On Sep 3, 1822, Felix m. (2) Frances Helen Wheeler, b. Oct 2, 1799, at St. Omer's Farm, Deer Creek, Harford County. She was the daughter of Benjamin Wheeler (1730-1802) and his second wife, Elizabeth Green (1761-1802) who was the daughter of Benjamin and Elizabeth (Thomas) Green of Harford County and the great-great-granddaughter of Governor Thomas Green, who came to MD on Mar 25, 1634, on the Ark.[9] Felix Jenkins and Frances Wheeler were m. by her brother, Father Michael Francis Wheeler, S.S., of St. Mary's College, Baltimore. They had eight children, of whom four d. young. Mrs. Frances Helen (Wheeler) Jenkins d. Jun 6, 1887, at 400 Cathedral Street, Baltimore, the home of her son Dr. Felix Jenkins, with whom she lived. She and her husband are buried in the New Cathedral Cemetery, to which the remains of her husband were transferred when the old cemetery was abolished. My father said she personally supervised the transfer of all the bodies from our lot in the old cemetery to the new, and identified them. She must have been about 85 when this happened. (See Allied Families = Wheeler).

The parents of Mrs. Frances Helen (Wheeler) Jenkins d. in 1802. Her mother, on Feb the 8th and her father on Mar the 7th, it is said, of injuries received when their house burned down. This is surely erroneous because their house was still standing after Benjamin Wheeler's death, since the executors of his estate had a meeting in it. I think it was her half-brother Thomas, and his wife who may have died (in 1807) when their house burned down. Thomas and his wife d. within a week of each other and were buried the same day. Frances Helen Wheeler was only two years old when her parents d. She, her brother Michael, and her sister Charity Theresa were reared by their uncle, Benjamin Green, Jr., who had been appointed their legal guardian. For many years Frances was a boarding student at the school for girls conducted by the famous Mother Seton at Emmitsburg.

Felix Jenkins helped to defend Baltimore from the English in 1814. He served as a Private in Captain Samuel Moale's First Artillery Regiment.[10] He enlisted at Baltimore on Aug 19, 1814, and was discharged on Nov 30th of the same year. This is proved by the records of the War Department. On Apr 5, 1878, his widow applied for and was granted a pension (No. 10701).

It is well known that the defeat of the English Army at North Point, near Baltimore, on Sep 12, 1814, was partly due to the fact that two brave young men sacrificed their lives to kill the English commander, General Ross. The young men, Henry McComas and Daniel Wells, were about eighteen years old and were members of the militia defending the city. They volunteered to conceal themselves in a tree and shoot the commander as the British marched by. This they did, but were themselves immediately killed by the British, since the smoky black powder used at that time betrayed their position. Both the young men were saddlers' apprentices, McComas to Felix Jenkins and Wells to Edward Jenkins, both ancestors. My father said his grandmother used to talk about this. A monument has been erected to these two young men at Ashland Square, Baltimore.[11]

Children (1)(Jenkins):

i. Ann Maria, b. Sep 24, 1815; d. Aug 5, 1817.

ii. Sarah, b. Feb 16, 1818; entered the Convent of the Visitation, Georgetown, D.C., in Jul, 1834, and was professed on Jun 11, 1836, as Sister Clare Agnes Jenkins. She d. there on Apr 12, 1842, and is buried in the Convent Cemetery.

iii. Felix B., b. Dec 3, 1819; d. Aug 25, 1820.

iv. Emily, b. Feb 24, 1821; entered the Convent of the Visitation, Baltimore, in May, 1838, where she was known as Sister Mary Josephine Jenkins. She d. Nov 7, 1857 at the Visitation Convent, Park Street, Baltimore, aged 37 years, 11 months.

Children (2)(Jenkins):

v. Frances D., b. Feb 16, 1824; d. Jan 6, 1853. She entered the Convent of the Visitation, Baltimore, where she was known as Sister Clare Agnes Jenkins. She d. on the Feast of the Epiphany (Family Bible) 1853, at the Convent of the Visitation, Wheeling, VA (WV), aged 28 years, 11 months.

Sister Clare Agnes Jenkins

I received the following note on Sister Clare Agnes Jenkins from the Convent of the Visitation, 1500-35th Street, Washington, D.C. on Feb 23, 1961.

On the list of deceased sisters of this house, there is a Sister Clare Agnes Jenkins, whose death occurred on Apr 12, 1842.

The Convent book records that Sister Clare Agnes Jenkins received the holy habit on Jun 9, 1835, of the rank of Choir sister, and that she professed her vows on Jun 11, 1836.

There is, unfortunately, no record (yet discovered) of her date of entrance or of her name in the world. There is mention of the fact that she had permission to make her vows from the eccliesiastical superior who examined her, and of her father, Mr. Felix Jenkins.

The sketch of her life written after her death tells further that "she entered our monastery at the age of sixteen." Her delicate health caused her to be exempted from the exercises of the community. Meekness and docility were her characteristic virtues; never was she known to deviate from their practice. Her death occurred Apr 12, 1842, signed by the Superior, Sister Ann Agatha Combs. (Entry from old account book for May 20, 1836: Mr. Felix Jenkins, on account of the hire of Sarah's servant - $143.00).

125 vi. Felix.
vii. Michael Wheeler, b. Aug 10, 1827; d. in Baltimore, unmarried Mar 8, 1896, of a heart attack. He was educated at St. Mary's college, Baltimore, and then studied law.
viii. Julia Ann (Julianna), b. May 2, 1829; d. "at Mrs. Ford's house, Cecilton, Cecil County, on the Eastern Shore" Nov 11, 1847, aged 18 years, 6 months, unmarried.
ix. Janette, b. Mar 6, 1831; d. Apr 1, 1832.
126 x. Julius Albert.
xi. David Armour, b. in 1836 and d. the same year.
xii. Robina, b. Aug 25, 1838, (two days before her father d.); d. Dec 25, 1845, aged 7 years and 4 months.

66. BENEDICT JOSEPH JENKINS (34)
B. at Cobb Neck, Charles County, Aug 26, 1788 and d. (in Baltimore?), Aug 19, 1837. He was the fifth child of (34) Captain Thomas and Mary (Neale) (Corry) Jenkins. Ambrosia Faxon says: "For many years he held and lived in the old manor at Woolaston, now (1895) in the possession of some of the family." The Neales had a manor called "Wollaston", and since his wife was a Neale he probably acquired it through her. Mrs. Faxon says: "In 1809 Benedict Joseph Jenkins from Charles County, a sea captain, moved to Baltimore, to a house at No. 6 Market Street." Probably he had a town house in Baltimore and another on in Charles County.

On Jan 16, 1817, he m. in Baltimore by Father Fenwick, Adeline (Neale) Murphy or Murray of St. Mary's County. Mrs. Faxon calls her Murray but the Baltimore Marriage Records at Annapolis have it Murphy. These records, however, have been copied from old and often faded originals which are often hard to read and they frequently are more or less in error. For example, Anastasia Jenkins who on Jan 1, 1833, m. Charles Wood, is called Ann Stracey Jenkins in the records. The name could be either Murray or Murphy, and a little research should clear it up. Mrs. Faxon says that after Benedict's death in 1837 the widow took her seven children and in 1838 emigrated to IL. I know nothing more about any of this family.

An obituary of Benedict Joseph Jenkins from an unknown Baltimore newspaper begins this way:

> "Died on Saturday the nineteenth after a lingering illness, Captain Benedict J. Jenkins in the 49th year of his age, formerly captain in the employment of some of the most respectable merchants of the city, and of late years master of the steamboat 'Fredericksburg,' etc. etc." (The rest not copied)

Children (Jenkins):

i. John.
ii. Thomas.
iii. Ellen.
iv. Josephine
v. Rufus.
vi. Napoleon.
vii. Mary.

67. FREDERICK JENKINS (34)
B. at Cobb Neck, Charles County, Aug 15, 1790, d. Apr 8, 1860;[12] the fifth son and sixth child of (34) Captain Thomas and Mary (Neale) (Corry) Jenkins. He went to Baltimore as a boy and probably lived there with one of his brothers -- (63) Henry or (65) Felix, until his marriage. In 1814 as a Captain of Militia he helped saved the city from the English. According to his niece, Ambrosia (Jenkins) Faxon, he went into the grocery business in 1819 at 23 Walter Street, Baltimore. He subsequently moved, with his family, to Carondelet, MO, now part of St. Louis, where he died.

Frederick m. (1) Harriet A. Wells of Baltimore, Apr 4, 1820, by Father Fenwick. Harriet died prior to 1826 when her mother, Margaret Wells made her will.[13] She may have been the mother of the first three children, viz: Ellen, Matilda and Alexander; as in his will of Apr 7, 1860, Frederick makes specific bequests to them, and then leaves his widow and son George everything else.

Frederick m. (2) Mary Louisa Walter, of Baltimore, Jun 10, 1828, by Archbishop Whitfield. The marriages are proved by the Baltimore Marriage Licenses and by the family record in the extant Bible of his brother Henry.

Children (1)(Jenkins):

i. Ellen, wife of John Shade.
ii. Matilda, wife of Clarke Rockwell.
iii. Alexander.

Children (2)(Jenkins):

iv. George Washington.

68. LOUIS A. JENKINS (34)
B. at Cobb Neck, Charles County, May 28, 1793, the youngest of the six sons. In 1821 his father made him an executor of his will.[14] He m. Mary Boarman, daughter of James and Nancy (Bradford) Boarman of Charles County. Louis was educated at Georgetown College, D.C. I do not know whether he took an active part in the War of 1812 or not, but a Lewis Jenkins was an Ensign in the Navy at that time and I suppose it was he. In 1827 he opened a commission house at No. 8 Pratt Street and later on Light Street, Baltimore, the first merchant of his name. He was appointed an officer of the customs by Presidents Jackson and Van Buren. He d. in Baltimore May 23, 1849.

Children (Jenkins):

i. D. Bradford, d. in Texas, Jun. 20, 1852, untraced.

ii. Ambrosia, m. Jul 21, 1853, in Baltimore, Eben Faxon, architect. She was the author of the Jenkins monograph from which much of this was taken. While there are a lot of mistakes in her book, which gives no references and depends largely on tradition, it is very valuable and provides many clues to fruitful research. The book was published by Michael Jenkins in 1906 to please his wife, and it was written for the same reason. Mrs. Isabel Jenkins was grateful and had put in the book the statement that "Ambrosia Faxon was an exceptionally beautiful woman."

iii. Mary.

iv. Ignatius, m. Mercedes de Oliveo.

69. ELIZABETH JENKINS (34)
B. at Cobb Neck, Charles County, Oct 1, 1797. On Dec 3, 1819 she m. Jason Jenkins of Baltimore, son of Francis Jenkins of Prince George's County. The Prince George's County Jenkinses are another family, perhaps several families, probably not descended from (1) Thomas Jenkins. I know very little about them, but I hope to learn more. At least some of them were Catholics and their founders were probably related to ours.

Ambrosia Faxon enumerates two Jason Jenkinses in Baltimore about this time: James Jason Jenkins, a pilot from St. Mary's County who bought a house on Aliceanna Street in 1814, and James and Jason Jenkins, cabinet makers, at No. 6 Calvert Street, in 1819. I suppose one of these m. Elizabeth Jenkins, but I do not know which one. I think it must have been James Jason Jenkins, the pilot, because he seems to have had a home in St. Mary's County, besides the house in Baltimore. Jason Jenkins d. young and is buried in the Sacred Heart Churchyard, near Bushwood, St. Mary's County. His tombstone reads: "Sacred to the memory of Jason Jenkins, who lost his life by a fall from his horse, returning from Church on Sunday, Feb 25, 1821, in the 28th year of his age." Jason and Elizabeth Jenkins had one son, James Henry, who must have been only a few months old when his father d., since they were m. Dec 3, 1819, (Family Bible of Henry Jenkins).

In 1831, ten years after her husband d., the widowed Mrs. Elizabeth Jenkins entrusted her 9 year old son to her sister, Mrs. Matilda Semmes, to rear, and entered the Baltimore Visitation Convent. She was professed May 21, 1833 as Sister Alphonsa Jenkins. In 1843 she with other members of her community founded the Mobile, AL, Visitation Convent, of which she was superior for six years, and where she d. May 9, 1862. Her son, James Henry Jenkins, used to visit his mother in the Convent in Mobile, AL for many years. He is believed to have gone to California.

Children (Jenkins):

i. James Henry, b. ca. 1820; m. Jul 8, 1848, by Father Morris, Charity Ann Jenkins of Baltimore; untraced. I must admit I do not know who she is. With a name such as that she could be a descendant of Michael and Charity Ann (Wheeler) Jenkins of Baltimore, but she does not seem to be one. I think she could be a descendant, possibly a granddaughter, of one of Michael's brothers, probably William or Henry, of whom I know very little. She could even be a granddaughter of Michael's brother, Ignatius.

70. MARY MATILDA JENKINS (34)

The second, b. Dec 28, 1800, at Cobb Neck, Charles County, the ninth and last child of (34) Captain Thomas and Mary (Neale) (Corry) Jenkins. She was b. one month and eighteen days after the unexpected death of her sister, Mary Matilda, at the age of 16. (Her sister Elizabeth was named after her father's mother. Mary is obviously named after her own mother). On Oct 2, 1818, she m. Raphael Semmes, son of Joseph and Henrietta (Thompson) Semmes of Charles County. Raphael Semmes was b. in Charles County, Aug 21, 1786. About 1819 he moved from Charles County to Georgetown, D.C., where he and his family became identified with the social life of the community. He was the uncle of the captain of the "Alabama."

Harry Wright Newman in The Maryland Semmes and Kindred Families published 1956 by the Maryland Historical Society, cites numerous legal actions and transfers of land to and from various members of the family between 1818 and 1824, which prove the identity of both Raphael Semmes and his wife. For example, on Jul 7, 1824, he and his wife, Matilda Semmes of Georgetown, conveyed to Lewis A. Jenkins, of Charles County, two-tenths of Gill's Land which had descended to Matilda Semmes by the will of her deceased father Thomas Jenkins.

Children (Semmes):

i. Ann Maria, b. Aug 14, 1819; d. Sep 21, 1820.
127 ii. Mary Virginia.
128 iii. Benedict Joseph.
129 iv. Thomas Jenkins.
130 v. Ann America.
vi. Alexander Ignatius, b. Dec 17, 1828; was educated at Georgetown College, Columbia College (now George

St. Joseph, Pomfret, 1762. Built by John Joseph Jenkins.

Washington University) and the University of Paris, and then became Resident Physician at the Charity Hospital in New Orleans, LA. He served as a Surgeon in the Confederate Army and then practiced medicine and was Professor of Physiology at the Savannah Medical College. He m. the daughter of the Attorney General in Andrew Jackson's first cabinet. She d. young and without children. He continued his medical work until about 1875, when he gave it up and began studying theology. He was ordained a Catholic priest at the age of 50. He spent the remainder of his life lecturing, teaching and doing missionary work throughout the state of Georgia until 1895 when he suffered a paralytic stroke. He d. in 1898, at the Hotel Dieu in New Orleans, LA.

vii. Clara Elizabeth, b. Aug 5, 1830; m. Nov 4, 1850. William Bushby FitzGerald, C.S.N., son of Edward and Mary Hite (Bushby) FitzGerald, of Clarksburg. William FitzGerald, at one time an officer in the U.S. Navy, later became a Captain in the Confederate Navy. He d. Aug 9, 1862; they had no children.

131 viii. Mary Sabina.

132 ix. Cora Matilda.

x. Raphael Semmes, b. Jun 1836; lost at sea in 1853 from the S.S. Antelope, en route from San Francisco to New York; aged 17.

133 xi. Ada Elizabeth.

xii. Peregrine Warfield, a son, b. Mar 12, 1841; d. in Memphis, TN, Feb 15, 1906; unmarried.

xiii. William Gaston, b. Dec 7, 1843; d. May 17, 1844; the last child.

71. JOHN JOSEPH JENKINS (36)

B. at "Retirement" on the Mattawoman, in Charles County, Mar 7 1786; m. Feb 22, 1808; Mary Ann Plowden, daughter of Edmund and Jane (Hammersley) Plowden of St. Mary's County. Mrs. Mary Ann (Plowden) Jenkins was b. Oct 6, 1784, and d. Jun 27, 1827. John Joseph d. in Charles County Jan 2, 1845 in his 59th year.[15]

John Joseph Jenkins was a very popular and highly respected man: indeed, he was one of the outstanding men of our family. A good citizen and a good Catholic, he was a State Senator and Judge, a scholarly and benevolent gentleman who filled many important positions. He was a builder of St. Joseph's Church, Pomfret. His father-in-law, Edmund Plowden, was a member of the Maryland Legislature from 1792 to 1796 and d. Apr 20, 1804, a few months after his wife. He was the son of Edmund (ca. 1710-1757) and Henrietta Maria (Slye) Plowden, he the son of George Plowden (1663-1717) who came to MD in 1684 at the age of 22, and who before 1696 m. Margaret Brent, daughter of Giles Brent, whose father Giles Brent was Governor of MD, and whose grandfather, Sir Richard Brent, was Lord of Stoke and Addington, in England. (See Allied Families -- Plowden).

Mrs. Henrietta Maria (Slye) Plowden was the daughter of Robert Gerrard Slye and his wife, who was Mrs. Mary (Boarman) Gardiner, daughter of William and Mary (Pile) Boarman and widow of Luke Gardiner. Robert Gerrard Slye was the son of Robert and Susannah (Gerard) Slye of St. Mary's County. Susannah Gerard was the daughter of Thomas Gerard of England who came to MD in 1636 and his wife Susannah Snow, sister of Justinian Snow.

George Plowden, the pioneer (1663-1717) was the son of Francis Plowden, d. ca. 1676, eldest son and heir to Lord Edmund Plowden of England, Earl of Albion. Lord Plowden had been given a charter by King Charles the First to colonize and rule over that part of America that is now the state of NJ. Despite several attempts to colonize New Albion, as he called it, personal, financial and political misfortunes doomed him to failure.

Children (Jenkins):

134 i. Caroline Elizabeth.
135 ii. George Plowden.
136 iii. Mary Jane.
iv. Edmund Plowden, b. Nov 19, 1813, Lieutenant, United States Navy, m. May 16, 1846, Elizabeth A. Morton of New Orleans, LA. He d. young and without issue.
137 v. Cecelia Ann.
138 vi. Margaret Agnes.
139 vii. John William.

72. MARY HEARD JENKINS (36)
B. ca. 1787; d. Apr 12, 1831; m. Robert Morris (or Morrow). They had at least two daughters.

Children (Morris or Morrow):

i. Mary.
ii. Eleanor.

73. ELEANOR ARRELL JENKINS (36)
B. Sep 15, 1790; d. Jul 19, 1818; m. James B. Pye.

Children (Pye):

i. Sarah Marion, b. Oct 9, 1816; d. Apr 12, 1831.
ii. Edward Arrell, b. Jul 9, 1818; d. Apr 12, 1831.

These two grandchildren are mentioned in (22) George's will of 1831, in which they are bequeathed all of his real estate in Alexandria, D.C. In his will, George Jenkins also made the following bequests:

To my grandson, George Plowden Jenkins, his dwelling plantation, "Retirement," 600 acres "more or less" and another tract called "Montrose," 499 acres, "more or less".

To McDonough's Charity School, for the education of poor children, $50.00.

To my son John J. Jenkins' children by his first wife, all personal property.

To the Archbishop of Baltimore, a lot in Charles County, adjoining "Retirement," to build a church on, provided he builds it within ten years.

74. JOHN R. JENKINS (39)
B. Mar 9, 1814, in Nelson County, KY, and d. in 1879 in Union County, KY. He was buried in the Sacred Heart Cemetery at St. Vincent, KY. On Oct 2, 1837, he m. Theresa Payne,[16] b. Dec 20, 1820, in Nelson County and d. Oct 14, 1897, at New Hope, KY. Mrs. Theresa (Payne) Jenkins d. at the home of her son, The Reverend Thomas Jefferson Jenkins, then pastor of the Catholic Church at New Hope. The same tombstone in the St. Vincent de Paul Cemetery at New Hope carries the record of both Father Jenkins and his mother. On the side of the stone appears the following inscription:

Pray for the soul of Teresa P. Jenkins
December 20, 1820
October 14, 1897
The Venerable Mother of Father Jenkins

The death of Mrs. Jenkins was entered by her son, Father Jenkins, in the Parish Register of Interments in the following words:

October 14, 1897, In Vigilia St. Teresiae
12 M. migravit ad superos Teresia Payne Jenkins, mater dilectissima, aet. 79.
Signed Thomas J. Jenkins

October 14, 1897, on the Vigil of St. Teresa at 12 noon, Teresa Payne Jenkins, my most beloved mother, moved to a higher place, age 79.
Signed Thomas J. Jenkins

The administrator of the parish, The Reverend B. H. Harttage, wrote to Mrs. F. X. Wathen on Mar 26, 1949: There is a discrepancy of two years; however, I would be more inclined to hold to the age of 79 as recorded in the death notice, as that entire record is written by Father Jenkins.

83. THOMAS COURTNEY JENKINS, JR. (41)
Of Scott County, KY, was a prominent man and an active Catholic. In 1825 he was executor of the estate of his father, Thomas Courtney Jenkins.[17] He was a Justice in Scott County before and after 1828. He was a trustee of the local Catholic church. Ben Webb quotes a letter of 1808 from Thomas Courtney Jenkins to the bishop asking his advice regarding the purchase of some church property.[18] According to tradition he came to KY from Baltimore, in 1786 (when he was 10 years old). If this date is correct, he probably was brought to KY by his father, who seems to have d. there in 1825. He m. in KY about 1805, Elizabeth Tarlton, b. in St. Mary's County, Jun 25, 1785, d. in KY, Nov 9, 1862, daughter of Jeremiah and Eleanor (Medley) Tarlton. Elizabeth Tarlton was brought to KY by her parents in 1786. I think (41) Thomas Courtney Jenkins, Sr., must have been the son of (21) Joseph Jenkins, b. in 1749. This would make him 26 years old when Thomas, Jr., was b., and about 76 when he d. in 1825. Thomas Courtney Jenkins, Jr., and his wife are both buried at St. Francis Mission, near Georgetown, KY, with marked tombstones. They can be proved to have had the following eleven children, whose descendants are given in as much detail as I now know.[19]

Tombstones in St. Francis Cemetery, White Sulfur, Scott County, KY:

Thomas Courtney Jenkins, born 1775,

100. ELLEN MARIA JENKINS (46)
B. Dec 20, 1824; d. Dec 12, 1879; m. Feb 13, 1849, by Father DeLicol, S.S., John Corish Devereux of Utica, NY, b. Apr 24, 1823; d. in Utica, Dec 12, 1884; son of Nicholas (Jun 7, 1791-Dec 29, 1855), and Mary (Butler) Devereux of Utica, NY. (See Allied Families - Devereux.) Data on the Devereux family was all sent to me in the spring of 1956 by Mr. F. Ramsey Devereux (of (186) Nicholas Edward Devereux), of Harts Hill, Whitesboro, NY. Mr. Devereux very kindly got it from his Family Bible and by corresponding with various members of his family. The Devereux Family is extensively covered in "Devereux of the Leap, County Wexford, Ireland and of Utica, New York -- Nicholas Devereux 1791-1855" by Clifford Lewis III and John Devereux Kernan, 1974. Therefore, this family history will carry into the sixth generation and will terminate after listing the grandchildren of (100) Ellen Maria (Jenkins) Devereux.

Children (Devereux):
186 i. Nicholas Edward.
187 ii. Mary Loretto.
iii. Thomas Meredith, b. Oct 30, 1852; d. Mar 8, 1932; m. Grace Peters, b. 1868; d. Jul 11, 1941; of Cincinnati, OH, where they lived. They had one child who d. very young.

121. THOMAS PETER JENKINS (63)
B. Oct 20, 1816; d. Oct 24, 1899; in Baltimore; m. Nov 26, 1844; at St. Vincent de Paul's Church, Baltimore, Mary Euphemia de Ronceray, b. Oct 10, 1822; d. May 16, 1893; daughter of Charles de Ronceray, a gentleman of French extraction who had quite a reputation as a musician and composer. It is to Thomas Peter Jenkins' interest in genealogy that we owe our unusually complete knowledge of (34) Captain Thomas Jenkins, his brothers, sisters, wife and children. Over 100 years ago he obtained from his first cousin, (124) William Henry Jenkins of Baltimore, (1819-1904), son of (64) William V. Jenkins of (34) Captain Thomas Jenkins, many data that William copied out of the family Bible of Captain Thomas Jenkins, then in his possession. Thomas Peter Jenkins copied this in his own family Bible which had been begun by his father Henry in 1809 when he m. This Bible is now in the possession of (358) Mrs. Beverley (Ruth Jenkins) Bristor of Towson, Thomas Peter's granddaughter. I copied the entire family record from it in 1957. I also copied all the old letters. I do not know where Captain Thomas Jenkins' family Bible is now, (1978). I suppose some of William Henry Jenkins' descendants have it.

Children (Jenkins):

i. Mary Anastasia, b. Nov 26, 1846; d. May 9, 1931; unmarried.
ii. Henry Charles, b. Jun 22, 1849; d. Dec 4, 1892; m. Aug 2, 1885, at St. Edward's Church, Calverton, Mary A. Sarbacher. D. without issue.
216 iii. Thomas Vatble.

122. CHARLES FRANCIS JENKINS (64)
Emigrated to Caldwell, KY in 1835; m. a Miss Arthur Williams (Ambrosia Faxon) in 1838, and was in the State Legislature and was sheriff of the county for 20 years. In 1861 he went with his six children and twelve grandchildren to Earthland County, TX. Five of his sons were killed in the Confederate army. He was still living in 1895, and had become quite wealthy. (Ambrosia Faxon)

123. CYPRIAN JENKINS (64)
B. ca. 1811; d. Dec 28, 1893; went to Homosassa, FL, where he became a very prominent man; he had three children. Ambrosia Faxon gives a long sketch of his adventurous life, based on letters he wrote her about 1890.

124. WILLIAM HENRY JENKINS (64)
B. Nov 24, 1819; d. ca. 1904; m. Aug 5, 1847; by Father Kelly, Ann Catherine Lawrence, b. Aug 31, 1823. He was survived by several sons and one daughter. He sent his first cousin, Thomas Peter Jenkins, of Baltimore, a lot of data which he said he copied from the family Bible, "now in my possession." Thomas copied all this into his own family Bible where it can still be seen, along with William's letter. William Henry Jenkins was a veteran of the Mexican War and a member of the Ancient and Honorable Mechanical Company of Baltimore.

125. FELIX JENKINS (65)
B. in Baltimore, Oct 11, 1825, the eldest son. As a boy he knew Edgar Allen Poe who was a friend of his father. Felix Jenkins was one of the most respected physicians of Baltimore and a loyal member of the Cathedral parish. He was a trustee of the Cathedral and the personal physician of Cardinal Gibbons.

Felix, Jr., was a student in St. Mary's College, Baltimore, for six years, graduating in 1844 with the degree of Master of Arts. In 1845 he began "reading medicine" in the office of Dr. Dunbar in Baltimore, and in 1850 received the degree of Doctor of Medicine from the University of Maryland. From 1848 to 1850 he was also a part-time instructor at St. Mary's College. He practiced medicine for fifty years in Baltimore, retiring in 1900.

He m. May 7, 1861, a distant cousin, (174) Nancy (Ann) (Spalding) Jenkins, daughter of (94) William Spalding and Verlinda (Lilly) Jenkins of Conewago, PA. She was distantly related to him in a very complex way which is beyond me to figure out, since both of her parents were related to each other and to both of his, who were also related to each other. They were m. at the Sacred Heart Church in Conewago, PA.

Felix and Nancy Jenkins lived directly across the street from the Cathedral. Mrs. Nancy Jenkins d. Nov 2, 1904, aged 71.

From then to 1909 Dr. Jenkins continued to live at 400 Cathedral Street with his youngest son, Benjamin, who on Jun 7, 1905, m. Jane Marie Clarke of Scranton, PA. In Sep, 1909, Benjamin Jenkins moved to Wilkes-Barre, PA, to live with his family, and Dr. Jenkins went to the home of his daughter, Emily, at Towson, in Baltimore County. He was there only a few weeks when he d., Oct 9, 1909, two days before his 84th birthday.

Children (Jenkins):

i. Felix Samuel, b. Feb 15, 1862; d. Jan 29, 1943, at Pikesville; m. 1910, Regina Randolph, d. Nov 26, 1939, sister of the Reverend Bartholomew Randolph, C.M. who d. Sep 3, 1922 as a missionary in China.[2] Besides writing for the Catholic Encyclopedia she wrote for popular magazines. Felix received the degree of M.D. from Johns Hopkins University but for some reason, unknown to me, never practiced much. He lived in Conewago or McSherrystown, then in Baltimore, and finally in Pikesville, where he d. They had no children.

ii. Sarah Lilly, b. Oct 12, 1863; d. at Conewago, PA, Sep 5, 1865. She is buried there in the Lilly lot.

iii. Frances Helen, b. Jan 23, 1866; d. Jan 15, 1945; m. Apr 18, 1900, by Cardinal Gibbons, James Albert Hughes of Baltimore, who d. Jun 4, 1920; they had no children.

219 iv. Mary Emily.

220 v. Benjamin Wheeler.

vi. Samuel Lilly, b. May 27, 1874; d. Dec. 18, 1880, of diphtheria, which was at that time a dreaded and fatal children's disease. Since the discovery of the antitoxin ten or fifteen years later it has become almost unknown.

126. JULIUS (ALBERT) JENKINS (65)
B. Mar 20, 1833, and d. at Lebanon, Nelson County, KY, Aug 15, 1890. He m. at the old Cathedral of Nashville, TN, Dec 28, 1854, by Bishop R.P. Miles, Ellen Katherine Ingram of Mount Pleasant, TN, b. Jul 28, 1834; d. ca. 1922, daughter of Samuel Ingram, from Wales, and his wife, Amelia Worland of KY. They lived at Lebanon, Nelson County, KY.

Albert Julius, youngest son of Felix and Frances Helen (Wheeler) Jenkins, was baptized Julius Albert.[3] Being less robust that his brothers, Felix and Michael, he was not sent to college. At the age of 19 or 20 he was sent to KY to live with some of his mother's relatives, by the name of Green or Wheeler. There he met and m. Ellen Katherine Ingram. Ellen's mother, Mrs. Amelia Worland Ingram, was a member of one of the pioneer Catholic families in KY.[4]

Mrs. Ellen Katherine (Ingram) Jenkins d. in Montgomery, AL, ca. 1922 at the age of 89. Albert d. in 1890, on "the Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin," according to the family Bible. They were m. Dec 28, 1854, in the old Cathedral in Nashville, TN, by the first Bishop of Nashville, Richard Pius Miles. They were buried in Lebanon, KY, with several of their children.

The following list of their descendants is based on the H.A. Browne-Jenkins Family Tree, the above cited article in Mackenzie, on a History of the Jenkins Family published in the Baltimore Sun on Mar 4, 11, and 18, 1906, a letter from a friend and relative of Frances Helen Jenkins, Albert's daughter; and a letter from Olive Lewis Kolb (Mrs. Willard E. Kolb, West Lafayette, IN). The occasion of the Jenkins History in the Baltimore Sun was the sale and subdivision of Sleepy Hollow, a big farm that was one of the landmarks of the Long Green Valley, Baltimore County, which up to that time had been owned only by the Indians and the Jenkinses. The compiler of this long and detailed family history must have had the help of some member of Albert's family, probably that of his daughter Amelia (Minnie, Mrs. Josias Jenkins George, my god-mother), who lived at Ellendale, Baltimore County. This valuable history is full of mistakes in some areas but in this, and others, it is accurate. It was brought up to date in 1922, possibly by Albert's daughter, Miss Frances Helen Jenkins of Montgomery, AL, who sent a copy of it to her friend and cousin, Mrs. Francis X. (Marguerite Jenkins) Wathen of Rocky Ford, CO. Mrs. Wathen lent me her copy in 1957, and I copied it.[5]

220. BENJAMIN WHEELER JENKINS (125)
B. Dec 2, 1871; d. Jan 30, 1955; m. Jun 7, 1905, by Bishop Hoban of Scranton, PA; Jane Marie Clarke, b. Dec 6, 1874; d. Feb 21, 1915; daughter of Matthew Walter Clarke and Mary Clark of Scranton, PA. They lived in Baltimore, at 400 Cathedral street, until the fall of 1909, then in Wilkes-Barre, PA, until 1924, then in Scranton, PA until 1931, and then in Philadelphia. My mother d. in Wilkes-Barre and is buried there in St. Mary's Cemetery, Hanover, PA. My father d. in 1955 at the home of his son Benjamin Wheeler in Wyncote, PA, and is buried there in the Holy Sepulchre Cemetery. He was educated by the Christian Brothers at Calvert Hall until he was about fourteen, and then for a year at the Georgetown Preparatory School. He then quit school and went to work as a stock room clerk in the wholesale drygoods and notions firm of R.M. Sutton, in Baltimore. In 1890 at the age of 18 he became a salesman for the Maryland Biscuit Company and within a a few years became its treasurer. Benjamin Jenkins worked for the Maryland Biscuit Company until 1909. Father then accepted a very attractive offer from Ed and George Clarke, his brothers-in-law, to come into their firm as treasurer. So in Sep, 1909, Mr. & Mrs. Benjamin Wheeler Jenkins, with their two sons, Edward and George, moved to 217 South Franklin Street, Wilkes-Barre, PA. Dr. Jenkins, who was then an invalid, confined to a wheel-chair, went to Towson to live with his daughter Emily, Mrs. Tom Offutt, where he d. about a month later.

The third, and last son, Benjamin Wheeler Jenkins, Jr., was b. in Wilkes-Barre on Mar 6, 1911. On Feb 21, 1915, Mrs. Jane (Clarke) Jenkins d. of leukemia, after a very short illness. She is buried in St. Mary's Cemetery, Hanover, PA, near Wilkes-Barre.

In the meanwhile, I had graduated from Villanova and had entered the novitiate of the Augustinian Order in Sep, 1927. In that same month my father moved to Philadelphia, PA where he lived in an apartment with his two younger sons, George and Benjamin, Jr., the latter was called Wheeler.

George Clarke Jenkins, second son of Benjamin Wheeler Jenkins Sr. and Jane Clarke Jenkins, was born in Baltimore, MD. He studied at the University of Pennsylvania School of Architecture and got his start in scenic design by winning a competition sponsored by the Art Alliance of Philadelphia. One of the judges in the competition was Donald Oenslager who recommended George to another great scenic designer, Joe Melziner, whose assistant he became.

During his career he has used revolving stages many times and was one of the innovators in the use of this type of stage construction. After working several years in New York for Joe Melziner his success there took him to Hollywood to work for Samuel Goldwyn. His career has encompassed working on movies, stage and television presentations culminating in his winning an "Oscar" for the scenic design in "All The President's Men", a movie concerning the Watergate scandal. Since that time he has become one of the most sought after art directors in the industry. "The China Syndrome", a movie about a nuclear power plant emergency, was nominated for an "Oscar" the following year.

At present he maintains residences and works in Hollywood and New York. He is married to Phyllis Adams of New York.

210 EIGHTH GENERATION

442. THOMAS COURTENAY JENKINS, JR. (280)
D. Nov 1, 1985.

With the deepest respect and sorrow I must report the untimely death of Courtenay Jenkins. He contributed so much of his time and knowledge in helping me present our family history - "THOMAS JENKINS OF MARYLAND-1670" - that without his dedicated efforts this record might not have been completed.

His friends and relatives are forever indebted to him.

TEST OF CHARACTER

There is no more searching test of the human spirit than the way it behaves when fortune is adverse and it has to pass through a prolong period of disappointing failures. Then comes the real proof of the man. Achievement, if a man has the ability, is a joy; but to take hard knocks and come up smiling, to have your mainsail blown away and then rig a sheet on the bowsprit and sail on - this is perhaps the deepest test of the character.

FAMILY ORIGIN

Reverend Edward F. Jenkins

Vaughan, (See p. 286), a Welsh historian, in an article on the Jenkins family of Wales, says that William Jason Jenkins, brother of Sir Lionel, did have a son Thomas and also a son Michael. (Congressional Library, Da700, A66, 6 ser, volume 1.) I think he also says that Thomas was born in 1642. According to Mrs. Ambrosia Jenkins Faxon, both these sons came to Maryland and settled down on adjacent farms in Charles County. Our ancestor Thomas Jenkins is sometimes referred to nowadays as Thomas ap Jenkins. This is a good Welsh name, but if he ever applied it to himself I know nothing of it. The name Jenkins, however, is spelled in various ways: Jinkins, Genquens, etc., which proves nothing but that people spelt phonetically in the old days, even more than they do now. Another reason for thinking that our ancestor Thomas was a son of this prominent Welsh family is that he seems to have been quite a rich young man. He paid for the transportation of himself and his wife to Maryland, and was not there long before he bought three farms totalling 620 acres.

Many of the early Maryland records, i.e., those before 1700, have been lost, and Vaughan says that most of the Welsh records of this family were destroyed years ago when the parish church burned down.

Vaughan gives the history of the Welsh Jenkins family back to the thirteenth century. The family, however, could not have been called Jenkins much before 1600, as it was about that time that the Welsh adopted family names in the modern English style. Apparently, when family names were adopted, one could choose any name he wanted, and some cases are known where each of a family of brothers chose a different family name probably for reasons other than to make things more difficult for future genealogists. One way of making an English name out of a Welsh name was to drop the ap or ab -- which meant son of -- and put the father's Christian name in the possessive case by adding an s. Thus, Williams from ap William, Jones from ap John, and Jenkins from ap Jenkin (little John). Another way was to drop the a of the ap or ab and fuse the remaining letter with the father's Christian name, thus ap Rhys became Price, ab Evan became Bevan, and ap Hugh became Pugh.

The following paragraph of the Welsh genealogy by Vaughan shows that at least some of the family were Catholics in Wales about 1650:

> The Welsh name of Jason Jenkins was Jevan ap Jenkin and that of his brother Sir Leoline was Llewlyn ap Jenkin. Their father was Jenkin ap Llewlyn of Llanblethian, who married Elizabeth, daughter of David of Pennlyne. Elizabeth's brother, Rhys David of Pennlyne, had two sons, William ap Rhys, a Catholic priest, and David ap Rhys, who took the name of Charles Price. Jason Jenkins lived at Maendy or Maendw, which lies between Cowbridge and Ystrad Owen, adjoining Llanblethian. Jenkin ap Llewelyn was the son of Llewelyn ap Gwylim Gwyn of Carregfawr, who married Angharad, daughter of Morgan ap Rhys ddu.

Since the family religion has been Catholic ever since the arrival of Thomas and Ann Jenkins in Maryland, and apparently was so in the earlier generations in Wales, I think we may safely assume that our branch of the Welsh Jenkins family held to the faith of their ancestors during the persecutions of Henry VIII, Edward VI, and Elizabeth I.

In 1906 a book called the Jenkins Family of Maryland was privately published by Michael Jenkins of Baltimore. The publisher was one of the leading citizens of Baltimore and an exemplary Catholic; to the Archbishop of Baltimore and various Catholic institutions he gave, during his lifetime, very generously. To honor him, Pope Pius X made him a Duke of the Holy Roman Empire. Michael and his wife were cousins: she was Mary Isabel Jenkins of Charles County, Maryland. They were both interested in genealogy and Mrs. Jenkins, in particular, devoted quite a lot of time to it. In this pleasant work she was assisted by her lifelong friend and cousin, Mrs. Ambrosia Jenkins Faxon, of Baltimore. The book, which was published anonymously with an introduction by Mrs. Jenkins, was dedicated to Mrs. Faxon, by whom it was written. It can be found in the D.A.R. Library, Washington, D.C. It is a gold mine of information, but it is very disorganized and even contradictory in spots. One of the worst faults is the lack of references. Nevertheless, it does supply many clues to research. It is too bad Mrs. Faxon did not give the references for some of the very interesting and important things she said, and it is unfortunate that Michael Jenkins did not get professional help to put the book in good shape for printing. However, the ladies did their best, and, while lamenting the lack of references, we should be grateful to them. The following two paragraphs on the Welsh ancestry of our pioneer ancestor, Thomas Jenkins, and on William Jason Jenkins, his father, are taken from this book, which as usual gives no references:

"It is an indisputable fact that in the county of Anglesey, Wales, the Jenkins family was for generations one of the most prominent. The titled Barons of Snowden belonged to them. During Queen Elizabeth's reign because of services rendered in many of England's battles, a special "Coat of Arms" was conferred on them, adding the bloody hand and a cannon, supported by a lion, with the motto: THE RED HAND FOREVER. After the death of Elizabeth, they were staunch adherents of the Stuart kings, and when Charles I was beheaded, many of the family were compelled to leave England."

"When he was about eighteen years old, Jason Jenkins, or William Jason Jenkins, as he is also called, was appointed by the Admiralty as an Ensign in the Royal Navy. He first served under Admiral Robert Holms, Knt. and was on the admiral's ship, Hector, when the British fleet aided in expelling the Dutch from New Amsterdam in 1665. Ensign Jenkins was also in the great naval battle with the Dutch fleet in the English Channel, against De Rutter in 1669, when the English, under the Duke of Albemarle, won the most memorable victory then known to history. He later resigned his commission in the English Navy, rather than take the test oath offensive to his religious sentiments (Catholic), and is said to have gone to Spain where he achieved high rank and was a very useful officer in the Spanish Navy. He married in London in 1636 and had two sons: Michael and Thomas. His son Thomas was born in Wales in 1642, and was therefore about 27 years old when he came to Maryland in 1669 or 1670."

25 July 1976.

Dear Father Jenkins.

The enclosed may not be exactly what you desire, but I wrote what I considered possible about Thomas Jenkins and somehow discounted the statements previously written. We should seek only the truth about our ancestors and therefore use the rational approach.

I have no doubt of his being of the county gentry, and it is my belief that he was married in Britain and sailed shortly thereafter for Maryland. It was usual for ships to stop over in Virginia to unload cargo as well as settlers before starting up the Bay to Maryland, but I do not believe that he was actually domiciled there.

Members of the Catholic faith did not settle in the Northern Neck after the downfall of Puritan hold on the Colony and also during the persecution of the Catholics by the Maryland Puritans. In my study of the Brents who went to Virginia, I found no mention of the Jenkins being associated with them.

I am anxious to receive your reaction to my discourse. I can write only a few casual words if you wish and eliminate the improbability of the background of our ancestor. I shall not be sensitive to any deletion or criticism.

You have done a very nice history, with your own individual touch.

Very sincerely yours,

Harry Wright Newman

It is always gratifying to American antiquarians when a serious study is made of a group of interlocking families by a descendant. Such is the case of the Rev. Edward Felix Jenkins of Villanova University who has given a genealogical history of a number of Roman Catholic families whose progenitors fled England for the sanctuary of Lord Baltimore's Province where complete religious toleration was granted to all Christians.

The varied families are grouped around Thomas Jenkins, Gent., who emigrated before November 1672 to Maryland with his young wife, Ann, and settled in Charles County. The tradition persisted by members of the past generation that his father was Jason Jenkins of Anglesey, Wales, and that he was the older brother of Sir Leoline Jenkins, Knt., First Lord of the Admiralty under Charles II and a friend of William Penn. Apparently no research was conducted seriously among Welsh archives which from experience would require greater acumen than is possessed by a Philadelphia lawyer.

Leoline Jenkins, Judge of the Admiralty and the Prerogative Courts of England, was knighted on January 7, 1669/70, at White Hall during the reign of Charles II.* The belief that he was the First Lord of the Admiralty Court and therefore not of naval status.

While we would like to belive that the Maryland progenitor was a brother to the Knight Bachelor, certain elements in the life of Thomas Jenkins, the Emigrant, would have to be reconciled. Thomas Jenkins was a member of the Catholic faith throughout his residence in Maryland. It therefore can be assumed that he was born into the faith and that his brother or brothers would have likewise been. Yet other circumstantial factors may dispute this assumption.

When Thomas Jenkins emigrated to Maryland, Catholics had no right of franchise and certainly no Catholic would have been raised to a Judgeship of one of the hightest courts in Britain. Furthermore, the intimacy with William Penn is also questionable. The intolerable Quakers harboured great hatred to those who worshipped within the dogma of the Church of Rome and definitely astute William Penn would not have extended the hand of friendship to a Popish, as the Quakers usually referred to the Catholics.

Thomas Jenkins transported his wife and financed their passage which indicated one of sufficient affluence to pay the cost of the voyage. He was likewise literate all of which implied that he was of the county gentry, and since Jenkins is definitely a Welsh name, it is ample evidence to assume his Welsh heritage.

In the past, descendants have permitted their imagination to invade into the realms of unrealities, and as the imaginary statements are repeated, they become factual in the minds of the present generation. It has also been believed that Thomas Jenkins settled first in Virginia and married one Ann Spalding and thus transported her to Maryland where they were married at St. Mary's. If it be true, it had all the elements of an elopement.

*The Knights of England, by Shaw, vol. 2., p. 244.

In those days the paternal parent maintained a strict control over the maidens of his household and would not have permitted a daughter to leave his door and travel unmarried to another colony in the company of her fiance. The father would have insisted that the wedding and enfare would have occurred before traveling to another domicile. When Thomas Jenkins proved his landrights, he stated that he transported his wife and not "Anne Doe now my wife" which was the usual rhetoric in Maryland court records of that day.

The early records of Virginia show several members of the Jenkins family proving headrights (Thomas but no Michael.) As to members of the Spalding family, one Thomas Spalding was there in 1649 -- the only headright for Virginia prior to 1666. But would a staunch Catholic have gone to Virginia, when it was known that members of that faith were not only unwelcomed but were persecuted? Even Puritans, Quakers and other non-conformists were persona non grata and many had to flee to Maryland and the Carolinas.

Yet there is another contingency. Thomas Jenkins could have been raised in the Established Church and had married a recusant and been converted to her faith, or he may have accepted Catholicism through his own personal convictions. Without actualities, one has to deal in possibilities and even probabilities.

The English historic background when an ancestor leaves his native land to settle elsewhere often reveal or give some colour to his life and sometimes proves the reason for the desire to seek a way of life in a young and primitive country.

In the late sixteen sixties the Stuarts were back on the throne after a hectic and revolutionary rule under Cromwell. Puritan persecutions of members of the Established Church and such dissenters as the benign Quakers were manifold not to mention the Catholics. During Charles II it was a time of considerable leniency. James, Duke of York, heir-apparent to his brother, Charles, was a political force with catholic court intrigue. Charles himself had declared to his intimate supporters in strict confidence that he adhered to the Roman faith and was seeking means to put himself in a position to abjure the political ties that bound him to the Protestants.*

So the period in which Thomas Jenkins and his young bride entered Maryland was not the time of great persecution of the Catholics who comprised principally the countains and not the tradesmen and burgers of the towns. No children were transported, so a recent marriage had certainly transpired.

The other families which weave around the Jenkins saga for the most part are distinguished Catholic households such as the Wheeler, Elder, Spalding, and Lilly families. Mention should not be omitted of the Green family with several knighthoods which gave to Maryland the Second Proprietary Governor or the ennobled family of Plowden whose English ancestry equaled any which settled in the Thirteen Colonies. "The Jenkins and Allied Families" may rightfully be termed "Catholic Gentry of Southern Maryland" of which so little has been written.

Comment concerning article on Jenkins family in Wales by H.F.J. Vaughan in magazine of the Cambrian Archaeological Society; 6th series, Vol. I, part 3, July, 1901.

The Jenkins Family history by Edward F. Jenkins, O.S.A., (page 1) opens with a discussion of the origins of Thomas Jenkins, "the progenitor." The author of the genealogy cites a family tradition that exists concerning the origins of Thomas Jenkins, as follows:

> "It is a family tradition that our progenitor, Thomas Jenkins, was the son of William Jason Jenkins of Anglesy, Wales, who was the younger brother of Sir Lionel (Leoline or Llewellyn) Jenkins, who was First Lord of the Admiralty under Charles II and a friend of William Penn. As far as I know, there are no documents to prove this, but it may well be true."

Other information on William Jason Jenkins, purported father of Thomas Jenkins, is provided in the opening pages of the Jenkins Family Origin section of this book (pp. 279-281) and is drawn from the family tradition. We read that William Jason:

- Married in London in 1636 and had two sons, Michael and Thomas.
- Was appointed an Ensign in the Royal Navy, first served under Admiral Sir Robert Holms, was on the Admiral's ship Hector when this expelled the Dutch from New Amsterdam in 1665 and in the naval victory over the Dutch in 1669.
- Later resigned his Navy commission rather that take the Test Oath.
- Went subsequently to Spain and became a high-ranking officer in the Spanish Navy.

The purpose of the ensuing discussion will be to show that this family tradition concerning the origins of Thomas Jenkins cannot possibly be correct in many important respects.

To begin with, there most certainly was a Sir Leoline Jenkins who was born in Wales and was a judge, diplomat, and Privy Councillor in 17th century England during the time of Charles II and before. He became a Judge of Admiralty Court, but not First Lord of the Admiralty. (Article by Vaughan cited by author of Jenkins Family genealogy; article on Sir Leoline Jenkins in the Encyclopedia Britannica.)

Sir Leoline, who died unmarried, had a younger brother named Jevan (John or Evan), according to the article by Vaughan which is cited by the author of the Jenkins Family genealogy. There is no information in the Vaughan article to indicate that Sir Leoline had another brother named William Jason.

Sir Leoline and his brother Jevan were not natives of Anglesey in Wales. Rather, they were born and raised in Glamorganshire, Wales, which is at the opposite end of Wales from the island of Anglesey. Sir Leoline moved to Oxford and to London in later life. Jevan, according to the information collected by Vaughan, appears to have remained in Glamorganshire all his life.

Vaughan states in his article (published in 1901) that: "The information respecting the descendants of his brother Jeuan is not so precise as could be wished." (Vaughan, p. 216). Vaughan then notes that two families, one in Wales, the other in England, are said to be descended from this Jeuan (Jevan) Jenkins. Vaughan does not mention any connection between Jeuan (Jevan) and Maryland.

Jeuan Jenkins did have a son Thomas who died about 1725. However, this Thomas appears to have lived in Glamorganshire all his life. He married a Welsh lady and had a son Jeuan (baptized 1679) who later moved from Glamorganshire to Bristol. (Vaughan)

A purported verbatim paragraph from Vaughan which appears in the Jenkins Family Origin is not a direct quote from Vaughan. Vaughan does not indicate that the English name of Sir Leoline's brother was Jason, or William Jason. Nor is there any reference in Vaughan to Sir Leoline's brother Jeuan having had a son named Michael. Vaughan does not indicate the date of birth of Thomas ab Jeuan ab Jenkins.

There is thus no evidence in Vaughan to indicate that the Thomas Jenkins who came to Maryland in the 17th century was the nephew of Sir Leoline Jenkins of Glamorganshire.

The information provided in the family tradition with respect to the marriage, family, and naval career of William Jason Jenkins may be more reliable. But it seems most unwise to attach credence to this part of the family tradition until such time as reliable supporting evidence is uncovered. For example, if William Jason Jenkins, the purported father of Thomas Jenkins, was married in 1636, then presumably William Jason Jenkins has to be born in 1616 or earlier in order to be of sufficient and proper age to contract marriage in 1636. But this would make William Jason Jenkins a very old man, by the standards of the age, to be later at sea at the time of the expulsion of the Dutch from New Amsterdam and the naval victory over the Dutch in 1669. It seems even more unlikely that a man of his age (56 years at the time of the Test Act in 1672) would later be given a high-ranking position in the Spanish Navy.

In sum, in the absence of some scholarly research on the topic, the origins of Thomas Jenkins of Maryland remain very much of a mystery other than the likelihood that he was born in 1642 as he himself twice attested. If the existing family tradition concerning Thomas' origins is to be mentioned in the family genealogy, the obvious errors and shortcomings in the tradition should be noted, and the reader warned not to place too much credence in the tradition.

On the other hand, the very unreliability of the existing tradition points to the need for some further research on Thomas Jenkins. Since he was apparently a man of some financial means at the time he came to Maryland, the odds seem good that it will be possible to connect him to a Jenkins family in Anglesey, Glamorganshire, or somewhere else. The alleged facts concerning the naval career of William Jason Jenkins should be even easier to check from British Admiralty records. But whether there ever was a William Jason Jenkins, whether he ever had a son named Thomas and another named Michael, and whether son Thomas ever came to Maryland, are alleged facts that still remain unproven.

Given the years and years of work that have gone into constructing other aspects of the Jenkins Family genealogy, it would seem a pity to have this genealogy rely so heavily upon an erroneous and doubtful family tradition concerning Thomas Jenkins. Hopefully, some interested member of the family would undertake or finance the little additional research that may be needed in order to develop more reliable information on the origins of Thomas Jenkins. It is quite possible, given the state of contemporary genealogical research, that the missing information is already on file in the United States at the Library of Congress or in the archives of the Mormon Church.

Having visited Wales many times since 1968 I became increasingly interested in the Welsh origins of Thomas Jenkins, the emigrant ancestor who according to family tradition, migrated to Charles County, Maryland circa 1670, from Wales.

In anticipation of the forthcoming publication of the book entitled "Thomas Jenkins (1670) of Maryland, His Descendents and Allied Families," I commissioned this study by Dr. Madeleine Gray and Miss Andrea Duncan. While there have been previous inquiries into the origins of Thomas Jenkins, there is no known documented research on the subject. It is hoped that this report will serve to record research to date and perhaps stimulate further interest on the subject.

The origins of Thomas Jenkins, ancestor of the Jenkins family of Charles County, have proven intriguingly difficult to establish. His first definite appearance in the Maryland records was in November 1670, when he proved his right to 100 acres of land for transporting himself and his wife Ann into the province of Maryland. However, he was probably the Thomas Jenkins who witnessed a conveyance of land in Maryland in June 1669. Though generally believed to have been an educated and literate man, he signed his will (proved in October 1727) with a mark. The court records of the settlement of his estate mention "several brothers and sisters of the deceased," but these are nowhere named in the records. Thomas Jenkins is known to have been a Catholic at the time of his death: the list of his property includes a crucifix.

According to family tradition, Thomas Jenkins left his homeland in Wales because of religious persecution and emigrated to America from Bristol. If Thomas Jenkins came from Wales, it is most likely that he originally resided in South Wales: an area in which many families in the later seventeenth century were still openly Catholic, and in which many more had Catholic sympathies. From statements about his age which he made in depositions, he seems to have been born between 1640 and 1642. If he left Wales for America in the 1660's, it is unlikely that he would have done so specifically or solely for religious reasons. After the restoration of the English monarchy in 1660, the penal laws against Catholics remained in practical abeyance until the "Popish Plot" of 1678. During the period 1660-1678 there was a considerable increase in the number of overt Catholics in South Wales, and Mass was celebrated openly in some towns.[1]

Because the traditional accounts of the origins of Thomas Jenkins are so unsatisfactory and lacking in corroboration, it was decided to begin afresh and to attempt to identify the Thomas Jenkins who settled in Charles County in 1670 from the original records of the period, some of which have since been printed and indexed. Most of this research was conducted by Miss Duncan. She began by examining the printed sources available at the British Library. Bristol and America (A Record of the First Settlers in the Colonies of North America, 1654-1685) was first consulted. Bristol was the second port of Great Britain at that time, and the nearest major sea outlet for South Wales. In the Section 'Servants to Foreign Plantation 1654-1663 & 1663-1679,' she found five Thomas Jenkinses bound for Virginia. In the first period only about one has a place and origin, that of Ewenny in Glamorgan. There is however, no known pedigree of the Jenkins family of Ewenny and it has not been possible to identify a Thomas Jenkins there in the mid-seventeenth century. The second list names the ships Francis & Mary and Victory as the means of transport for two servants named Thomas Jenkins. A Thomas Jenkins is also named in the earlier section as being sent to Barbados. It is disappointing that no further details are given in the records on which this publication was based, but the search did highlight the frequency of occurrence of the name.

Miss Duncan then looked at the New England Historical and Genealogical Register - Vols. 1-112. This publication is the most comprehensive printed source on early settlers, and has a series of notable indexes. She checked every Thomas Jenkins, a total of 38 entries, but did not find anything on the ancestor of the Charles County family. She then checked the indexes for Jenkins names that are mentioned in the traditional accounts -- Benedict, Michael, Rowland, William, and Jason Jenkins -- but to no avail. The New York Genealogical Register was similarly searched, as it has a great deal of information on new emigrants who landed at New Amsterdam and later dispersed to other parts of America.

Next, Miss Duncan consulted various guides to American records in Britain, including C. E. Banks' Topographical Dictionary of English Emigrants to New England, Peter Coldhams' English Estates of American Colonists (1610-1699), and the seminal Emigrants to America 1600-1700 by J. Hotton, published in 1874. The last book includes a complete list for the whole period of Exchequer Licenses to Pass Beyond the Seas. Most landed emigrants who had been granted land in America by the Crown, or who had sufficient funds to anticipate purchasing sizeable estates, were obliged to obtain such a 'passport.' There was no mention here of any Jenkins. G. Sherwood published a supplement to this entitled American Colonists in English Records which had only two Jenkins references: a Walter Jenkins of Bristol mentioned in a will in 1743 and a Lieut. Jenkins of Rhode Island in 1744.

G. W. Marshall's A Genealogist's Guide was next examined for suggestions of further printed sources which might give Thomas Jenkins' place of origin. Of the works mentioned therein, Miss Duncan checked several volumes of printed Welsh pedigrees, the holdings of the Surtees Society, which has published much work on Catholic families, principally in the north of England, and the publications of the Catholic Record Society.

Miss Duncan also read the will of Sir Leoline Jenkins who is mentioned in the traditional accounts of Thomas Jenkins. Sir Leoline's will was proved in the Prerogative Court of Chancery in 1685. The will is very long, with some six codicils. Sir Leoline died childless; the only members of his family mentioned in his will were his brother Evan and his heirs. The vast bulk of the estate was bequeathed to Jesus College, Oxford. As Sir Leoline had originated from the Cowbridge area, Miss Duncan decided to examine a Prerogative Court of Canterbury will for a Jenkins in that district in the period 1660-1700. Cecily Jenkins, widow, had her will proved on 30 July 1676 by her son David Jenkins. No other male relative is mentioned in the document.

The most potentially valuable printed sources having failed to extend the knowledge of the family, Miss Duncan turned to original documents and calendars thereof, beginning with the Calendar of State Papers Domestic. This class of record covered everything from the appointment of army officers before 1660 to the registration of pedigress from the College of Heralds and the granting of Royal pardon to convicted criminals. If Thomas Jenkins had been granted land, money or even permission to leave Britain by the Crown then the record should be in the State Papers. Miss Duncan examined the calendars 1661-1680 but found no trace of him. She also searched the State Papers for the Commonwealth period and the Calendars of the Committee for Compounding with Delinquents (i.e., Roman Catholics and the like) but with no success. The indexes to the Recovery Rolls, which contain much information on Roman Catholics, were checked from 1650 to 1700 but again to no avail. The State Papers did mention a Michael Jenkins who was given a commission of lieutenancy in North Wales in 1650 but there is no reason to connect him with the Maryland family.

Miss Duncan then widened the area of research in the hope of finding and identifying a Jason or William Jason Jenkins with naval connections, because of the family tradition that Thomas was the son of a Naval Officer of this name. She first looked at The Commissioned Sea Officers of the Royal Navy, published by the National Maritime Museum, but this contained no entries for either name. It has to be borne in mind that there was in fact no such thing as the Royal Navy before 1660, individual command and ships being assigned as the need arose.

The volumes of the Calendar of State Papers Domestic mention a William Jenkins, owner of the ship Elizabeth & Margaret, who was one of those given letters of Marque to capture pirates in 1628. A William Jenkins who was master carpenter of the Gilly Flower and another described as a mariner sent petitions to the Admiralty Committee in 1653. An ensign called William Jenkins was mentioned in 1659 but he was in the army, in Col. Fitch's regiment at the Tower of London. The only other William Jenkins mentioned in these volumes is a county gentleman from Great Busby, Yorkshire, who gave several recognisances for good behavior while he was in London in 1650.

The State Papers for America and the West Indies 1669-74 contain references to several Jenkinses but none to Thomas, Jason or William. The Calendars of Treasury Papers and Treasury Books were also checked from 1600 to 1700, and the Journals of the Commissioners for Trade and Plantations 1688-1700, but with no result.

Miss Duncan then turned to the Thomas Jenkins who emigrated from Bristol to Barbados, and searched the indexes of Vere Oliver's Caribbeana. These also contain several Jenkins references but none to a Thomas Jenkins at the relevant date. The Colonial Papers (General and American series) and the State Papers Colonial are generally too late for our purposes, but the earlier volumes were checked to 1700 with, again, no result.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Gray and Robert Barnes of Perry Hall, Maryland pursued inquiries into Thomas Jenkins' pedigree and marriage. A comprehensive search of printed pedigrees and Welsh Jenkins families failed to reveal any Thomas who went to America in the late 1660's. The Mormon International Genealogical Index for Wales has no record of a Thomas son of William Jason Jenkins, or of a Thomas and Michael who were brothers, but the index is notoriously inadequate for Wales. The index for all English and Welsh counties was checked for the marriage of a Thomas Jenkins to an Ann Spalding before 1670 but nothing was found; again, the same caution as to the incompleteness of the index applies. Acting on the assumption that Ann Spalding may have come from Lincolnshire, Mr. Barnes checked all printed and indexed parish registers for Lincoln for marriages from 1650 to 1670 but with no success. No will of a William Jason Jenkins has survived in the records of the Prerogative Court of Canterbury or the Welsh probate courts.

All the obvious sources have been checked, we are left with very few facts and some more or less reasonable suppositions. The name Jenkins is commonest in South Wales; if Thomas Jenkins came from there, he would probably have emigrated to America through Bristol. He cannot have been a wealthy man when he left Britain, as he would have left some mark on the records, but he must have made enough money before 1670 to transport himself and Ann into Maryland and take up a substantial grant of land. He may well be one of the Thomas Jenkinses who came from Bristol to America as servants between 1654 and 1679 and who cannot be further identified.

One further problem is that many of the Welsh in the seventeenth century still used patronymics or concealed patronymics instead of surnames. Thomas Jenkins' father may well have been called Jenkins ap William or Jenkin Williams, for example. It is also possible that Thomas took the surname Jenkins not as a patronymic but to honor Sir Leoline Jenkins who does not mention Thomas Jenkins in his will but who may have been a distant relative. Family ties are important in Wales, and Thomas would have felt entitled to call Sir Leoline "uncle" or "cousin" on the strength of a remote common ancestor. This description could subsequently have been misunderstood to imply close connection.

Thomas Jenkins' traditional Catholicism is consistent with his having come from South Wales, an area in which many families in the later seventeenth century were still Catholic. His Catholicism may even have been one reason why he left Wales, though it is strange that he seems to have chosen to do so at a time when conditions for Catholics in Wales had improved. He may of course have been remarkably far-sighted and realized that further persecution was inevitable, and he may have left Wales as soon as he felt it was practicable for him to do so. Alternatively, although he does not appear in the records of Maryland until 1669, he may have left England and Wales earlier with his family as a child or a young man and may thus have escaped attention. He or his family may even have reached America through Ireland or continental Europe, in which case they would be all but impossible to trace.

	John Carrell (1758 - 1830)	m. 1786	Mary Judith Moore (1766 - 1817)
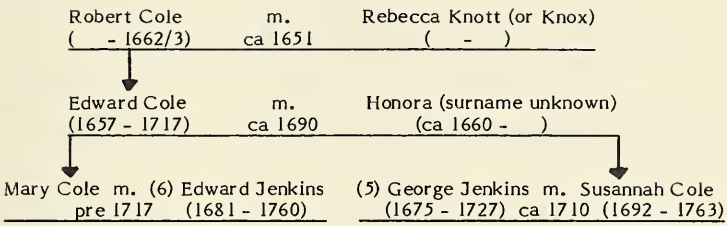
(89)	Thomas Courtney Jenkins (1802 - 1881)	m. 1830	Louisa Carrell (1805 - 1882)

It is not known when Timothy Carrell came to this country but he married in Philadelphia, PA, Elizabeth Mary Clater. She was a daughter of John and Elizabeth Mary Clater. In 1762 Timothy Carrell subscribed 27.12.6 to the building fund of St. Mary's Church, where he, his wife and two of his children are buried. In 1781 he subscribed to purchase of the old school-house and lot. He was on the list of pew-holders of St. Mary's Church from 1782 until his death.

In 1785, in the Philadelphia Directory, his name is mentioned as wine-seller and grocer, corner of Water and Chestnut Sts. He had three children, the first being John (1758-1830) who married Mary Judith Moore (1766-1817) of Lancaster PA. They in turn had six children, the first being Elizabeth Mary Carrell (1788-1863) who m. 1810; Fielding Lucas Jr. (1785-1855) of Baltimore, a bookseller and prominent civic leader in the first half of the 19th century. The sixth living child was Louisa Carrell (1805-1882) who m. 1830 (89) Thomas Courtney Jenkins (1802-1881) of Baltimore.

COLE



Robert Cole, emigrated to Maryland from his home in Middlesex, England about 1652, transporting his wife Rebecca, children and servants. He was the son of Madam Jane Cole of Middlesex and a kinsman of Henry Hanks of London and Benjamin Gill of Charles County, Maryland, who styled him "cozen". In his will he bequeathed him 500 lbs. of tobacco. He was styled, "Ensign" and it is believed to have been given him as a commissioned officer in the Militia. He was frequently granted tobacco from the public levy for public service. He died testate in St. Mary's County in 1663. A deposition was made after his death to the effect that he left five children by his wife Rebecca.

(7) William Jenkins (ca 1683 - ca 1755) m. ca 1718 Mary Courtney (ca 1696 - ca 1755)

James Courtney, was brought into Maryland in 1638 as a redemptioner through the patronage of Captain Robert Vaughn. He obtained the rights of a freeholder the next year when he appeared at court and expressed his intentions to marry Mary Lawne, a former maid-servant of Mistress Margaret Brent who arrived in 1683 with four maid-servants. Inasmuch as James Courtney and his prospective bride both entered Maryland in 1638, it is possible that they came over in the same ship and that the romance was culminated during the voyage. On May 29, 1639 in expressing his intentions to marry he stated that there was no precontract to any other woman and that there was no impediment of consanguity or apprenticeship. He gave his bond for 5000 pounds of tobacco. He frequently gave his proxy to Captain Robert Vaughn during the days of the early Assemblies. No record has been found of the settlement of his estate, but his widow was alive in 1664.

DEVEREUX

Nicholas Devereux (- 1698) m. (wife unknown)

John Devereux m. Margaret Clare

Nicholas Devereux m. "Mary daughter of Cavendish"

Thomas Devereux (- 1798/9) m. (2) Catherine Corish (- ca 1813)

Nicholas Devereux (1791 - 1855) m. 1817 Mary Dolbeare Butler (1797 - 1881)

John Corish Devereux (1823 - 1884) m. 1849 (100) Ellen Mary Jenkins (1824 - 1879)

Nicholas Devereux, (1791-1855), immigrant, b. in Wexford, Ireland, arrived in New York in mid 1806 and proceeded to Utica, NY to join his brother John who was established as a merchant there. John was seventeen years older than Nicholas and had opened the store in Utica in 1802 with money he had saved from operating a dancing school in NY and New England. When the first section of the Erie Canal opened, John and Nicholas Devereux purchased property on the canal for a store and warehouse. The quantity and variety of goods indicated that they were wholesalers. In 1823 John retired from active participation and the firm became Deverux and Co. In the same year the canal opened to Rochester and the co. ran passenger packet boats between the two cities. Nicholas left the firm in 1830. Before and after leaving the firm he was actively pursuing his interests in banking, railroads, insurance and land. The Devereux brothers were instrumental in helping found Catholic churches in Utica NY, Hartford CT and four other churches in the Buffalo Diocese. At least two other living institutions felt his hand in their foundings: St. Bonaventure University and the American College in Rome. More detailed information can be found by consulting "Devereux of the Leap, County Wexford, Ireland and of Utica, NY - Nicholas Devereux 1791-1855) by Clifford Lewis III and John Kernan Devereux, 1974.

Paul Aimé Fleury II (1852 - 1911)	m.	(196) Cecelia Corinne Jenkins (1860 - 1914)

Paul Aimé Fleury I, who came to America from La Rochelle, France in 1793, m. Clare Young of Baltimore Co. They d. in 1823 and 1848 respectively and are buried at St. Ignatius, Hickory, Harford Co, MD. The two times great grandfather of Clare Young was Henry Sewall, b. 1620, came to America from Coventry, England in 1661, and was in that year commissioned as Councillor, Secretary and Judge of Probate Wills for the Province of Maryland, which he held until his death in 1665. His widow Jane Lowe, in 1666, m. Charles Calvert, who later became the third Lord Batlimore. After his m. to Jane Lowe, Calvert made his residence at "Matapany-Sewall", the Sewall Manor on the Patuxent River, St. Mary's Co, patented by Henry in 1663. Henry's son Nicholas, b. 1655, d. 1737, Clare's greatgrandfather, was Secretary and member of the council of the Province of Maryland 1682-1689.

In 1679 Nicholas patented 1000 acres of land, "Sewall's Fancy", in the fork of Gunpowder Falls, Baltimore Co, which he deeded to his daughter Clare, in 1733. In about 1741 Clare and her husband Col. William Young established residence there and acquired an additional 275 acres. When Clare and Paul Aimé Fleury were m. in 1794 they built on the northmost part of the land of which 263 acres were inherited by Clare. It was called "Woodbine" and 65 acres of it remain in the Fleury family.

FORD

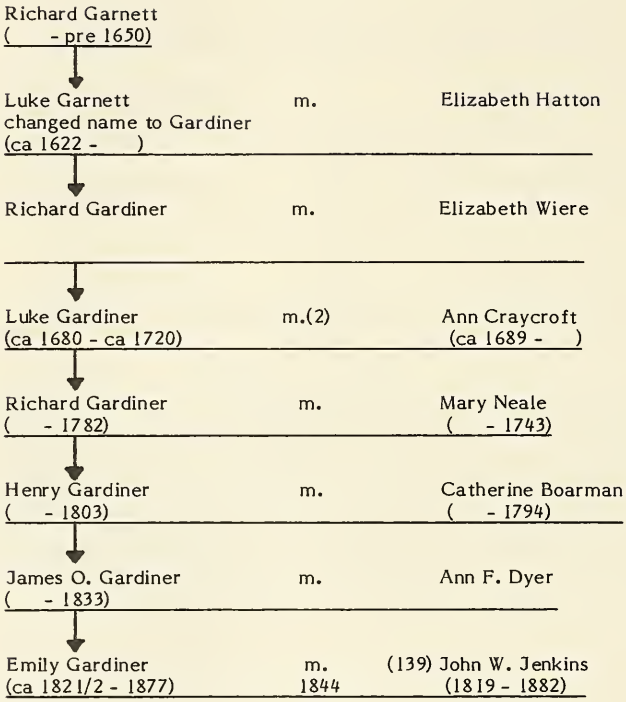
(98)	Mary Lilly Jenkins (1814 - 1905)	m. 1836	Dr. Joseph Ford (1811/2 - 1840)

John Ford Sr., b. probably in the mid 1690's was a planter in St. Mary's County. He had one child, John Ford Jr., by his first m. ca. 1716; his wife's name unknown. He m. (2) or (3) ca. 1746/8 Henrietta Neale, daughter of Henry Neale and Anne Gardiner and descendant of Captain James Neale, Lord of the Manor of "Wollaston" Charles County. They had six children. Their third child and son, Captain Joseph Ford, was a soldier of the Revolution and received a U.S. pension. After the Revolution Captain Joseph Ford established a successful shipyard in Leonardtown on the Creek back of the Manor house, which was still in operation in 1812.

GARDINER



Richard Garnett-Gardiner. The origin of the Gardiner family is somewhat of a mystery, but it was most likely Garnett and for some unknown motive the son and heir of the emigrant changed it to Gardiner. Then it could have been originally Gardiner and for political reasons assumed the name of Garnett when the family emigrated to Maryland. Richard, the Emigrant, used the orthography of Garnett as well as those of his children whom he brought to Maryland in 1637. In all extant court records of the first generation the name appears as Garnett. In 1640 Richard Garnett was granted Court Baron on St. Richard's Manor in St. Mary's County. He attended the early assemblies as Richard Garnett. He suffered at the hands of the Puritans under Richard Ingle who invaded Maryland in February 1644/5, when he and his family were forced to flee with Governor Leonard Calvert and other members of the Roman Catholic faith in Virginia. There are implications that he died in exile or was murdered as well as several of his children. Luke, the only surviving son, returned to Maryland after the Calverts regained their Province. He appeared in court and requested that he be known thereafter as Gardiner.

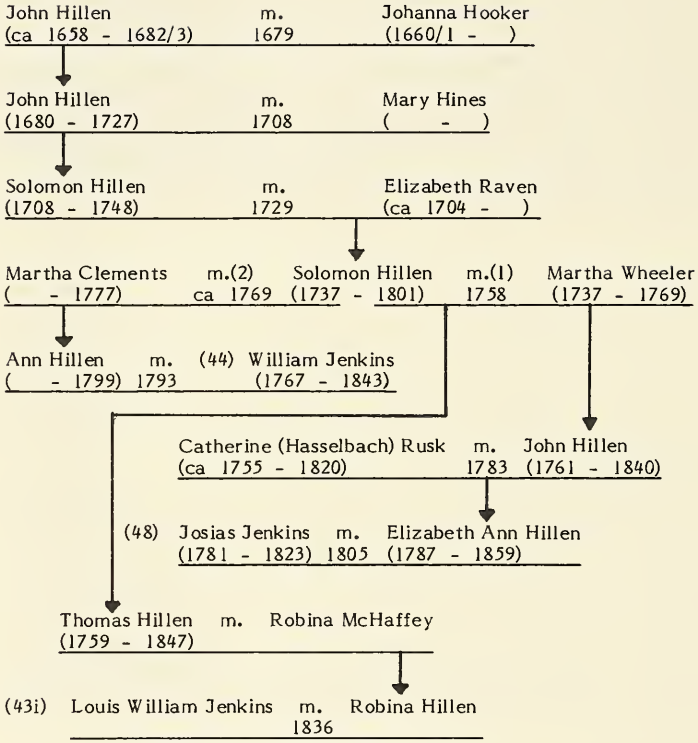
HILLEN



JOHN HILLEN, immigrant, was a Quaker and came to Maryland about 1673 and took up a plantation in Anne Arundel County on West River. Earlier there was in James City, Virginia in 1623, a John Helin, his wife, son and daughter and one Thomas Hooker, while in Hotten's list of St. Martin's Hundred, Va., is given, in 1623, the name of John Helline and his wife.

HILLEN

About this time the Indians were giving settlers much trouble. About 40 years later a John Hillen and his mother, presumably the son and widow of John Hillen of James City, VA, are noted as residing in "Bermuda". This was in 1662 or 1663. "Two islands before the entrance to Hearne Bay, one occupied by John Helyn, the other by his mother with a tenement, both containing 17 acres". After the Somer Island Company's law against Quakers in 1668-1669, John Hillen and his mother left for Maryland in 1670 and to Talbot County. John Hillen appears on Baltimore County land records in 1673 as from Anne Arundel County. Tradition has it that the Hillens were Welsh. In 1673 John Hillen who came to Anne Arundel County, bought a plantation at West River from Obediah Judkins of Talbot County and Jane, his wife. It included 300 acres in Baltimore County (since 1674 Cecil County) and for which he paid 400# tobacco. He died 14 January 1682 on his plantation on West River, Anne Arundel County.

JOHN HILLEN. One of the finest and most interesting characters of the Hillen family was John Hillen 3rd, the second son of Solomon and Martha (Wheeler) Hillen. Born 17 October 1761; died 12 August 1840. John Hillen came to Baltimore when quite young and entered mercantile life. He was a participant in the Revolutionary War when but a lad and later as a Lieutenant in the Fifth Maryland Militia, Independent Company, Captain Samuel Sterrett. Fought on 12 and 13 September 1814 at the battle of North Point. Later in life he was frequently appointed by the Orphans Court as guardian and trustee for various estates. It is of interest to know that he was guardian for Gunning Bedford who after graduating from Mt. St. Mary's College became a famous lawyer and judge in the city of New York.

John Hillen was for many years a member of the First Branch of the City Council from the Fourth Ward. He was also a member of the Ancient and Honorable Mechanical Company of Baltimore City, formed on 22 September 1763, and joined in 1792 with Thomas C. Jenkins and David Armour in 1802, as Director of Property men in Friendship Fire Company. He was also one of the commissioners for laying out Baltimore City according to Poppleton's Plat. The marriage ceremony between John Hillen and Catherine (Hasselbach) Rusk was performed by the Most Reverend John Carroll, Bishop of Baltimore, on 23 November 1783. The bridegroom was deeply interested in upbuilding the Catholic Church in Baltimore and was of great assistance, in those early days, to the first Catholic Bishop of this city.

HUNTER

(87)	Thomas Robert Jenkins	m. 1845	Rebecca Ann Hunter (1823 - 1905)

The Hunters, a Protestant family from the North of England, came to America in 1772, and settled in Chester (now Delaware) County PA. John Hunter, the immigrant, was a friend of Anthony Wayne and a vestryman, in 1725, of the St. David's Parish, Radnor, PA. John's son James is said to have married Martha Lewis and whose son Peter (ca. 1740-ca. 1806) m. 1775 Sarah Creighton, daughter of John Creighton, one of the early settlers of what is now Harford Co, and in the same year moved to the Long Green Valley, Baltimore Co, where they had a son John (1776-1834), Deputy Sheriff of Baltimore Co, 1800-1806; and High Sheriff of Baltimore City, 1806, probably the first of the family in America to be a Catholic, at least both of his wives were and all of his descendants were and are.

LILLY

SAMUEL LILLY, the progenitor of the Catholic Lilly family of PA was b. in Bristol, England, in 1699. The record of the city of Bristol shows that about 1725 a Samuel Lilly was living there with his father and mother, who were named Henry and Cecilia Lilly, and with his wife, Esther Bennett Lilly. Esther was the mother of his first two children, and d. shortly after the birth of Richard on Aug 16, 1728.

He m. (secondly) a Miss Anna Price, who was a Protestant. To conform to the law of England he was married twice on the same day, first according to the rites and requirements of the Catholic Church, of which he was an exemplary member, and, secondly, by a minister of the Established Church, to which his wife belonged. Mrs. Lilly later joined the Catholic Church.

According to John T. Reilly, Samuel Lilly came to Conewago, PA with his family in 1730 and immediately bought some land from John Digges. John Digges was a sort of lord who had a grant of ten thousand acres of land from the Land Office, Annapolis. He could pick the land himself, any unoccupied land in Maryland. He chose ten thousand acres which were thought to be in Maryland, but it was not long before rival claimants for the same land arrived from Philadelphia. Samuel Lilly's daughter, Esther, later married Dudley Digges, son of John. In a fight over the ownership of the land Dudley Digges was murdered in 1752.

Samuel Lilly had seven children, two of whom, Richard and John, had descendants who married into the Jenkins family as shown below.

RICHARD LILLY, b. Aug 16, 1728 in Bristol, England; d. Jul 8, 1792 in Frederick County, was the second child of Samuel Lilly and his first wife Esther Bennett. He m. ca. 1755; Mary Elder, probably b. ca. 1735; the only daughter of William Elder (1707-1775), a prominent Catholic gentleman, of Frederick County, and his first wife, Ann Wheeler, daughter of Richard Wheeler (of Thomas, of Major John) of Charles County. For further details see the Elder family manuscript and Wheeler family manuscript. Richard and Mary (Elder) Lilly had seven children, the second child was Thomas who m. (26) ELizabeth Jenkins, q.v. for their descendants.

JOHN LILLY, b. Jun 15, 1733, at Eden PA; d. Jan 27, 1822; age 88; fourth child of Samuel Lilly, and second child of his second wife Anna Price; said to have m. three times, but had children only by his second wife Verlinda Hardy, m. ca. 1754; of Harford County. For further details see the Lilly family manuscript. John and Verlinda (Hardy) Lilly had six children, the second being Samuel III who m. Hannah Cooper.

SAMUEL LILLY III, b. Mar 23, 1768, at Cooptown, Harford County (his mother's home); m. Jan 31, 1793, at the Church of the Sacred Heart, Conewago PA, Hannah Cooper, b. ca. 1766; d. ca. 1835; daughter of John and Hannah (Wheeler) Cooper of Lancaster County PA. In 1817 or 1818 he had the misfortune to lose a leg as a result of being run over by a heavy wagon. He was driving the wagon down the old Pike to Baltimore, and fell under the wheel. The leg was amputated at the knee - it is said he refused to take an anesthetic. I do not know what kind of anesthetics they had then - they probably let you get drunk - but whatever it was Samuel refused it. His daughter Sarah left school in Baltimore then and came home to nurse her father.

While the loss of his leg prevented Samuel from leading a very active life it did not stop him from becoming an important man in his community.

He owned a number of large and valuable farms, was one of the directors of the Bank of Gettysburg, and, at the time of his death, one of its largest stockholders. On Nov 19, 1823, he was appointed by Governor Joseph Heistler to be Justice of the Peace for District No. 4, composed of Mount Pleasant and Straban Townships for, as his commission reads, "so long as you behave yourself well". In the words of a contemporary biographical sketch, "He was an ideal country gentleman and led a life of leisure, his chief occupation being looking after his many farms. He was of English descent and his manner of living was very much like that of an English country gentleman and Justice of the Peace".

Samuel Lilly had slaves - the quarters were still undisturbed at the John L. Jenkins house at Conewago in 1916. There is a fine oil portrait of him which was painted in 1845 by Gephart of Philadelphia PA.* Samuel d. Sep 12, 1853, at the age of 85 at 'Clairview', his farm opposite Eden, which he inherited from his father, Samuel Lilly the First. The house is still in good condition and is inhabited by great-great-great-grandchildren of Samuel Lilly; by the name of Jenkins. The property has never been out of the family in the seven generations that have passed. (1985 - no longer family owned).

Hannah (Cooper) Lilly d. Dec. 21, 1835.

Samuel Lilly III and Hannah Cooper had three children, the third being Verlinda Elizabeth who m. Sep 26, 1826; (70) William Spalding Jenkins of Baltimore, q.v. for their descendants.

* In possession of Thomas W. Offutt - his great-great-grandson - 1983.

'Eden' was the name Samuel Lilly had given to his estate at Conewago PA.

MITCHELL

John Mitchell (1649 -) m. ca 1684 Mary (surname unknown)

Thomas Mitchell (ca 1685 -) m. ca 1707 Ann Wheeler (ca 1688 -)

Thomas Mitchell (1708 - 1770) m. ca 1728 (unknown)

(17) William Jenkins (ca 1713 - 1782) m. 1749 Elizabeth Mitchell (ca 1730 - 1777)

John Mitchell was in the Province of Maryland before June, 1680, when he presented a maid-servant at court to have her age adjusted. The next year he subscribed to the oath for the constabulary of Port Tobacco Hundred, Charles County, which seems to be his only public office. He died intestate before April 11, 1699, when "Mary Mitchell", wife of John, of Port Tobacco appeared in court and declared herself a member of the Catholic faith. His estate was appraised on May 4, 1670.

NEALE

	Henry Neale (ca 1691 - ca 1743)	m.	Mary Gardiner (- 1765)
	Richard Neale (- 1772)	m.	Elizabeth Boarman
(34)	Capt. Thomas Jenkins (1751 - 1821)	m. 1780	Mrs. Mary (Neale) Corry (1759 - 1812)

JAMES NEALE, immigrant, born ca. 1615, came to Maryland probably in 1636. "19 June 1641, James Neale, Gentleman, demands 1000 acres of land for transporting himself and 5 servants into the Province since the year 1635". He was granted a warrant for 1000 acres but also a special warrant from Lord Baltimore dated London, 25 July 1641, by the terms of which he received a patent dated 31 October 1642, for a manor of 2000 acres to be called "Wollaston Manor", with Court Leet and Court Baron. This meant he was Lord of the Manor with the right to try and render judgement in certain matters concerning the tenants. This Manor, situated in what was later to be Charles County, was long the principal residence of the Neale family.

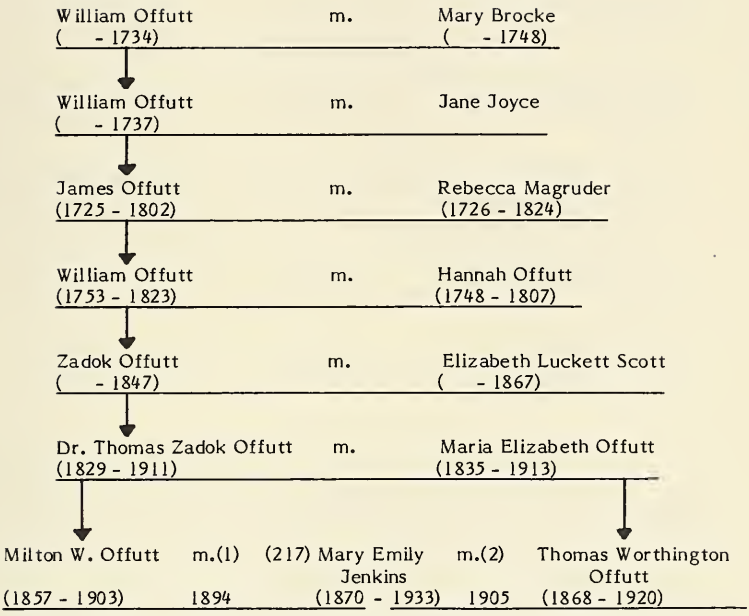
The Neales were prominent in Provincial government until 1689 when the Maryland Legislature passed a law making it impossible for anyone to hold office in the Province unless he took an oath (the test oath) that he was not a Roman Catholic. This the Neales refused to do, even with mental reservations as some did, and they retired from public affairs for nearly 100 years.

James Neale was a member of the Council of Maryland, 1643-4; and in 1661-2; he was a Burgess for Charles County 1665-6; Captain to raise troops against the Dutch, 1661; and Commissioner of the Treasury, 1643. In 1644 he returned to England and spent the next 15 years either there or on the continent as a representative of his Royal Highness, The Duke of York, afterwards James II, in the courts of Spain and Portugal. It was during this period that he married Miss Anna Gill, who was Lady in Waiting to Queen Henrietta Maria of England, the wife of King Charles I. It is said that the Queen was the Godmother of their first child, Henrietta Maria Neale. Anna Gill, the wife of James Neale, was the daughter of Benjamin Gill of Maryland. Her father had been a business partner of John Pile of Sarum and although he migrated to Maryland in 1642, somehow the other members of his family never joined him with the exception of Anna. The first four of James Neale's children were born in Europe. He returned to Maryland with his family in 1660.

In 1669 he was made Commander of Whorekill on the Eastern Shore, as a buffer settlement against the encroachment of the Dutch on Delaware Bay. He was styled Captain in all official records.

Captain James Neale died testate in Charles County, Maryland in 1683. His widow, Anna, died testate in 1698.

OFFUTT



(Milton W. Offutt and Thomas W. Offutt were brothers)

William Offutt settled prior to 1694 in that part of Calvert Co which in 1695 became Prince George's Co. He m. about 1699 Mary, the daughter and heiress of Captain Edward Brocke of Prince George's Co. He was early identified with Colonel Ninian Beall in the establishment of the Presbyterian Church in Southern Maryland. There are all indications that he was of Scottish ancestry. He d. in 1734 in Prince George's Co testate leaving a very affluent estate.

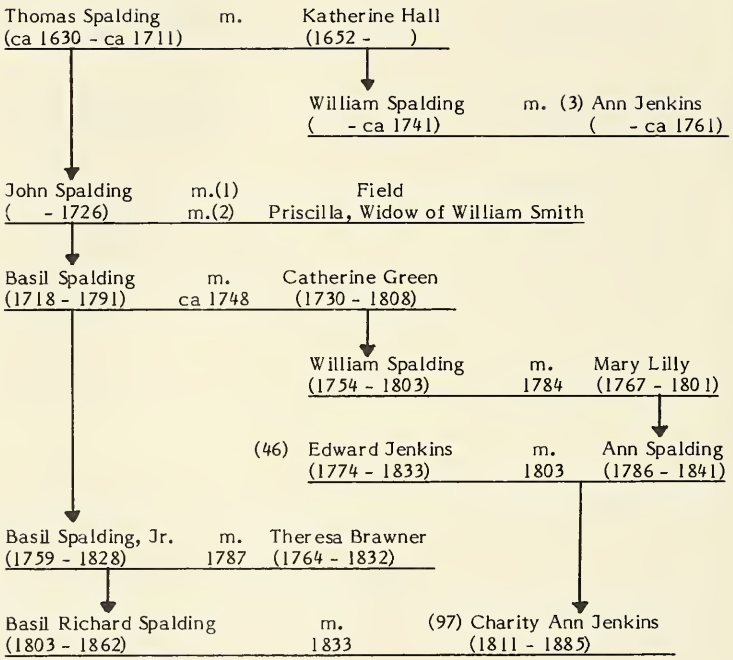
SPALDING



The Spalding family has some connection with the town of that name in Lincolnshire. Spalding is mentioned in the Domesday Book as a market town of some importance, so we may safely assume that it was in existence by the 10th century or earlier. The Old English word "spald" or "spalt" means split or divided, so that the name could be translated "place of division" and possibly was derived from crossroads or fork in the stream. The termination ing, so common in English names, is derived from the Norse inge.

J. M. Lalley
(1895-1980)

SPALDING

The name of Spalding appears in English history as early as the reign of King Ethelbald (A.D. 716-757). In a royal charter which established the monastery of Crowland (Croyland) in Lincolnshire, the monastery lands are described as extending in one direction usque ad aedificio Spalding. According to the 14th edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica, there are no traces of a settlement called Spalding in Lincolnshire until late Saxon times. It seems likely, however, that the present-day town of Spalding was preceded by a Saxon village of that name which was in existence prior to the establishment of the Priory of Spalding in 1051 by Thorold the Sheriff. In Domesday Book, compiled in 1086, the village or manor Spalding is listed as belonging to one Ivo de Taillebois.

As a patronymic, the name of Spalding has been in use since the 13th century or earlier, as is evidenced by a sale of land in the year 1267 to John de Spalding, a burgess of Lenn (modern day King's Lynn) in Norfolkshire. Thereafter, the name of Spalding is encountered repeatedly in Norfolkshire, Lincolnshire, Suffolk and Scotland. It is not clear, however, whether all these Spaldings were descended from the same person. The Scottish Spaldings, in particular, may have had their ancestral roots in place other than Lincolnshire.

The first major effort to trace the genealogies of Spalding families in the United States was undertaken by the Rev. Samuel J. Spalding of Newburyport, Massachusetts. In 1872 he published a book of 1,275 pages under the title of The Spalding Memorial. A revision of this book was undertaken by Charles Warren Spalding, a resident of Chicago, and published in 1897. The two authors trace the origins of many Spaldings in America to Edward and Edmund Spalding, who are presumed to have been brothers and who came to Virginia about 1619 and were living there in 1623. Sometime prior to 1640, Edward Spalding, his wife, and two children went to Massachusetts where they became the progenitors of a very large Protestant Spalding lineage. What became of Edmund Spalding is unknown. (The revised edition of The Spalding Memorial suggests incorrectly that he moved to Maryland and became the ancestor of the Maryland Spaldings.)

Mr. J. W. S. Clements, a prominent lawyer in Kentucky and great-great-grandson of Benedict Joseph Spalding, who migrated from Maryland to Kentucky in 1790, was the first person to undertake a major study of the Maryland Spaldings. After retiring from the active profession of the law in 1919, he devoted the rest of his long life to travel and to genealogical research. His book, The Origin of the Clements, Spalding and Allied Families of Maryland and Kentucky, was published in 1928 and later expanded. Mr. Clements showed that the Maryland Spaldings are descended from Thomas Spalding who came to Maryland in 1657 as an indentured servant to his cousin John Shercliffe (Shirtcliffe, Schircliffe, Shirecliffe) and later married Katherine Hall.

Other persons who have done extensive research on the Spaldings include the late Hughes Spalding of Atlanta, Georgia, who published a two-volume work in 1963-1965 entitled The Spalding Family of Maryland, Kentucky, and Georgia from 1658 to 1965; Mr. Charles Fenwick of Leonardtown, Maryland, who was president of the St. Mary's County Historical Society for 17 years; and Spalding P. Lalley (Mrs. J. M. Lalley) of Baltimore, Maryland.

WHEELER

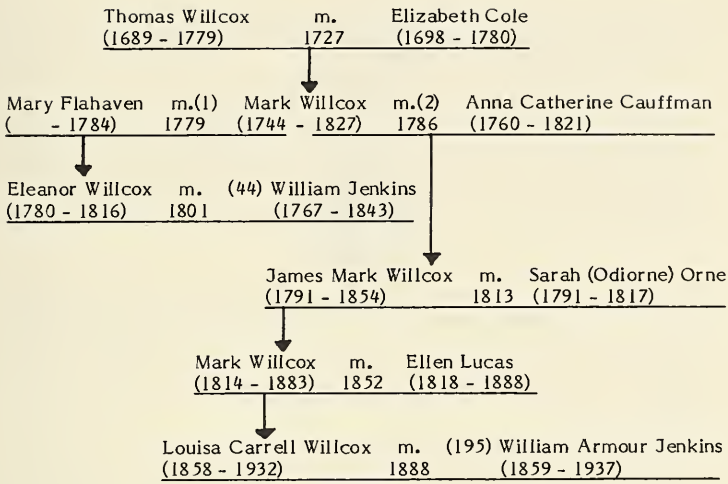
	Bennett Wheeler (1784 - 1866)	m. 1825	Frances Helen (Cooper) Lennan (1764 - 1844)
	Sylvester Wheeler (1829 - 1855)	m. 1869	Mary Ann Glacken (1835 -)
(279)	Bernard Samuel Jenkins (1866 - 1943)	m. 1899	Margaret Helen Wheeler (1875 - 1959)

John Wheeler, immigrant, arrived in Maryland from Debtford, England in 1651 on the ship "Thomas and James". It has also been said that he was in the Province as early as 1648. In 1676 as Captain John Wheeler he was voted 2000# of tobacco for public service. In 1681 as Major John Wheeler, he was commissioned one of the Justices of the Peace for Charles County, Maryland. He was also one of the Commissioners of Charles County 1685 and 1687. At the Revolution of 1689, when Lord Baltimore was deprived of the sovereignty of his Province, John Wheeler was relieved of his Majorship in the Foot (Infantry) of Charles County and was replaced by John Smallwood. John Wheeler's wife was Mary. He died testate in 1694/5 in Charles County. His son Thomas Wheeler and several grandsons had a part in the building of St. Ignatius Roman Catholic Church at the Hickory, near Bel Air, Harford County, Maryland. The church was completed 27 September 1792. It is not certain whether the church was named for the patron saint of Colonel Ignatius Wheeler, a Revolutionary War hero, or the founder of the Jesuit Order, since the Jesuits had the responsibility for serving the spiritual needs of that parish. Descendants of Major John Wheeler are eligible for membership in the Society of Colonial Wars and Colonial Dames and the National Society of Daughters of American Colonists.

WILLCOX



THOMAS WILLCOX, immigrant, was born in England May 12, 1689, died in Concord, PA Nov 11, 1779. He came from Exeter in Devonshire probably about 1712 and settled in Concord in 1718. His name first appears on the list of taxables for Concord Township in 1725. He was a lawyer and had been brought up to paper-making in England.

Thomas Willcox and Thomas Brown had entered into a partnership and built a mill-dam on the west branch of the Chester Creek after leasing the necessary property from Joseph Nickling on Jan 10, 1727. Then additional property was acquired for the erection of a mill. On Aug 4, 1729 the proprietors entered into the business of the manufacture of paper. This mill, one of the early paper mills in British America, was built on the West Branch of the Chester Creek in Concord Township.

On May 6, 1732 Thomas Brown leased his part interest to his partner for a term of seven years. At the end of that time by deed dated Jan 23, 1739 he reconveyed to Thomas Willcox his entire interest in the business and real estate.

It is said that Thomas Willcox brought Ivy plants from Ivy Bridge in Devon, England, and the growth of these plants covered the walls of the new mill giving it the name of Ivy Mill.

WILLCOX

From 1736 until the time of the Revolution, Benjamin Franklin was one of the chief patrons of the Willcox Mill. In turn Thomas Willcox bought many of his supplies from Dr. Franklin.

The Revolution cut the supply of paper from England and there was great difficulty in getting enough of the home product for commercial and other purposes. On May 10, 1775 the Continental Congress first gave authority for the issuance of "Continental Bills", and charged "to get proper plates engraved, to provide paper and agree with printers to print the bills." Thomas' son Mark Willcox was authorized to make the paper for the Loan-Office certificates. The first of this paper was delivered in Mar 1777. Supplying of this paper continued until 1783.

MARK WILLCOX was born Aug 19, 1744; died Feb 17, 1827, Concord PA. He studied law and entered the paper-making business with his father. In addition to the paper mill he served as Judge of Election for Deputies to the Provincial Convention in 1776. Judge of Election for Delegates to the Constitutional Convention, 1776. Member of the Pennsylvania General Assembly in 1788. Delaware County, PA, Auditor, 1791. Delaware County Judge from 1791-1824. Lieutenant Colonel of the 110th Pennsylvania Regiment in 1791.

There were two other Willcox paper mills in this same area, "Upper Glen Mills" erected in 1836 and "Lower Glen Mills" erected in 1845.

Because the hand method could not compete with the machine method "Ivy Mill" was shut down in 1866. "Lower Glen Mills" burned in 1888 and was never rebuilt. "Upper Glen Mills", the last of the Willcox paper mills, was sold out of the family's hands in 1924.
